STALIN GETS VETO RIGHT IN F. D. R. PEACE FORMULA

Invite 39 Nations to Ratify Plans of Dumbarton Oaks.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 5.—Russian Dictator Stalin got what he wanted in President Roosevelt's proposed "compromise" of the dispute over voting procedure in the Dumbarton Oaks league to enforce peace. He won the right of a big power accused of aggression to veto use of force against it by the other powers.

This was disclosed today when the state department made public the invitation of the big four powers—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China—to 39 countries to the San Francisco conference April 25 to complete the plan drafted at Dumbarton Oaks last August. Not having participated at Dumbarton Oaks, France declined to sponsor the San Francisco meeting as the fifth big power but accepted the invitation to San Francisco. Poland will make the 45th nation invited if her provisional government shall have been recognized before the conference meets.

Yalta "Compromise."

The voting "compromise" was reached at Yalta but its terms withheld pending consultation with France and China, which have now accepted it.

At Dumbarton Oaks the United States and Great Britain favored a procedure whereby force could be exerted against an aggressor if approved by a majority of the 11 members of the security council, including all big powers not involved in the dispute but with the parties to the dispute not voting. The Russian delegates insisted that the accused have a vote. So, for example, if Russia were accused of aggression, Russia could veto the use of force against her by the league.

Under the terms of the Roosevelt "compromise" an accusation of aggression could be considered by the council and measures for pacific settlement adopted by a vote of seven members of the council, with the parties to the dispute not voting.

What Stalin Wanted.

But on the question of employing economic sanctions or military force against the accused nation action could be taken only by the affirmative votes of seven members, including all the big five—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, and China. So, any one of the big five could veto use of force, which was what Stalin demanded at Dumbarton Oaks.

In his statement explaining the distinction between the two procedures Secretary of State Stettinius said that in the Pacific settlement of disputes "no nation, large or small, should be above the law." But when it comes to applying force to enforce peace the Big Five are placed above the law "for the practical reason," Stettinius said, "that the permanent members [the Big Five] of the council must, as a matter of necessity, bear the principal responsibility for action."

Gist of Program.

Stettinius explained that parties to a dispute would not be allowed to vote on: [A] Whether a matter should be investigated; [B] whether the dispute or situation is of such a nature that its continuation

BRITISH PRELATE CALLS POLE DEAL GRIEVOUS WRONG

LONDON, March 5 [Reuters].—Dr. Bernard Griffin, Roman Catholic archbishop of Westminster, accusing soviet Russia of having done a "grievous wrong" to Poland, tonight called on Poles to give the soviet union a chance to "redeem herself."

Altho Marshal Stalin had refused to yield to his British and American colleagues at Yalta, Dr. Griffin asserted that a breach between Russia and the west today would void all the sacrifices of the last five years. He addressed the Anglo-Polish Catholic association here today.

"Let me say frankly that no Englishman who retains pride in his country's honor can stand today before a gathering of his Polish comrades without embarrassment," the archbishop said.

Must Confront Realities.

"I do not wish to exaggerate the gravity of the present situation. I should not care to accuse British statesmen of infidelity to Poland. I do not, like many, accuse Prime Minister Churchill of selling both allies and honor for political advantage. Nor do I believe that his courage was unequal to the task of standing up to Stalin," Dr. Griffin continued.

He added that he was willing and eager to believe that at the recent Crimea conference British representatives did all in their power to save the integrity and freedom of Poland, but that they did not go so far as to break the "grand alliance."

"Before we condemn them for refusing to pay this price, we must, in justice, be quite certain that Poland has in fact been sacrificed. Before disappointment turns to anger and anger to bitterness we must confront the realities of the Russo-Polish tragedy. I call it the Russo-Polish tragedy because every honest man admits that there would be no dispute, no cause for grievance, and no tragedy if Poland had to deal only with the western democracies," the archbishop said.

No Russian Compromise.

"The facts are that Marshal Stalin refused to yield to the persuasion of his American and British colleagues. There would appear to be no Russian word for compromise." He asserted that between Stalin and the western statesmen, it was always the latter who had to compromise. "The alternatives before President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill were either to accept the Russian solution or to take the first step leading to separation and ultimately to a state of war between soviet union and the democracies.

"You may say that appeasement of a dictator postpones but does not prevent war. I beg of you, nevertheless, seriously to examine the crisis before declaring that it was the duty of the western statesmen to break with Russia."

Free Election Pledge.

Dismissing the question of the Russo-Polish frontiers as of secondary importance, Dr. Griffin declared that the important aspect of the problem was the future independence of Poland—"perhaps only another way of saying the freedom of the Polish people to elect the kind of government they desire."

He recalled that the British government had pledged itself to have free elections take place in Poland, asking his hearers whether they were wise to presume the bad faith of Britain. "You are wise if you have your suspicions. You are not wise if you act as tho the worst is inevitable. Give to your British allies a last opportunity to honor the pledges sealed by Polish and British blood," Dr. Griffin concluded.

WIDOW LOSES FIGHT TO ESCAPE TAX ON HENRY FIELD ESTATE

The Supreme court at Washington, D. C., yesterday refused to review a Court of Claims finding that Mrs. Nancy Perkins Field Tree, widow of Henry Field, must pay taxes on an annuity received under an agreement with Marshall Field III., a brother of Henry Field.

After her husband's death in 1917, the widow claimed dower rights in his share of a trust set up by the complex will of Marshall Field, grandfather of Henry and Marshall Field III. The will provided that if one grandson died, his share should go to the survivor. No provision was made for a surviving spouse.

Subsequently, Marshall Field III. agreed to pay Mrs. Tree a fixed life annuity of $85,000 so long as he received the net income from Henry's share of the trust. The revenue laws exempt from taxation amounts received under an annuity contract, but the Court of Claims held the annuity was taxable as dower income, or as income received by a trust beneficiary.

Mrs. Tree is the wife of Arthur Ronald Lambert Tree, another grandson of Marshall Field, now parliamentary secretary of the British ministry of information.

What's Behind Curfew Edict? House Asked

LIQUOR RULE CHANGE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 5.—A congressional inquiry into the "inside" motives behind the Byrnes midnight curfew order was demanded today by Rep. Bunker [D., Nev.] as members of congress and others confessed increasing bewilderment over the edict.

Bunker, who offered a resolution calling for house investigation, expressed the feeling of many when he declared the decree was a "senseless" concoction prepared by "power drunk administrative officials who didn't know what they were doing."

"There is no apparent reason for the order," Bunker said. "The alleged coal saving is microscopic. This smacks of dictatorship. Apparently, high government officials are trying to undo the 'early victory psychology they whooped up last fall. So they order a curfew to let people know there's a war on. The people know that already, and they don't have to be put to bed at midnight to learn it again."

Many Motives Suggested.

Members of congress and operators affected by the decree, meanwhile, reported a variety of other alleged motives for the curfew, few of which New Deal officials have ventured to advance to the public.

Some New Deal reformers reportedly urged the curfew edict as a move to help save the nation's morals, particularly those of the younger generation. They claimed late hours are boosting juvenile delinquency, particularly among young girls looking for excitement.

Other motives suggested were:

The New Deal is seeking to underscore the coal shortage to build up public resentment against a possible coal strike that might stem from the current dispute between coal operators and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers' union.

Gesture to Race Tracks?

The curfew was a sop to the race track operators, who have complained they were discriminated against by being singled out for a shutdown.

The cigaret shortage will be eased because night club patrons smoke a lot. Now they will go to bed instead.

War workers and others will be healthier because they will get more sleep, drink less, smoke less, and do less eating late at night.

The food shortage will be eased by reducing midnight eating, which is an extra meal that can be spared.

Allied nations and our own fighting men will be gratified to learn that less time and money is being "wasted" in night clubs.

The order was an appeasement gesture to those urging war time prohibition because it makes after midnight liquor sales illegal.

Less night club dancing will save war-scarce shoe leather.

Bunker asserted the order was particularly inane at this time, when approaching warmer weather will reduce coal demands, and "when victory is in sight and many factories have passed their peak production demands."

He charged the edict violates liberties guaranteed citizens under the Constitution.

HITLER NEEDS ROPE, NOT EXILE, SOVIET NEWSPAPER SAYS

MOSCOW, March 5 (AP).—Pravda declared today that Adolf Hitler cannot be sent to an island like Napoleon but "needs the rope."

Firm and specific decisions have been reached by the allied nations on those guilty of starting and continuing the war, Pravda said, adding:

"The U. S. S. R. has made a list of its war criminals and also has started to establish its rights to punish them and their associates."

The newspaper said other countries had taken these steps in handling of war guilt cases: France established courts for handling collaborators; Poland has set up special courts; Czechoslovakia has a list of 2,000 war criminals; Bulgaria has sentenced in Sofia three exregents, 22 ministers, and 68 Fascist deputies.

Hugh Grows Up and Up as a Cook for the Navy

San Pedro, Cal., March 5 (AP).—Hugh E. Skiles, 21, who says he's the tallest man in the navy, was a mere 6 feet 4 inches when he joined up three years ago. Since then, eating his own cooking, he has added an inch a year and is now 6 feet 7. A ship's cook 2d class, from Duncan, Okla., Skiles overhung his bunk. His commanding officer had a 7 foot bed installed.

TROOPS BOTTLE UP 4 REMAINING UNITS IN HILLS

Position Is Critical, Says General.

MANILA, March 6 [Tuesday] (AP).—Six Japanese divisions—perhaps 90,000 troops—of the 10 divisions defending Luzon have been destroyed together with considerable war materials, and the remaining forces bottled up in the mountains are under continuous attack by ground and air.

Gen. MacArthur announced today that Lt. Gen. Yamashita's forces still on this island are split up into a number of divergent groups which are bottled up in the mountains where supply is difficult, movements restricted, and control and communications present insuperable obstacles.

"These forces are being subjected to continuous attack by our air force while the pressure of our ground forces compresses them into a smaller and smaller maneuver space.

"Position Is Critical."

"Our guerrilla forces constantly harass their lines of supply with our naval and air forces blocking their route of evacuation. Their position is critical."

Only yesterday MacArthur announced that thousands of Japanese had been cleaned out of Ilocos Norte province, on Luzon's northwest corner, by guerrillas operating under an American army officer, Col. R. W. Volckman.

On Leyte Island, south of Luzon, more than 125,000 Japanese have been killed. This makes a total for these two islands alone of more than 215,000 Japanese killed, including some of the empire's best.

Fight in Mountains.

Slow enveloping movements against Japanese mountain positions north and east of Manila and progress of other Yanks moving toward the Cagayan valley were reported today. North of Manila, the 38th and 43d division closed on Nipponese in the Zambales mountains.

East of Manila, troops of the 14th corps eneveloped enemy positions along the Antipolo-Wawa line. This line, in the Marakina watershed, has been well prepared defensively by the enemy and considerable resistance has been encountered.

Other Yanks advanced along the Villa Verde trail and the Amblayabang river in the eastern extremity of Pangasinan province toward the Cagayan valley.

Advance in New Guinea.

The bulletin also added 1,068 more enemy dead on Leyte.

The air force was active over the whole Philippines, with 122 tons of explosives dropped on Jolo Island. Enemy shipping, railroad yards, and air bases on Formosa took another in a daily series of poundings.

In British New Guinea, long since by-passed, the bulletin said "our ground forces pushing eastward toward Wewak have advanced to within seven miles of the But air field." MacArthur announced several weeks ago that New Guinea is one of the by-passed areas where Australians have relieved American troops.

FLABBERGASTED, SAYS WPB AID OF WAR OUTPUT CUT

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 5.—Hiland G. Batcheller, WPB chief of operations, said today he was "flabbergasted" by the statement of C. D. Howe, Canadian reconstruction minister, that the United States, Canada, and Great Britain have agreed to a 35 per cent reduction in war goods output when Germany is defeated.

Batcheller said he knew of no such agreement and no such figure as the 35 per cent mentioned by Howe. He added he was certain WPB Chairman Krug knew nothing of the purported plan.

Howe said that the reduction agreed upon by the combined production and resources board, representing, the United States, Canada, and Great Britain, will affect all war industries in the three countries equally. He said Canadian facilities released will become available immediately for production of civilian goods.

SINATRA IS 4F; BOARD CHANGES ITS MIND AGAIN

Jersey City, N. J., March 5 (AP).—Frank Sinatra is back in a 4-F classification as a result of the unanimous vote of the four members of his draft board 19 at a regular meeting tonight.

Ira W. Caldwell, board chairman, said Saturday he had ordered the crooner placed in a 2-AF classification after notification from Washington that military officials had disqualified Sinatra for the second time because of a punctured eardrum. [The 2-AF classification includes necessary workers, 26 thru 29, who are found disqualified for any military service.]

Following the board meeting tonight, Caldwell announced the four members had voted unanimously to reclassify Sinatra 4-F.

2,050 Marines Killed at Iwo, Forrestal Says

Washington, D. C., March 5 [Special].—Marines killed on Iwo Jima up to Sunday numbered 2,050, Navy Secretary Forrestal disclosed at a press conference today on his return from a Pacific tour. In the battle for Tarawa, 958 marines lost their lives.

Forrestal said the Japanese on Iwo were stronger than had been expected and that they had five to six thousand more troops on the tiny island than had been anticipated. They also made very good use of their weapons, he added. The combination, he said, enabled them to present the most thoro and skilful defense the marines have yet encountered in the Pacific.

American losses were not out of proportion to the importance of taking the island, the secretary told newsmen. He said the joint chiefs of staff and the navy had no illusions on the difficulty of conquering Iwo.

12,500 Jap Dead Counted.

Terming the marine fighting highly successful, he pointed out that more than 12,500 Japanese dead had been counted and that more bodies probably had been removed from the battlefields by the enemy.

Both he and Lt. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, marine corps commandant, with him at the interview, credited teamwork and perfect timing for the success of the Iwo operations which are still in progress. Neither estimated how much longer the battle would last.

"Some of the caves where the Japs are fighting had as many as nine entrances, and one had an entrance corridor 600 yards long where many dead were found," Forrestal related in telling of his visit to Iwo.

In the assault on Iwo, he said, the navy used the "steam roller principle" of overwhelming sea power, air power and to some extent land power.

Japs Still Strong.

He termed the island "a vital sea and air gate to Japan and a place where we can put our air foot down." Its capture, he added, will put B-42 Liberators as well as B-29s within range of the home islands of Japan and will afford a base from which fighter planes can protect our big bombers.

He emphasized that despite American progress in the Pacific, Japan is still a strong enemy with probably 70 combat divisions and over-all armed forces of 5,000,000 men "which she can increase" with puppet troops.

"We have got to face the fact that the Japanese still have an army," he asserted. To defeat Japan, he said, the United States and its allies will have to defeat that huge force.

He has special praise for the admirals commanding the Pacific units and for Gen. MacArthur's Philippine operations against 12 enemy divisions, the largest Jap forces yet encountered.

Blue Monday Turns Black; Coal Dumped in Parlor

Boston, Mass., March 5 (AP).—Coal for the fires of the Ferrons arrived today, behind schedule, and Mr. and Mrs. Ferrons are sad. First of all, it wasn't their coal—those four dirty tons. Then something went wrong as the coal truck backed up to a neighbor's house. It plowed into the Ferrons home and deposited its load smack on the parlor floor.

Curtail Overseas Air Mail Service to Troops

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—The army postal service said today that the volume of air mail service to troops overseas has been curtailed because of insufficient cargo space on aircraft. The use of an air mail stamp, therefore, will not guarantee that letters will go by air, the army said. Only V-mail will be assured of air transportation.

NAZIS BLOW UP BIG BRIDGE IN CENTER OF CITY

PARIS, March 5 (AP).—The United States 1st army sent tanks plunging more than a mile into Cologne today, seized more than one-fifth of the city in assaults from the north, south and west, and the fall of the largest German metropolis ever stormed by the allies seemed near.

The Germans apparently wrote off the fourth largest city in the reich, for they blew the big Hohenzollern bridge in the heart of the city and began shelling it from the east bank.

Field dispatches said the Germans were fleeing across the Rhine in boats, and one staff officer estimated that only 1,000 enemy soldiers remained to garrison the city.

Prisoners said these forces were falling back into the old part of the city, which represents only one-fourth of Cologne's area of 25 square miles.

3d Armored Division Enters.

The 3d armored division, now within two miles or less of the heart of the city, was the first to enter at 7:10 a. m. and the 104th infantry division came in from the west at 9:23 a. m.

The 8th infantry division, hard on the 104th's right flank, pushed into the city from the south. Cologne was shrouded in a pall of smoke from the fire of massed artillery.

All three divisions were meeting half-hearted resistance, indicating the German army had no intention of obeying Hitler's orders to make a Stalingrad-like stand inside Cologne.

Cologne is the largest city in Rhenish Prussia with a normal population of 768,000 and is loaded with factories which once turned out weapons for the German war machine. Now the civilians cowered in cellars while the battle swirled about them, or they streamed back to the American lines carrying household possessions.

Blow Duisburg Bridges.

Besides blowing the bridge at Duesseldorf, the Germans destroyed three bridges at Duisburg before the charge of the United States 9th army, which overran the coal and synthetic oil city of Homberg and smashed into Rheinberg in gains of as much as six miles.

By blowing all the serviceable bridges between Bonn and the Dutch border except the road and rail bridges at Wesel and a makeshift structure at Rheinberg, the Germans sealed the fate of many of the more than 50,000 troops still on the Rhine's west bank.

The Canadian 1st army captured one ferry crossing at Rees, 11 miles northwest of the western Ruhr city of Wesel, and the 9th captured another at Orsoy, five miles north of Homberg.

The Canadian 1st and the United States 9th pressed the Germans back into an area 10 miles long and six miles wide, and with the United States 1st army held sway over 70 of the 90 miles of the Rhine's west bank between Cologne and the Dutch border.

100,000 Nazis Believed Lost.

Supreme headquarters estimated the Germans had lost 100,000 troops in the battle of the Rhine, sapping enemy strength so severely that the Germans will be hard put to repulse Rhine crossings without weakening some other front.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army broke into Cologne so swiftly, in an attack beginning at the cold, predawn hour of 4, that 4,000 German defenders were cut off outside the city.

The final rush of the 3d armored division from the north and the 104th infantry division from the west engulfed 40 suburban villages.

A pall of smoke and dust hung over Cologne as massed artillery crunched into its ruins.

The 104th division swept thru the western suburban towns of Weiden, Widdersdorf, and Lovernich and then drove east into the city on the main highway from Dueren.

The 8th infantry was moving in on the 104th's south flank and the attackers were met by anti-tank guns and high velocity anti-aircraft guns, depressed to meet the ground assault.

On the north, troops were fighting in the edge of Cologne's railway yards, among the greatest in Europe, and were striking for the west bank of the Rhine just north of the city.

Hodges' troops were on the attack along a front of more than 55 miles, with Cologne roughly in the center.

The north wing was driving a German force of undetermined size back against the bridgeless Rhine between Duesseldorf and Cologne.

The Americans were on the Rhine at Grimlinghausen, just south of Duesseldorf, and at Worringen, nine miles farther south. The German hold on the Rhine between these points was three miles wide or less.

On the south flank, the Americans captured Euskirchen, a city of 14,500 with a network of three railways and eight highways.

Near Rhine City of Bonn.

East of Euskirchen, other forces drove nearly three miles beyond the Erft river and captured Schwarzmaar, eight and a half miles west of the Rhine transit city of Bonn.

To the southwest, troops captured Gemuend, an eastern anchor of the Siegfried line on the Roer river front.

Lt. Gen. Simpson's 9th army was stamping out the biggest of the Rhine pockets in coöperation with the Canadian 1st army with such speed that a front dispatch predicted the entire area would be liquidated within two days.

American and Canadian artillery fire raked the evaporating German bridgehead, now 10 miles long and six miles wide, and Canadians on the north fought up to the edge of bitterly defenden Xanten.

British in Action.

To the west, British troops under Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian 1st army command cleared all the east bank of the Maas [Meuse] except for two small pockets holding out five miles north of Venlo.

Trouble was brewing for the Germans on the south where two other American armies were on the attack.

The United States 3d army was ripping thru defenses along the Pruem-Coblenz highway, where it long has been held in check.

Lt. Gen. Patton's army has penetrated 20 miles into Germany on a 25-mile front east of Luxemburg.

Among towns reported captured was Kopp, eight miles east of Pruem and 47 miles from Coblenz.

Kyll River Crossed.

A front dispatch said the Kyll river, the last defended river line short of the Rhine, first was crossed Saturday by the 5th infantry division, and the 76th division likewise had broken across.

In a cluster of towns reported captured was Dudeldorf, which would put the 3d army at least three miles east of the Kyll river in the area of the fallen enemy base of Bitburg.

The United States 7th army was a mile and a half from the Saar basin's capital of Saarbruecken after driving the last German from the French gateway town of Forbach, and was pounding the city with artillery.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army, after clearing Forbach, liberated 1,250 allied prisoners of war in the nearby town of Stirling-Wendel.

Russians, French, Poles, and Czechs were among those freed by the 70th infantry division.

NO. 10 NAZI, PAL OF WINDSOR, IS TAKEN BY YANKS

Chicago Colonel Nabs Heinrich Kost.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 9TH ARMY IN GERMANY, March 5.—Lt. Col. Charles Hoy, Chicago, commander of the 334th regiment of the 84th division, captured 47 year old Heinrich Kost, the 10th ranking Nazi party leader and wealthy mine operator, north of Krefeld this morning. Hoy's boys hold the western end of the destroyed Homberg bridge across the Rhine.

Lt. Col. Charles E. Hoy.

A large gilt framed photograph of the duke of Windsor and Wally Simpson and Kost, autographed by the British ex-king dated 1934, was found on a mahogany table in Kost's library. The Nazi explained the ex-king and his fiancee—he stated Wally then was engaged to wed Edward—visited him and inspected mining in the Ruhr under his guidance soon after Hitler assumed power.

Driven by Chicagoan.

Corp. Willie Yarber, 618 E. 41st st., Chicago, Negro, drove Kost to the rear in the prisoner's car.

Hoy, who is the son of Thomas Hoy, 4152 Washington blvd., Chicago, discovered a private telephone line linking Kost's palatial residence with his mining properties east of the Rhine. When Hoy telephoned thru a Nazi colonel replied, "Who is speaking?"

When Hoy answered, "It's the 84th division back to give you another licking," he heard a ripping sound as the German broke the connection.

Maj. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling, commanding the 84th division, today was carrying out a house to house search in all villages and towns in his area because during the swift advance of nine miles yesterday his troops by-passed many communities in a race to the Rhine. By midafternoon many German soldiers, who had thrown away their uniforms and donned civilian clothes, were captured.

Civilians Give Soldiers Away.

Many German civilians voluntarily denounced the soldiers masquerading in mufti on the ground that "Hitler is beaten and we want the war to end as soon as possible."

Lt. Col. Hugh Parker of the 335th regiment marched his troops 72 hours with 10 minutes rest at two hour intervals to reach Krupp-brucks on the Rhine, but the enemy blew up the bridge at 7 o'clock this morning.

The 325th artillery battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Mario Demaio, Providence, R. I., this morning captured a German artillery battery intact. In the quartermaster's luggage they found the field desk of a 106th division field artillery battalion which had been captured by the Germans during the Ardennes offensive. The desk contained the roster and pay roll and other records of the battalion.

Relationship of the western and eastern war fronts to Berlin.

RUSSIANS FREE MORE CAPTIVES FROM GERMANS

MOSCOW, March 5 (AP).—New groups of British, French, and Dutch prisoners of war have been liberated by the Russian army's advance thru Pomerania, dispatches from the front to the newspaper Pravda said today. No Americans were mentioned in the Moscow newspaper's listing of freed prisoners moving eastward in carts, wagons, and on bicycles thru Pomerania. They are believed to have been rescued from a column of 200,000 prisoners being driven westward before the Russian advance. The United States military mission in Moscow said, however, it was probable that some United States troops also had been liberated.

The total of American officers and soldiers awaiting transportation in Odessa, after being rescued by the Russians, totals 1,200, the mission said.

Panic spread among Pomeranian land owners who had been working their farms with slave labor, including many Russian and Polish girls. Pravda said that on the estate of a Johann Walbe the workers hanged Walbe as the Red army approached.

Sforza Rejects Position as Italy's Envoy to France

ROME, Italy, March 5 (AP).—Carlo Sforza said today he would not accept the post of envoy to France, preferring "to remain in Italy during her greatest suffering."

OFFICERS SLAIN, TANKMAN FIGHTS WAY TO A MEDAL

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY, March 5.—Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Gaffey, commanding the 4th armored division, has awarded the silver star to Staff Sgt. George E. Townley, Chicago Heights, Ill., for gallantry in action.

Townley, a platoon sergeant with a tank battalion, reorganized his company after all the officers had been killed and then walked thru intense artillery fire to give and receive instructions.

Bronze stars have been awarded to Corp. Jerome W. Eckes, Marshfield, Wis.; Corp. Charles W. Owens, route 5, Shelbyville, Ill., and 2d Lt. Armored S. Fink, St. Paul, Minn.

Stays in Burning Tank.

Corp. Eckes, member of the 8th tank battalion, remained in his tank when it caught fire while being refueled and fought the blaze until he was nearly overcome by the fumes, but saved the vehicle.

88TH DIVISION COMPLETES 1ST YEAR OF ACTION

WITH U. S. 5TH ARMY, Italy, March 5 (AP).—The 88th [Blue Devil] division—first selective service outfit sent overseas and into combat—completed its first year of action today. It has had 280 days of front line combat, battled 225 miles up the Italian peninsula and bagged 5,745 prisoners. Official sources credit the Blue Devils with destroying three German divisions and badly mauling six others.

The 88th was brought overseas and led into Rome by Maj. Gen. John Sloan.

Altho the doughboys have spent plenty of time at the front, the division's artillery units have exceeded their record with 334 fighting days and has been only three days out of the line since last July 7. Artillery units generally remain in firing position, rotating personnel.

BATTLE STORIES FORGET BRITISH, PAPER ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 6 [Tuesday].—Complaints that British troops on the western and other fronts don't get enough publicity were made by a military correspondent and editorially in today's Daily Telegraph.

No mention is made of British troops in west front dispatches and it "might be supposed the only troops engaged in this campaign were Canadians and Americans," the editorial said. Both the editorial and the correspondent contended that the title of the Canadian 1st army was misleading, asserting that United Kingdom troops therein outnumber Canadians four to one. Admitting the Americans on the west front outnumber the British two to one, the military writer added:

"American losses are no more than proportionate to those numbers." He mentioned that British forces were fighting in Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, India, and the northwest frontier, and stressed that the 14th army in Burma is "many times stronger than the Chinese-American combat command which fights at its side."

Finns' President Sick; Premier Performs Duties

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 5 (AP).—Marshal Mannerheim has been forced to give up his duties as Finland's president temporarily because of his health, it was reported from Helsinki today. His duties are being handled by Premier Paasikivi.

YANKS CAPTURE 17 CARLOADS OF ROCKET SHELLS

RHEURDT, Germany, March 5 (AP).—Doughboys of the United States 9th army seized large quantities of German military booty today, including 17 carloads of rocket weapons, mostly of the new 300 pound front line type. The captured rockets were taken by the 35th infantry on a rail siding where they apparently were intended for the front.

The shipment was mostly of the type which is four feet long and with the explosive punch of a 300 mm. shell. The rocket's propellant charge is amazingly small for the size of its warhead and apparently quite powerful as this type rocket has considerable range.

These rockets first were used against American troops during the Germans' Ardennes offensive. They have been used in recent weeks as a substitute for artillery. They are launched from portable platforms.

QUIT, GERMAN OFFICERS TOLD BY EISENHOWER

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

An appeal from Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters, addressed to German army officers yesterday by the American broadcasting station in Europe, urged that they "reconsider the situation of Germany, the situation of their men, and their personal situation" and surrender to the allies.

"The responsibility for the outcome of the war no longer rests with the German officer," said the broadcast, "but the responsibility for his men remains—and this responsibility will indubitably be taken into account by post-war Germany. Germany's future will be hard, but there will be a possibility for reconstruction. The allies do not intend to destroy Germany — only the politicians know that their number is up.

"We cannot expect the German officer to do anything that would be contrary to his honor or to his country's interest. It is in Germany's interest to put an end to this useless bloodshed. The decision is up to the German officer."

ALLIED PLANES BLAST 3 NAZI OIL REFINERIES

LONDON, March 6 [Tuesday]—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers were over Germany last night in "very great strength," with Chemnitz as the main target and with Berlin also an objective, it was announced following a day in which nearly 700 American and British bombers bored thru adverse weather to continue the air blitz against the reich.

More than 400 Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the 8th air force, guarded by 600 fighters, struck two natural oil refineries at Marburg near Hamburg, and hit freight yards serving the eastern front from Chemnitz, 36 miles from the Czechoslovakia border.

In the afternoon upward of 250 R. A. F. Lancasters, protected by Mustangs, raided the Ruhr benzol plant near Gelsenkirchen.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Italy-based bombers, carrying on a prolonged campaign against enemy rail lines, had caused "serious disruption to transportation facilities on vital segments of the Austrian communications system."

'SUICIDE SQUADS' KNOW COLOGNE IS LOST, GIVE UP

Civilian Escape Cut Off; Tell of Bridge Collapse.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COLOGNE, Germany, March 5.—Cologne, which Hitler decreed should hold out to the last, is a gonner. And the German military knows it. Most heavy vehicles, tanks, and guns, which had fuel, have been taken east of the Rhine. Those that are left and their handlers are "suicide squads."

Many have no intention of dying for a lost cause. After brisk but sporadic fighting in small groups all day many of these defenders of Cologne now fill prisoner cages to augment the 16,000 taken by this army's present offensive.

Except for ferry boats still plying the Rhine, which have been under fire from our big guns for several days, there is no chance for civilians to escape from battered Cologne.

Loaded Span Gives Way.

A sunken cheeked priest I met in Junkersdorf said that two days ago 200 civilians were crossing the battered Hohenzollern bridge when the last full link started to sway. As they screamed in terror, he said, the span gave way, dropping most of them into the Rhine.

It is doubtful, in the opinion of Lt. Col. Andrew Barr, Urbana, Ill., of the 3d armored division, whether a thousand soldiers remain to fight.

As we walked down the streets of the city's outskirts, ducking into a doorway to avoid air bursts from anti-aircraft guns being fired in a ground role, we could see and hear the old town being beaten up both by German and American artillery.

Cathedral May Be Damaged.

Thru the smoke and haze we looked long at the lofty spires of Cologne's cathedral but could detect no damage. One prisoner, an ex-forester, said the central section of the dome had collapsed, presumably after a bomb hit. American artillery is scrupulously avoiding damaging the celebrated structure but it stands near the Hohenzollern bridge and may have been hit by bombs.

Large caliber shells from across the river were dropping in our fast moving front lines. Overhead a dozen flimsy American observation planes floated, directing artillery.

Iowan Leads Vanguard.

The first doughboys into Cologne were led by Lt. Mervin B. Teig, Iowa Falls, Ia. Company B of the 87th chemical battalion smoked German positions in Junkersdorf, while doughboys whipped across the open ground just ahead of tanks under Lt. Leonard C. Moore, Iron Mountain, Mich., and supporting tank destroyers from the 692d battalion.

By late afternoon, Lt. Robert G. Banbury, Aurora, Ill., was up to his ears in the work of interrogating 75 prisoners. One prisoner begged that his name be mentioned tonight on a BBC broadcast to which his father always listened.

Civilians Clog Roads.

WITH U. S. TROOPS AT COLOGNE, March 5 (AP).—While the German army continues its hollow pretense of carrying out Hitler's order to make Cologne a "fortress city," its citizens have tacitly conceded its surrender. They are streaming out toward the American lines in the hundreds.

"It looks like the German army is trying to clog our roads with their own people," said Lt. Col. Mark Plaisted, former Springfield, Ill., advertising executive.

ARRESTED FOR PURSE SNATCHING.

Harold Turner, 21, of 4245 Wabash av., Negro, was seized yesterday by Chicago av. police after Miss Joyce Butler of 1. W. Superior st. reported her purse was snatched in front of 504 N. Michigan av. by a man answering his description.

FEEDING OF NAZI CIVILIANS POSES GRAVE PROBLEM

Military Governors Ask New Orders.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KREFELD, Germany, March 5.—Harassed, worried, and understaffed military government officials in four large communities captured in the 9th army offensive—Muenchen-Gladbach, Erkelenz, Rhydt, and Krefeld—are anxiously awaiting new directives from Washington, D. C., to supersede the policy of "We won't feed the Germans" which was formulated when Aachen fell and before any danger of starvation of enemy civilians confronted United States authorities.

Aachen did not provide a test case as there were few civilians when the town was captured and military government was able to cope with the increased numbers as they trickled in over a period of five months.

But Muenchen-Gladbach with 70,000 to 80,000 civilians, Rhydt with 30,000 and Krefeld with 40,000, without counting the thousands living in near-by hamlets and villages, present an extremely serious problem.

Pass the Buck.

"We pass the buck now to the acting burgomasters we appointed," said Maj. John Hall, Orlando, Fla., military governor of Muenchen-Gladbach. "When civilians apply to us for food or expectant or nursing mothers ask for help we send them to Dr. Alexander Scharff, the temporary burgomaster."

But when I asked what Scharff could do after food stocks are consumed; Hall could only reply, "We may have received new directives by then."

Thus, American officials are forced to evade facing the issue and pass the buck to German puppets who are impotent to handle the problem.

Our official efforts are concentrated in reestablishing the water supply, electricity, gas, and fuel," said Hall. "We do this to prevent any epidemics in the community which would endanger our troops."

Germans Cooperate.

Hall, Capt. James Mallen of New York, at Rhydt, and an interpreter, Pvt. Harry Stastny, 3114 W. Marquette rd., Chicago, at Krefeld, agreed that the German populace was doing everything possible to cooperate with the army.

"Most complaints made by German civilians arise over the fact doughboys adopt their dogs as mascots and the people ask us to get their pets back," Stastny said. "The next squawk is that G. I.s grab their bicycles, but since all vehicular traffic is forbidden to civilians this does not matter."

However, Maj. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling of the 84th division tonight issued orders to military police to intercept all soldiers riding on bikes, motorcycles, or automobiles and seize the vehicles as motor minded Yanks, after fighting all day, work all night repairing broken down vehicles which civilians long since have abandoned thru lacks of tires, parts, and gasoline.

Pvt. Herman Soldinger, 4022 Sheridan rd., Chicago, was spinning along in a rusty, little, open car when an M. P. confiscated the machine.

$150,000 PAYOFF TO 2 UNION LEADERS TOLD AT EXTORTION TRIAL

New York, March 5 [Special].—A blue ribbon jury trying Joseph S. Fay and James Bove, union leaders, for extortion, today heard District Atty. Frank S. Hogan assert that the pair received $150,000 cash from two contractors as their price for labor peace on the city's 300 million dollar Delaware water supply project.

Hogan said Fay and Bove accepted this sum from Contractors John MacDonald and Thomas J. Walsh after first demanding $250,000. He said the two AFL big shots levied a 1 per cent assessment on all contracts in connection with the Delaware project and collected a total of $420,000 from contracting syndicates. Fay is vice president of the International Union of Operating Engineers and Bove is vice president of the Hod Carriers union. They were indicted in May, 1943.

Defense Counsel John W. McGeehan told the jury that none of the Delaware contractors ever had complained of extortion and said that if any money was passed, "it was given willingly and gladly for assistance given by these men." Supreme Court Justice William H. Munson is presiding at the trial, which was adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

SQUEEZE DRAFT SPONGE TO GET MEN UP TO 34

Few, if any, physically fit men under the age of 34 can expect to remain out of the military service after July, Col. Harris P. Ralston, deputy state director of selective service, told representatives of employers at a war problems luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce in Hotel Sherman yesterday. The army and navy have asked for 900,000 men in the first six months of 1945 and the merchant marine wants 48,000, he said.

Col. Ralston reported virtually all men in the 18-25 age group have been exhausted and as the supply of men 26-29 is limited, local draft boards will have to go into the higher age brackets.

New Regulations Drafted.

Because there are some irreplaceable men in the younger age groups in industry, he said, new regulations have been set up to guide selective service in meeting monthly calls. Hereafter, deferments for young draft registrants may be granted only upon certification by one of 15 federal agencies. Even men now under deferment may be called before the end of such deferment, if their names do not appear on federally certified lists.

The certifying agencies are army service forces, navy department, air forces, war production board, maritime commission, petroleum administration, office of defense transportation, war food administration, coördinator of fisheries, rubber reserve, solid fuels administration, review committee for deferment of government employes, national roster of scientific and specialized personnel, officer of scientific research and development, and the procurement and assignment service.

Deferred Men to Be Called.

Eight hundred thousand men in the 18-29 age group were deferred in industry last Jan. 1, Col. Ralston told the association. To meet draft quotas to July, 70 per cent of these will be sent for pre-induction examination. This will leave only 240,000 in class 2-A and 2-B for industry, and war agencies in Washington, D. C., will allot quotas to employers as they see fit.

Chicago employers were warned to take their man power problems to their certifying agency at once. No draft registrant who was not classified 2-A or 2-B last Jan. 1 may be considered for deferment.

Only One Basis of Deferment.

Beginning April 1, draft boards may not consider any evidence for deferment of workers 18-29 other than a certified Form 42A [special-revised]—the blank on which employers request deferment of necessary men.

For a registrant 30-33 to stay in 2-A or 2-B he must be both "necessary to" and "regularly engaged" in war production or in activity supporting the national health, safety, or interest. For the time being, registrants 34 thru 37 may be placed in 2-A or 2-B, if they are engaged in war production or in support of national health, safety, or interest.

LONDON, March 5.—Strikes cost Britain 104,000 working days in January, the ministry of labor said tonight. There were 170 strikes during the month, involving 49,000 workers. In the coal industry alone there were 89 strikes of 15,000 workers.

PLANE PLUNGES INTO BUILDING; 8 KILLED, 8 HURT

Transport Explodes After Crash.

Dayton, O., March 5 [Special].—Six army men were killed, the bodies of two other unidentified persons were recovered, and eight other persons, some of them civilians, were seriously burned and otherwise injured today when a C-60 transport plane crashed into a hangar at the army air service command headquarters at near-by Wright field.

Five of those killed were identified as members of the crew of the transport plane, which consisted of two officers and three enlisted men. Among those killed was Sgt. William W. Wilson, 30, Owensville, Ind., who was at work in the hangar.

The plane exploded after falling thru the roof of the hangar, turning the interior into an inferno and destroying six planes quartered there.

Seven Others Burned.

Army sources said there were about 20 persons, including some civilian workmen, in the hangar at the time. In addition to the eight listed as seriously injured, seven men were treated for burns at the Patterson field hospital.

The crash resulted from the failure of the C-60 to gain altitude for a take-off, it was said. The plane was making a test flight.

The Dayton fire department joined army fire fighting forces in battling the flames and succeeded in confining the blaze to the hangar.

Knudsen Visits Scene.

Several generals, colonels, and other high ranking officers joined with enlisted men to push planes from near-by hangars while the fire was at its height and fear was felt that it might spread. Lt. Gen. William Knudsen, chief of the air technical service command, visited the scene and said efficient rescue work by both army and civilian firemen had cut down the loss of life.

Six Lost in Crash.

Seattle, Wash., March 5 (AP).—The 13th naval district headquarters announced today the crew of six men were lost when a medium bomber plane crashed in Puget sound, eight miles south of Couperville, Whidby Island, yesterday. The plane was on a bombing practice flight from the Whidby Island naval air station. Those lost included Lt. S. M. Ward, 25, pilot, Buckner, Ill., and Lt. (j. g.) Stephen B. Duffy Jr., co-pilot, mother, Mrs. Mary E. Duffy, 7825 S. Loomis blvd., Chicago.

[Lt. Duffy, 22, enlisted in the navy Nov. 11, 1942, was trained at the Iowa pre-flight school and received his wings at Pensacola, Fla., on Aug. 17, 1943. He was graduated from Loyola university and later was employed as a commercial photographer.]

Two Die in Crash.

Vincennes, Ind., March 5 [Special].—Lt. Robert Wayne Stoh, 23, of Bloomington, Ill., and Lt. Douglas Cook Woodbury, 23, of Los Angeles, were killed last night when their C-47 training plane collided with a similar plane over George field.

Two Airmen Killed.

Boston, Mass., March 5 (AP).—The navy today disclosed that Richard P. Harper, 19, radioman 3/C, Lincoln Park, Mich., and Claude L. Piper, 19, aviation ordnance man 3/C, Benton, Wis., died last week in air crashes.

Two Hoosiers Killed.

Laredo, Tex., March 5 (AP).—Among four men killed in the crash of a four-engined bomber at Laredo army air field last night were listed Tech. Sgt. Kenneth B. Lundin, wife, Mrs. Lila Lundin, Indianapolis, Ind., and Pvt. Robert M. Brown, wife, Mrs. Joanne J. Brown, Augusta, Ind.

5TH ARMY OUSTS FOE FROM SEVERAL HILLS ON FRONT IN ITALY

ROME, Italy, March 5 (AP).—United States 5th army troops, still advancing in the Mount Belvedere area southwest of Bologne, have pushed the Germans off several more hills and occupied a number of villages despite the enemy's reenforcement of that sector. The advance was in the general area north of Mount Della Torraccia and Mount Castello.

Dispatches from the front said the Germans had rushed elements of two divisions to help defend the line.

Italian troops on the 8th army's Adriatic coastal sector captured several more German strongholds and took 200 prisoners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 5.—Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, 18, a British strip tease dancer, and Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, 22, Bostor paratrooper, will hang Thursday for the murder of a London taxi driver unless Home Secretary Herbert Morrison grants a last minute reprieve. Atty. Gen. Donald Somervell today refused permission for an appeal to the house of lords.

Mrs. Jones is scheduled to be hanged at Holloway jail and Hulten at Pentonville. The jury at the Old Bailey trial of the couple recommended clemency for Mrs. Jones. An appeal for clemency on behalf of Hulten is reported en route from his home state of Massachusetts.

RUSSIAN GUNS SHELL SUBURBS OF BERLIN'S PORT

Stargard, Fort Guarding Stettin, Captured.

LONDON, March 5 (AP).—Russian troops captured Stettin's outer defense city of Stargard today as they ripped thru 150 localities in Nazi lines in the corner of Pomerania east of Stettin bay, and tightened their hold on possibly 200,000 Germans trapped in another pocket far to the northeast.

Russian artillery pounded the suburbs of Stettin, Berlin's port and 67 miles northeast of the German capital, as tank columns fought close to Altdamm, east bank Oder crossing town just opposite Stettin and 15 miles west of fallen Stargard.

To the northeast another Russian army in 10 mile gains captured 80 localities, including Gross-Tychow, site of an American prison camp 18 miles south of captured Koeslin, a Moscow bulletin announced. Whether any Americans were freed was not made known immediately.

Russian troops on the Baltic stormed the stronghold of Kolberg on Sunday night during a blizzard and were "held at the fringes of the town," a German broadcast said.

Red Flank Almost Cleared.

Naugard, 22 miles north of Stargard, also fell as the Russians folded the Germans back against a 45-mile line between Stettin and the Baltic sea, clearing the Red army flank for the coming offensive toward Berlin.

Premier Stalin also announced the fall of Polzin, middle Pomeranian stronghold 52 miles northeast of Stargard. Polzin had been by-passed by Russian troops in their Baltic breakthru which on Sunday reached Kolberg, 65 miles northeast of Stettin.

The 1st White Russian, and the 2d White Russian army, to the east, which also reached the Baltic at captured Koeslin, 24 miles east of Kolberg, were chopping up elements of several Nazi divisions caught between them.

Berlin also said that 2d White Russian troops fanning out to the east along the Baltic coast had reached Schlawe, 78 miles west of Danzig, as they cut into the pocket where elements of 20 or more Nazi divisions were caught in the Stolp-Gdynia-Danzig areas.

30 Miles from Danzig.

The eastern wing of this army was striking toward Danzig from the southern side of the big pocket and was within 30 miles of the Nazi naval base. Berlin said this was an all-out offensive.

By German account the two Russian armies now have widened their Baltic foothold in Pomerania to nearly 50 miles between Schlawe and Kolberg in the west.

The fall of Stargard, a 15 way road and rail junction 19 miles east of Stettin, knocked out the southern hinge of Nazi forces strung out along the Dammscher lake, the lower Oder, Stettin bay, and Dievenow river.

With the seizure of Naugard the Russians were within 13 miles northeast of Gollnow, communications hub astride the north-south Nazi communications in this corner of Pomerania. They were less than 10 miles from the Altdamm-Gollnow-Cammin railway, linking both ends of this pocket.

Striking northwest of Naugard, a 10-way junction town on the Stettin-Koeslin military superhighway, the Russians were less than 24 miles from Hagen, on the east bank of the Dievenow river opposite Wollin Island, along the road to Swinemuende.

The port of Swinemuende, 15 miles beyond Hagen, controls the sea gate between the Baltic and Stettin.

MARINES BREAK JAP ATTACKS ON IWO; FAIL TO GAIN

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, March 6 [Tuesday]—(AP).—A number of Japanese attempts to infiltrate the lines of the United States marines on Iwo Island Monday were broken up and the battle positions remained substantially unchanged, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

The bitter fighting is now in its 15th day.

Artillery Fire Employed.

"The enemy made a number of attempts to infiltrate, and subjected the marines to heavy small arms and artillery fire," Nimitz said. "All efforts were broken up."

No mention was made of the positions of the 3d, 4th, and 5th marine divisions last reported pressing the Japanese toward cliffs on the north and northwest edge of Iwo.

12,864 Japs Slain.

Nimitz reported yesterday that 12,864 Japanese dead had been counted up to 6 p. m. Saturday and 81 prisoners taken.

Chichi Island, in the Bonins, immediately to the north, was bombed Sunday by Liberators of the 7th army air force, while torpedo planes hit the Palau Islands with the loss of two aircraft. Navy fighters swept Ponape in the Carolines.

Chicagoan Leads Dogs.

IWO ISLAND, March 5 (AP).—The real war dogs were ashore with the United States marines on Iwo today and their first Japanese captive was credited to "Czar" and "Hans," Dobermann-Pinschers. Trained to run down hiding enemy troops, the dogs were brought ashore yesterday. Others included "Dusty," "Rusty," "Rex," "Eisenhower," and "Tippy."

"Czar" and "Hans" were sent out on their first mission in charge of Corporals Charles Peake of Chicago and George Goderre of Gardner, Mass. They sniffed the presence of a Japanese in a cave and alerted the marines, who went forward and made the capture.

The dogs were veterans of Guam. They like "C" rations but they don't like life aboard an LST. They were glad to get ashore.

AMERICAS DIVIDE ON HANDLING OF ARGENTINE ISSUE

2 Possible Solutions Under Debate.

MEXICO CITY, March 5 (AP).—Drafting of a statement on Argentina today remained the top job for the inter-American conference here.

It was ascertained that representatives of 20 republics will definitely make a formal declaration on Argentina, but they still are trying to agree on what to say.

The important difficulties in writing an Argentine declaration are:

1. Deciding how specific the statement can be on Argentina without endangering a solid front against Argentina's present stand.

2. Deciding what measures to take toward getting Argentina back into the American system after this conference is over.

Opinion Evenly Divided.

Opinion among a selected group of delegates working on Argentina is about evenly divided.

Some hold that a commission should be set up by the inter-American conference to study the problem here, after the meeting closes. The other view favors turning the hot Argentine potato back to the Pan-American union for discussion by all the republics at a more leisurely pace.

There appears almost complete agreement among the delegates that a firm position should be taken toward Argentina until that country gives concrete proof of its intention to coöperate for hemisphere defense.

Hope for Compromise.

It seems unlikely, however, that any concrete steps will be taken on Argentina until the conference has agreed on the rest of its business. The final meeting is now expected Thursday.

A compromise "economic charter for the Americas," calling generally for freer trade and increased industrialization in this hemisphere, was headed tonight for final adoption by the conference. A subcommittee approved the charter when it had been considerably toned down. Only Uruguay and Colombia made reservations. Both countries will explain their continued opposition to the charter at a full meeting of the committee on post-war economic problems tomorrow at 5 p. m.

BABY OF YANK BORN IN PACIFIC ON TROOP SHIP

Mrs. Stanley Albiniak, 2929 138th pl., Burnham, is awaiting the arrival in Chicago soon of her soldier son's wife, the former Helen Marek, a Polish refugee, and the couple's two children. The youngest, Edward William, was born last Thursday aboard an army transport ship in the Pacific heading for Los Angeles, Cal.

Corp. Edward Albiniak

Corp. Edward T. Albiniak, 30, met his wife in Iran, where he is stationed with the army engineers, when she was working as a waitress in an army mess hall. Their first child, a daughter, Chesterine, will be a year old in April, and also is with the mother, who is convalescing in an army hospital in Burbank, Cal.

The transport sailed from Bombay, India, and stopped in New Zealand to pick up several hundred battle-weary or injured fighting men and 300 war brides. The corporal's wife lost most of her family when the Nazis overran Poland. Two brothers are fighting with the allies in Italy. The corporal still is in Iran, where he has been on duty for two years.

STALIN KEEPS VETO POWER IN PEACE LEAGUE

is likely to threaten the peace; [C] whether the council should call on the parties to settle a dispute by means of their own choice; [D] whether, if the dispute is referred to the council, a recommendation should be made as to methods and procedures of settlement; [E] whether the council should make such recommendations before the dispute is referred to it; [F] what should be the nature of this recommendation; [G] whether the legal aspect of the dispute should be referred to the court for advice; [H] whether a regional agency should be asked to concern itself with the dispute, and [I] whether the dispute should be referred to the general assembly.

But in connection with applying force against an aggressor the concurrence of all the Big Five would be required for: [A] Determination of the existence of a threat or breach of the peace; [B] use of force or other enforcement measures; [C] approval of agreements for supply of armed forces; [D] matters relating to the regulation of armaments; and [E] matters concerning the suspension and expulsion of members, and the admission of new members.

All On Same Footing.

"This means," said Stettinius in a statement issued by him at Mexico City, "that all members of the security council when they are parties to a dispute will be on the same footing before this council. It means that no nation in the world will be denied the right to have a fair hearing of its case in the security council, and that the equal, democratic rights of all nations will be respected.

"If the dispute is not settled by such means, the major question before the council is whether force needs to be employed. In that event, it is necessary that the vote of the permanent members of the council be unanimous. They are the nations which possess in sufficient degree the industrial and military strength to prevent aggression. However, the decision of the council can be reached in such a case only by a majority of seven members, which means that the permanent members cannot alone decide to take action. It also means that the nonpermanent members [the small nations] can prevent action.

PERILED STETTIN A MAJOR CENTER FOR 800 YEARS

Stettin, the great German Baltic port now threatened by the Russian armies, has been a place of importance for 800 years. In the late middle ages it was a member of the Hanseatic league, a loose but effective federation of north European trading towns designed to foster commerce and to suppress piracy. In modern times Stettin came to be regarded as the port of Berlin, which lies 84 rail miles to the southwest. It also became an important center of ship building and other industrial activities.

The city's site on the navigable Oder river only 30 miles from the Baltic sea was a major factor in the development which transformed the small Wendish settlement of the ninth century into the imposing commercial center of the 20th. Stettin's 1939 population was 268,917. Her capacious port and her excellent rail connections made her a key point in Europe's transportation system.

Stettin was the residence of the dukes of Pomerania for about 500 years until the Pomeranian dynasty became extinct in 1637. The city then passed under the rule of Sweden. In 1720 it became a German port. The city is hilly and picturesque, with two enormous medieval churches and some remnants of ancient fortifications.

POLES CALL F.D.R. AND CHURCHILL STALIN'S TOOLS

Denounce Omission from Conference.

Influence exerted by Premier Stalin of Russia over President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill was blamed by Polish-American leaders in Chicago yesterday for failure of the Big Three to invite Poland to the world security conference in San Francisco, Cal.

Their comment followed an announcement in Washington, D. C., that all United Nations except Poland are being asked to attend the meeting.

Calls Omission Unfair.

"It is just another instance in which the Stalin influence prevails," said Mrs. Barbara A. Fisher, general counsel of the Polish Women's Alliance of America. "I am not surprised. I thought Poland would not be invited.

"The omission was very unfair. We have voiced our disapproval, and there is nothing more that we can do. We must hope and pray from now on that some day we will get back the territory that is rightfully ours and was taken away because of the Russian demands."

Rozmarek Calls It Betrayal.

Charles Rozmarek, president of the Polish American congress, deplored the policies that, he said, have led to the betrayal of "Poles who have been made to fight on all of the battle fronts."

"This is repugnant to our American sense of decency, honesty, and fair play," he asserted. He said that Poland's fate naturally will be discussed at this conference and yet the "Poles are to be denied the elementary right of representation at the conference."

Rozmarek, whose organization has 6 million Polish-American members, voiced high praise for the manner in which the Polish people have conducted themselves "in defense of our common war aims."

BRITISH NATIONS URGE REGIONAL PACTS WITH U. S.

BY E. R. NODERER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 5.—Regional defense arrangements with the United States in behalf of Australia, Canada, and New Zealand, in addition to any world security organization which may be set up, were advocated tonight by the British commonwealth relations conference. The conference excluded newspaper men, making known its views in a formal statement issued after the 12 day meeting ended.

Asserting neither the United States nor the British commonwealth alone could safeguard world sea communications, the conference contended geography "decreed that the security of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand depended upon collaboration with the United States."

More Agreements Suggested.

Recalling that Canada already had formed a joint defense board with the United States, the commonwealth group, which has no official status, suggested some other parts of the empire might wish to coordinate their defense plans with neighbors.

The conference statement said further that British dominions could not commit themselves in advance to support whatever Great Britain might do in Europe. It was felt, however, that "in the interests of the whole world Britain should play a leading part in plans for the political and economic restoration of the continent," the statement said.

Racial Views Told.

On the subject of racial discrimination within the empire, the conference statement said, "Our challenge to the doctrine of the master race, and our espousal of the cause of humanity, compels the members of the commonwealth to reëxamine their own attitude on racial problems and the treatment of dependent peoples."

Earlier today, Zafrullah Khan, leader of the Indian delegation, said, "So long as there is practice of the idea that any race has a right to dominate another, there are bound to be wars, the international security conference at San Francisco notwithstanding. The only difference between the Nazi theory of racial superiority and ours is that the Nazis profess and practice it openly, while we want to practice it but do not want to openly profess it."

VANDENBERG ACCEPTS ROOSEVELT'S BID AS DELEGATE TO PARLEY

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] announced today he had accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to become a delegate to the world security conference in San Francisco.

The Michigan senator said he had made his decision after "an exchange of cordial and satisfactory personal letters with the President."

This exchange clarified "my right of free action," he said.

"I am frank to say," Vandenberg said in a statement, "that my chief anxiety about the tentative Dumbarton Oaks formula is that, except in its brief world court chapter, it does not once mention 'justice' as a guiding objective or a rule of conduct. In my opinion, no permanent peace is possible without a constant, conscious mandate to seek and to maintain 'justice' as the basis of peace."

The letter exchange between Vandenberg and Mr. Roosevelt coincided with word that the White House has asked Vice President Truman to serve as a liaison with the senate to clear the way for favorable action on the forthcoming treaties.

BUSINESS RUINED FOR MANY YEARS IN PHILIPPINES

Plants Destroyed, Office Records Lost.

BY WALTER SIMMONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, I. I., March 5.—American business firms lie so prostrate in the Philippines that they may take years to rise again, a Tribune survey showed today.

More than a month after the entry of our troops into Manila hardly a firm has made tentative plans for resumption of business. Many haven't yet been able to undertake comprehensive inspections of their properties.

A typical predicament is that of T. A. Roberts, formerly of Seattle, Wash., vice president of the Manila Motor company, Studebaker distributors before the war. Altho a substantial business man in 1941, he is now almost penniless, for his funds are tied up in the firm or in closed banks. Safes containing company records lie unguarded in the ruins of the building, and no transportation is available to haul them to a secure place.

Sugar Industry Ruined.

Roberts intends to return to the United States for several months' rest. Other firms, such as the Singer Sewing Machine company and the National City Bank of New York, are recalling their personnel temporarily until the situation clarifies.

Raw sugar plants such as the Delcarmen Panpanga mills at Florida Blanca and the Calamba sugar estates at Canlubang will require extensive repairs before operating again, E. T. Westly, well known sugar technologist, said.

"The idiotic management by the Japs during the war has done more to ruin the sugar industry than the wanton destruction," Westly said. "It will be some time before output will exceed 5 per cent of normal.

"The Japs failed to keep the equipment in repair and depleted the soil by neglecting to use fertilizer. In some cases the plants were converted to alcohol production and in others equipment was removed bodily to Japan."

Steel Firm to Resume.

The American owned Atlantic Gulf and Pacific company of Manila, which employed 8,000 men before the war, will soon attempt to resume limited operations, Ovid Boni, vice president and chief designer, said. The firm, which engages in iron and steel fabrication, was fortunate to find its machine shops capable of being repaired, altho the foundry and structural shops were damaged.

Boni said the firm's small tools, dredges, and floating equipment were lost but much steel and 5,000 tons of scrap iron had been left because the Japs lacked bottoms to send it to Japan.

"The worst blow," he said, "was the loss of 25,000 drawings costing over a million dollars and containing a record of our steel and concrete construction work for the past 40 years."

Other business men said the loss of their records was more crippling than the destruction of buildings and equipment. "The Japs seemed to take malicious delight in this," one said. "When we were interned at Santo Tomas we would often receive parcels wrapped in bank ledger sheets or sales contracts."

Coconut Industry Wrecked.

C. Roesholm, manager of the Celtic, which is affiliated with the American Texaco company, said the oil distribution industry could not expect to resume business until the war is over, since all its equipment was destroyed.

The coconut oil industry, which produces fats for soaps and cooking oils, has been wrecked, as has the mining industry, which produced gold, chromium, and copper. Inspection of mining property has shown wrecked machinery, much missing equipment, and flooded shafts.

Robert S. Hendry, editor of the American Chamber of Commerce Journal, said the homes of most Americans had either been burned by the Japanese or looted. In the first days following the American occupation the streets were filled with Filipinos carrying furniture and other objects from fine homes. Looters wantonly destroyed many articles, such as pianos, which could not be carried away in pushcarts.

Need Communications.

Hendry said the disruption of telephone, cable, and transportation services would also be a severe deterrent to business.

"One great need is for copies of American economic, commercial, and financial magazines for the last three years," he said.

"Another thing we're all wondering about is the extent to which our losses are covered by the federal war risk insurance act. We have not been able to pay premiums and are afraid we might not be protected."

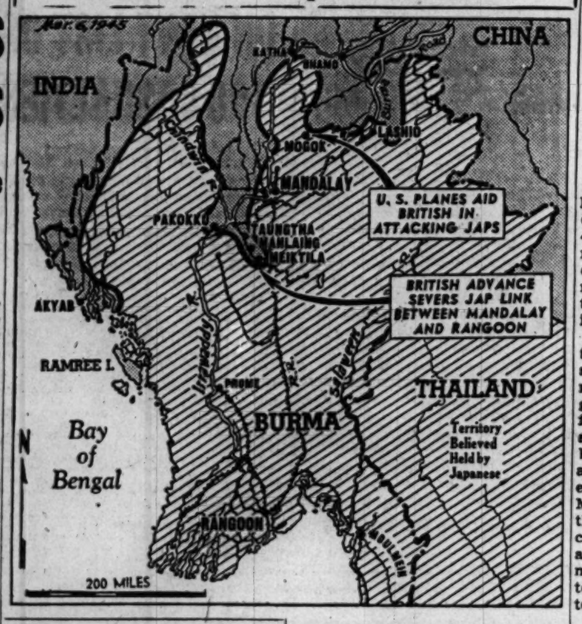
British Cut Deep Into Burma



QUESTION MARK HILL BECOMES A PERIOD FOR JAPS

33d Division Changes Its Punctuation.

BY GUY RICHARDS.
[Correspondent of the New York News and The Chicago Tribune.]

WITH 130TH INFANTRY REGIMENT IN BENGUET MOUNTAINS, Luzon, March 5.—Today's the big day. The whole 3d battalion of this regiment, one of the original outfits of Illinois 33d division, reinforced by two companies from the 136th infantry, is going to storm the last enemy entrenchments on Question Mark hill, southern bastion of Gen. Yamashita's mountain lair in Baguio.

Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson of San Antonio, Tex., has moved into the regimental command post, while the regimental commander, Lt. Col. Arthur S. Collins, 29, of Boston, has taken over the battalion command post.

The battalion post has moved since last night. The commander of the 3d battalion, Lt. Col. Orville Minton of Delavan, Ill., under cover of darkness led a skeleton staff, with radios and runners, up the slopes of Question Mark to a new forward command post just below the hogback taken over from I company yesterday by a company of the 136th, commanded by Capt. James W. Cavender of Waycross, Ga.

Attack Is Explained.

Just before dawn, Cavender reports the Japs atop Question Mark were active three times during the night but that our artillery pinned them down each time. He points out that the row of emplacements just over the knoll in front of him produced the greatest casualties yesterday. Then he gets his final orders from Col. Minton.

This is going to be a humdinger, the colonel explains, with the 33d division's artillery covering the entire cliffside. As the advance exposes men to new and uncovered hillsides, the artillery will shift its fire to those spots and smoke shells will be used to blind the enemy.

All the battalion's mortars will be in action, while heavy machine guns will cover K company. On Cavender's left flank and C and L companies on the right. The signal for the advance will be the lifting of the second barrage and the firing of a round of smoke shells to whiten the enemy's lines.

Four Companies Attack.

Promptly at 6:45 a. m. the barrage starts and for five minutes the Japs get the best that three battalions of 105 mm. howitzers and a battalion of 155s can dish out.

At 6:50 the barrage lifts. Fire is withheld for five minutes more to lure the Japs into sticking their heads up. Then it starts again and continues for five minutes. White clouds of smoke block out the view of the mountains. Our machine guns and mortars open up, and the assault troops are off.

Four rifle companies spread into a skirmish line, covering four times as much of Yamashita's doorstep as I company was able to cover yesterday. In just 30 minutes the charge has carried Question Mark 1,150 feet high.

Grinning Yanks carry Jap mortars and machine guns from caves. A checkup shows that our casualties are minor.

Long after the fight I am guided to the top of Question Mark by Maj. Hersel Williamson, battalion executive, of Peoria, Ill., and Pvt. Romeo Quilano of Brooklyn.

Why Hill Was Chosen.

It is a tough climb, even with no one to fight. We walk across the knoll and stare at a precipice facing Baguio. We have a perfect view of the trails and passes leading to that stronghold. It is now very clear why this big hill was chosen by our chief of infantry, Brig. Gen. Donald J. Myers of Boulder, Colo., as the first key terrain feature for the 33d division to steal from Yamashita.

Capt. Cavender explains:

"Last night three of my men were in a shellhole when a mortar landed near them. One got up, saying, 'Hell, I'm going to get out of here.' A minute later another mortar landed in the hole and killed both men who had remained.

"That lesson will reverse everything I've tried to teach my company, namely that mortars never land twice in the same place. Last night wasn't so nice, but the final attack was a picnic. We're here to stay."

NAPERVILLE B-29 FLYER AMONG 10 RESCUED AT SEA

CALCUTTA, India, March 5 (AP).—Ten American crewmen of a disabled B-29 were picked up in the Indian ocean 1,150 miles from their Indian base yesterday after they had bailed out of the flak-riddled bomber. It was the second similar rescue within 24 hours.

Twenty minutes after they jumped into the sea an R. A. F. Liberator, on a search for survivors of another Super Fortress, reached the spot where the men were floating in their life jackets. The Liberator dropped rubber rafts and supplies and signaled for a Catalina to come to the scene.

The Catalina made the 2,300 mile round trip to pick up the survivors, returning from a Singapore raid, including Lt. Otho Ellenberger of Naperville, Ill.; Lt. Samuel G. Wolf, Detroit, and Sgt. Jasper Speer of Norman, Ind.

BRITISH ARMOR RACES 85 MILES; CUTS JAPS' LINE NEAR MANDALAY

CALCUTTA, India, March 5 (AP).—British armored units, cutting across the Irrawaddy river valley in an 85 mile dash, have severed the main Japanese land, air, and water links between Mandalay and Rangoon and have seriously threatened the entire enemy position in Burma, allied headquarters said today.

With the aid of British air borne infantry, flown in at the climax of the operation, the armored column seized fight airdromes intact, killed more than 1,600 Japanese, captured 40 guns, and destroyed enough enemy supplies to feed a Japanese division for 10 days. The important communications center of Meiktila, 70 miles south of Mandalay, was captured.

In a long sweep thru central Burma, American fighter pilots gave the ground units support from the air and the column, which was partly self-sustaining, received some supplies from cargo planes.

The main Japanese forces defending Burma now are virtually cut off from the south.

CHICAGOAN DIES HERO OF BATTLE FOR IWO HEIGHT

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

IWO ISLAND, March 4 [Delayed].—Hill 382, so costly in lives of the fighting 4th division marines, is the most desolate piece of real estate on this nightmare island.

Capt. J. J. McCarthy.

A trip to the top of the impossible, eerie terrain, which gained its name from its height, attested the unbelievable courage and fighting spirit of the veteran marine division commanded by Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates. Twice the 4th almost won its way to the crest of the hill, which commands a view of most of the island's Japanese gun positions, only to be forced to retire during three days of bitter fighting.

The third time they stormed the ridge they hurled the Japanese back and held. The way the marines did it can be seen in the Jap dead strewn in caves and along the incline.

Boulders Hamper Tanks.

Charred Japanese bodies, cut down by marine flame throwers, sprawled in concreted and protected cave gun positions. Battered, burned enemy 47s and 75s dotted the hillside. Japanese tanks had been jammed into depressions to command the slope and beaches with their guns.

Boulder strewn gulches on the hill forbade the use of tanks. Open ground at the base of hill 382 forced the marines to win their way to the foot thru fire from everything the Japanese owned in the way of weapons.

The 4th did it the only way possible—the hard way—with infantry using flame throwers, hand grenades, machine guns, small arms, and mostly courage. Two veteran commanders aided in spearheading the attack. They are Captains Joseph J. McCarthy, a former Chicago fireman, and Walter Ridlon, Medford, Mass. Ridlon, wounded in the leg early in the fight, insisted on returning to his men and led them in storming the hill.

Chicagoan Is Hero.

With marines on one knoll and the Japanese on a second a short distance away, officers feared the Japanese would work their way to the rear and wipe out the marines. A Chicago marine volunteered to take a detail and install it at the base of the Japanese position.

When the Japanese left their position, men in the Chicagoan's detail cut them down. Later the Chicagoan turned to speak to a lieutenant. "He never finished," said the lieutenant. "A bullet hit him in the head. He snapped to attention and fell over. When we got to him he was dead."

The dead marine's name cannot be revealed until next of kin have been notified. First Lt. William T. Holder of Carbondale, Ill., directed the scout company during the campaign.

The bearded apparition who thrust his head out of a foxhole to say hello turned out to be Dr. Herbert D. Trace of Chicago. With the rest of the doctors assigned to the operation, he has been working day and night taking care of front line casualties.

His Squad Is One Man.

A touch of grim humor attested to the heavy casualties in one unit. A bearded sergeant asked a passing officer if it was okay if he kept his entire squad in the foxhole with him. The squad—what was left of it—was Pvt. Allen B. Duncan of Nashville, Tenn.

He wasn't anxious to discuss the operation. He said merely that the closest he came to death was when a bullet buried itself in the pack he was carrying without harming him.

Fighting as bitter as any in the campaign continued over the crest of the hill. Officers believed, however, that the capture of hill 382 broke the back of Japanese defenses.

Overcome

UNA MERKEL BURLA.

New York, March 5 (AP)—Blonde Una Merkel, actress whose specialty is scatterbrained southern belle types, was overcome by gas today when, police said, her 70 year old mother took her own life.

Mrs. Betsey Merkel.

Building employes, attracted by the odor of gas, broke into the hotel apartment and found Mrs. Betsey Merkel in the kitchen. Police said she had slashed her wrists, then, after sealing the kitchen doors with turkish towels, turned on four stove gas jets.

The actress, apparently overcome as she slept, was found unconscious in bed. She responded quickly to emergency treatment, however, and at Roosevelt hospital officials said her condition was good.

A pencilled note, found in the living room, said in part: "I see no way out—living is worse than death itself. . . . I can't take it any longer."

Miss Merkel, wife of Ronald L. Burla, an engineer with a California plane manufacturing concern, had been occupying the apartment with her mother since last May.

WOMAN WRITES OF LIFE REBORN AFTER JAP JAIL

A roast beef dinner, served to Americans who were liberated from Santo Tomas prison in Manila by Gen. MacArthur's troops, was "wonderful," Mrs. Lucille Kelly, 35, sister of Milo G. Beman, 5455 Oriole av., wrote in a letter he received yesterday. Mrs. Kelly, a former school teacher in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and her husband, Robert E., were employed in Manila for seven years before the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Lucille Kelly.

"What a wonderful feeling it is to know our freedom has been restored and we are on our way to health again," Mrs. Kelly wrote. "What a revelation for one to realize fully it is not a dream but a living truth come to pass.

"Our boys and nurses are the most wonderful beings on earth. What they have done for us they will never realize—they just plainly saved our lives. God bless them each and every one."

BRITISH FLEET IN PACIFIC READY, SAYS ADMIRAL

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 5 (AP).—Adm. Bruce Fraser says his British fleet now is ready for its first action in the Pacific after overcoming problems "once thought likely to prevent the British fleet from conducting full scale operations over a wide area of the Pacific."

In the last year, American naval engineers have constructed operational bases which "may be used jointly by the British and American fleets," the British commander in chief said today.

HOW ALUMINUM FIGHTS IN WAR TOLD BY W-G-N

Combat planes in all theaters of war, including the B-29s raining devastation on Tokyo, are 75 per cent aluminum. Battleships, landing craft, tanks, bridges thrown over enemy streams, field kitchens, and machine gun mounts—all are made in part of the versatile, lightweight, strong metal. More Chicago area workers to turn out aluminum sheeting to go into war materials are needed immediately.

In an effort to recruit hundreds of new workers for idle machines which should be producing aluminum sheeting, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and radio station W-G-N last night broadcast the story of the Aluminum Company of America and the role its plants in McCook, and in Lafayette, Ind., are playing in the prosecution of the war. The dramatic program was the fifth of a Monday night series entitled America Unlimited, produced with the coöperation of the army, navy, and the war man power commission.

Partners of Fighters.

The purpose of the broadcasts is to bring home to Chicago workers the present production needs of America and to help them to understand the essential part they are playing as partners of fighting men.

John L. Patterson, works manager of Alcoa in the Chicago district, told the air and studio audiences that the most important use for aluminum now is in the winning of the war. "We must produce twice as much aluminum sheeting as we are doing now," he said. "A job in the aluminum industry means help in winning the war today and in securing the peace tomorrow."

Broadcast from France.

Included in the dramatic show was a shortwave broadcast to W-G-N from France from a tactical air power team of pilot and gunner who had returned from a bombing mission over a German railroad network shortly before making the broadcast. The crew stressed the importance of an all-out home front effort to back up fighters overseas.

Jack La Frandre was writer-producer.

The sixth program in the series will be presented next Monday night from 9 to 9:30 p. m. over W-G-N. It will be dedicated to the Electro-Motive division of the General Motors corporation in La Grange, manufacturers of diesel locomotives hauling war cargo.

U.S. PLANES RAID AMOY IN CHINA, SAYS JAP RADIO

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokyo radio said "several tens of bombers, fighters and B-29s" raided Amoy, Chinese city in the southeastern province of Fukien, yesterday from 1 to 4:10 p. m.

The broadcast said the attacking planes, identified as a part of the China based American air force, had "machine gunned the city and dropped bombs at several points."

Ten American Super Fortresses raided Tokyo again yesterday, dropping bombs and incendiaries with "practically no damage," the Tokyo radio reported.

ROME, March 5.—It was confirmed today that Edward J. Flynn will come here to see Pope Pius XII. Despite President Roosevelt's by-passing of a press conference question concerning Flynn's mission to Moscow, the impression prevails here that the former Democratic national chairman has been selected to provide a preliminary liaison between Moscow and the Vatican with the possibility that he will turn out to be a key figure in any eventual rapprochement.

HOSPITAL FITS 140 LIMBLESS YANKS WEEKLY

Legs and Arms Built by Expert Technicians.

BY HARRY McCLAIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Battle Creek, Mich., March 5.—Skilfully guided by a noncommissioned officer with years of civil experience, a staff of 33 highly trained technicians in the orthopedic shop of Percy Jones General hospital is supplying artificial legs and arms to approximately 140 World War II. wounded soldiers weekly.

Opened to the first patients Jan. 15, 1943, Jones hospital originally took care of medical and surgical cases, but last year it was made an amputation center and now virtually all of the 1,000 to 1,200 patients here have lost an arm or a leg in battle.

The hospital is commanded by Brig. Gen. Joseph E. Bastion, an army surgeon for 37 years. Lt. Col. Francis M. McKeever is chief of surgical services.

Wounds Dressed Behind Lines.

Soldiers received at Jones hospital have left their arms or legs on or near the battlefields. Surgeons behind the lines make amputations and dress the wounds against infection. Then the men are sped back to the United States.

Within a few days after a soldier's arrival at Jones hospital he undergoes a second amputation during which the bone in his stump is shaped and the muscles and flesh drawn over the bone and prepared for healing.

In from five to seven weeks the soldier is ready for fitting of an artificial member with which the army hopes to restore him to as near normal as possible.

Minute Measurements Taken.

Because surgeons do not want patients to become crutch conscious, artificial limbs are supplied as speedily as possible. The first step is getting a pattern of the good arm or leg. Minute measurements are taken and when the artificial member is finished it will be virtually a duplicate of the natural member.

Lined on shelves in the big orthopedic shop are hundreds of parts of artificial legs—feet, lower legs, and upper legs. These are in various sizes and parts are selected which nearly meet measurements of the drawing. Each of the shop technicians is a specialist in one operation, so a dozen or more men may work on one leg.

Feet are of the finest willow. Upper and lower legs are fiber, and knee blocks are of willow. Feet are shaped to exact fit of the patient's shoe, hinged with leather to give toe action and at the heel to give ankle action.

Ball Bearing Joint Used.

When the fiber parts have been shaped to size and riveted the other parts are added, connection at the knee being made with a ball bearing hinged joint. Pure rubber inserts in the toe and heel absorb shock and give recoil action.

Sockets are lined with the finest leather, care being taken to shape them so the patient's weight is distributed properly on the shaped sides of his stump, not the bottom. In high amputation cases a belt also is provided to carry the weight of the leg above the hips.

When a patient's leg is fitted he takes his first steps between hand rails and in front of a mirror where he can see his mistakes. Until he has learned balance, some additional support may be necessary, but in an amazingly short time most patients are able to walk almost normally.

Yank Dances Every Dance.

One Jones patient recently walked to a dance 12 days after his leg was fitted and danced every dance thruout the evening. He later proved his dexterity by tap dancing before his comrades. Another soldier fitted with an artificial leg conducted physical education classes and even his commanding officer did not know he had the leg until he appeared one day on crutches because he had left the leg in the shop for adjustment.

Artificial legs supplied to soldiers in Jones hospital are called "temporary," but this is only because construction permits adjustments to fit changing conditions which may arise within the first year or so.

The difference between "temporary" and "permanent" legs, according to Master Sgt. David P. Keith, whose civilian profession is making them, is that when a permanent leg is damaged it must be replaced in entirety in most cases, whereas temporary legs can be repaired quickly with a new part.

Sgt. Keith explained that the normal life of a permanent leg is about 5 years and added that with proper care there is no reason why the legs supplied in Jones hospital will not serve equally.

Surgeons are eager to have amputation patients go home on 30 day furloughs as soon as they can walk. When the soldiers come back a month later most have become quite proficient.

CROWLEY WANTS LEND-LEASE TO CONTINUE TO '49

Would Keep Sending After War Ends.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—Administrative officials, while contending lend-lease billions are solely a "war supply" mechanism, urged congress today to authorize lend-lease shipments abroad until at least 1949 to enable a final "cleanup" of the program.

Leo Crowley.

The request was made by Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley and Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson before the house foreign affairs committee. The two witnesses were recalled by the committee, after earlier appearances, at the insistence of Republican members. The Republicans have suggested the New Deal is planning post-war global relief thru a four year continuance of lend-lease, cloaked under the guise of only a one year extension.

Rep. Chiperfield [R., Ill.] observed today that the pending administration bill would ostensibly extend lend-lease for one year, until June 30, 1946, but would provide three more years for completing our multibillion dollar commitments entered into before that date.

Extends F. D. R. Authority.

"What this amounts to," said Chiperfield, "is that the President has full authority to continue lend-lease for four years. This means that, war or no war, we will be lend-leasing until the last possible minute before June 30, 1949. What I want to do is to stop lend-lease the minute the war ends to save American taxpayers the payment of more billions for post-war relief and reconstruction in Europe."

Crowley replied that he has no thought of using lend-lease for European relief, but he insisted the United States may want to continue shipments of supplies after the fight stops, and perhaps even beyond 1949, to "liquidate" pending lend-lease contracts.

"If you agree that lend-lease is solely a war measure," interjected Rep. Vorys [R., O.], "what objection is there to congress saying so in the law and flatly prohibiting the program as a post-war project?"

Hold G. O. P. Misunderstands.

Acheson protested that such a prohibition would only "introduce hopeless and utter confusion because the lend-lease administration would be helpless to do anything after the war ends." Vorys' proposal, he continued, would prevent any final lend-lease settlements after the war.

Acheson and Crowley professed the belief the Republican members have a misunderstanding of the purpose of the proposed three year "cleanup" period.

Crowley cited the recent agreement with France requiring us to supply 2½ billion dollars worth of raw materials and industrial equipment under a lend-lease contract contemplating French repayment within 30 years.

Explain France's Part.

Under this agreement, he explained, materials may continue to be shipped to France after the war's end, assuming it ends before 1949. This provision, he said, is a "benefit" rather than a burden to the United States, because, he explained, France will thus be a market for materials not needed by this country.

"Our financial liabilities in liquidating the lend-lease program will be minimized and our surplus problems after the war reduced," Crowley said. "The French taxpayers will assume a burden which would otherwise be borne by American taxpayers."

Rep. Jarman [D., Ala.] said he thought every one agreed with the Republicans' stand that lend-lease should be stopped as soon as possible after the war.

"I don't," interrupted Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas [D., Cal.], freshman congresswoman and wife of screen actor Melvyn Douglas. She did not elaborate.

TERM WINCHELL 'NAZI' SMEAR OF ADMIRAL FALSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 5.—Alexander E. Sakellariou, former vice admiral of the Greek navy, went ahead with his anti-Communist speech before the Mid-day club here tonight after the state department had branded as false a charge by Walter Winchell, New Deal smear columnist, that he was pro-Nazi.

Club officials, headed by Walter Provine, became a bit alarmed about their program after hearing a Winchell broadcast asserting that Sakellariou had Nazi leanings. They asked Rep. Howell [R., Ill.] of Springfield to consult the state department. Howell sent word that he was assured the Winchell story was false.

Lauds Soviet Offensive.

Sakellariou paid tribute to the "magnificent counter-offensive" of the soviet armies but pulled no punches in dealing with the civil war in Greece. In his prepared speech, he said:

"No doubt you were surprised to see my people immediately after liberation engage in a civil war. Let me assure you that was not the making of the great majority of the Greek people.

"It was schemed, planned, and attempted by a well-organized and well armed small minority, controled by fanatical international Communists. They obtained their arms under false claims to fight the Germans. When the country was liberated they refused to surrender their arms to the provisional government and turned them against the law abiding citizens for the purpose of imposing by force their own form of government, irrespective of the will of the majority of the people.

Savage as the Nazis.

"Much misrepresentation has been published here and abroad by them. Let me assure you that when censorship is lifted and letters arrive from Greece you will learn that those perpetrators were a combination of gangsters, whose crimes against the poor, innocent, and impartial citizens of Greece equaled in monstrosity those committed when savage hordes of Nazis overran my country.

"To demonstrate the percentage of Communists in Greece in 1936 under the proportional system of voting, they had only 11 members in the parliament out of 250. It is very surprising that such a small minority could and did by its noise make some people here and abroad believe that they represented the majority."

Sakellariou said that after partial recovery from the sufferings of war and civil war the Greeks will support a government chosen by fair elections under impartial supervision.

"Some day, dear, when we're old and gray, you'll look back at these days and see how happy you were!"

BROWDER BOAST OF RED OFFICERS AROUSES STORM

House Gets Warning of Peril to U.S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—Earl Browder's boast that members of his Communist party are entrenched in the army as commissioned officers evoked the prospect today of an investigation by the house committee on un-American activities.

Rep. Rankin [D. Miss.], a committee member declared in a floor speech that nothing could be more dangerous to national safety and army morale "than to place in key positions individuals who are devoted to the destruction of everything we are fighting for."

He promised the house group will "turn the sunlight of merciless publicity on these subversive elements" and force their removal from posts of influence in the army.

Committee Probe Under Way.

A house military subcommittee is investigating the infiltration of Communists into the army as an aftermath of the disclosure that the army has relaxed its ban on Communists.

Browder, discussing the controversy in yesterday's issue of the Daily Worker, official Communist organ, wrote: "Of course Communists are now holding commissions in the United States army."

"This statement," Rankin told the house, "was enough to sound an alarm in every American home and especially every home that has a son in our armed forces.

Key Positions Cited.

"The Communists holding commissions in the army—to which Browder refers—as a rule are not on the firing line. They are in key positions such as the intelligence service, or communications service, where they can secure the most valuable information touching our war efforts. Or else they are engaged as instructors in indoctrination centers where they preach their un-American propaganda in broken English to their communistic cohorts and parlor pink sympathizers, or drum it into the ears of our service men."

...it wasn't MUCH of a tie...

Give me back the good old days when the customer was always right. There was something wholesome about the time when an entire personnel of a store bent their efforts to show that your patronage was much appreciated. Alas—them were the good old days.

I was talking to Mary the other day about this business of taking pride in one's work. Mary is a counter girl at one of our Loop stores—and, at the time, she was fixing me one of those Stineway malteds we like to brag about. Mary agreed that we should all do our best. "You know"—she said as she poured my malted—"Some of the girls could try harder." A chunk of ice cream as big as a golf ball dropped into the almost filled glass. A drop of malted milk bounced on my tie. "Look Mary"—said I—"You didn't stir that malted long enough—is that how you would serve a customer?" "Oh no"—she answered—"But you're not exactly a customer." Technically, Mary was right—and it wasn't much of a tie, anyhow. It's a comfort to know it won't happen to you.

IWO AND RHINE WAR DETAILS HEARD ON W-G-N

Scenes Inside Cologne Told by Tribune Man.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Listeners within range of W-G-N-Mutual yesterday heard eyewitness accounts of events on Iwo Jima and from the 1st and 9th armies on the Rhine. Lt. Raymond Fred Malo, of Danville, Ill., pilot of the first B-29 to alight on Iwo Jima, speaking from Guam, told of his experience in landing a Super Fortress on an air strip built for fighter planes. The plane rolled in alongside Mount Suribachi, he said, and knocked down the wind sock at the end of the strip. Malo and his crew were returning from their first run to Tokyo and came down on Iwo at night when their fuel supply ran low.

"They told me that there was a correspondent for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Iwo," said Malo. "I could hardly believe them." [Tom Morrow, Tribune war correspondent, has been sending home eyewitness accounts of the battle.]

John Thompson, Tribune correspondent with the 1st army, reported by short wave: "We are in Cologne—fighting inside the city limits." Thompson reported civilians emerging from cellars to surrender.

"The buildings do not seem as badly damaged as in Aachen," he said.

Sigrid Schultz, formerly Berlin correspondent for THE TRIBUNE, now with the 9th army, reported that she was back in Germany. "The German civilians are eloquent but not necessarily convincing in their denunciation of Hitler," she reported. She had met only one German, she said, protesting loyalty to Hitler.

CAUSE OF DODGE BLAST HUNTED; 5 WORKERS HURT

Army air force officials opened an investigation yesterday to determine the cause of an explosion in the Dodge Chicago plant, 7401 S. Cicero av., which caused injuries to five workmen earlier in the day and wrecked a laboratory testing room. Plant officials said damage was small and consisted chiefly of broken windows.

The injured, all taken to Passavant hospital, are: John Valles, 28, of 1137 Eaton st., Hammond, Ind., head injuries and cuts; Walter Crane, 35, of 9635 Genoa av.; Frank Caputo, 24, of 7644 Drexel av.; Stanley Siwkowski, 46, of 4836 W. 28th st., Cicero, and Vito Cariale, 4-, of 6445 S. Paulina st., minor cuts and bruises.

Harry L. McClellan, public relations director, said the blast was accompanied by a sharp detonation which was heard thruout a large area and resulted in a flood of inquiries. There was no panic in the plant, he added, and no fire resulted. Francis Egan, chief of the 26th battalion, which was called to the scene, said he believes a generator spark exploded high octane gasoline seeping into the ventilating system. The plant makes engines for B-29 bombers. Operation was not interrupted.

HOUSE PROBES BUREAU'S WASTE OF SCARCE PAPER

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—Government use of paper to publish a 265 page census bureau volume on the "Fertility of Women" is being investigated by a house subcommittee.

Rep. Brown [R., O.] read an account of the volume to the house today and commented:

"I think it's asinine and outrageous that the government is wasting the people's money that way during a great war when we have a shortage of paper."

Rep. Boren [D., Okla.], chairman of an interstate commerce subcommittee investigating newsprint shortages, said he would call upon the census bureau and the budget bureau for an explanation.

SLAYER STANDS BESIDE FURNACE, TELLS OF CRIME

Janitor Booked on Murder Charge.

Joseph Nischt, south side janitor, was booked on a charge of murder yesterday after he had portrayed the furnace slaying Wednesday of Mrs. Rose Michaelis, 58, a tenant in the building where he worked and the scene of the crime at 6855 Clyde av.

Decision to book the 30 year old janitor came after Atty. James M. Burke sued for a writ of habeas corpus in the Criminal court. Nischt is scheduled to be arraigned in the Felony court this forenoon.

Ashes at Dump Sifted.

Altho Nischt has confessed the murder willingly two or three times and has demonstrated how he committed the crime, police were still faced with one difficult legal barrier—the corpus delicti, or some factual evidence of the death of the victim. To that end, detectives yesterday were sifting ashes in a city dump at 108th st. and Indianapolis av. in hopes of finding a ring or other substances associated with Mrs. Michaelis.

Handcuffed to Sgt. Emmett Murphy, Nischt was taken under heavy guard from the Woodlawn station to the Clyde av. murder scene. Also present were Asst. State's Atty. Blair Varnes, Chief of Detectives Storms, Lt. Philip Breitzke, head of the homicide detail, and Capt. Edward Kelly.

100 Gather in Alley.

A crowd of more than 100 persons, mostly women, gathered in the alley as the party drove up, and one or two muttered, "They ought to put him [Nischt] in the furnace, too."

Nischt, calm for the most part, told how he saw Mrs. Michaelis coming up the alley. He was seized, he said, with a sexual urge. He hastened to the boiler room, unlocked the door, then stepped outside and as Mrs. Michaelis appeared, punched her hard twice. Then he half carried, half dragged her to the furnace. Once she cried out, "Let me go."

The janitor then said he lifted and pushed her head first into the fire box and pushed her body further in with a shovel. He showed the officers the physical operations of this deed. That done, Nischt said, he put the stoker into operation and left. About 9:30 p. m. he returned, he said. There was little left of the body, he said, and he covered it with coal.

Taken Back to Station.

After Nischt's portrayal he was taken back to the Woodlawn station, where Varnes ordered him booked for murder.

Atty. Burke said Nischt's confessions sounded fantastic and that it would take more than the finding of a human bone in a dump pile to convict him. Thus far no trace of Mrs. Michaelis has been uncovered by police, so that legally all police have is the fact she is missing and that Nischt has said he killed her.

Nischt was born and reared on the south side, where his father, Anton, a Hungarian, worked as a janitor for more than 35 years. He was graduated from the O'Keeffe public school, across the street from the apartment building in which the crime was committed.

Known as Bully When a Boy.

Nischt, who had the reputation of being a bully even in his early schooldays, sought work soon after his graduation. His father was later instrumental in getting him into the janitors' union. He was often berated by his parent "for squandering his money and drinking excessively." A few months ago he was arraigned in Grand Crossing court on a charge of striking a woman in a tavern.

He had been employed in the Clyde av. building for 3½ years. He has a brother, Anton Jr., recovering from wounds suffered in Italy and a stepson who is also with American troops fighting there. He was an acquaintance of the Michaelis family for several years.

Emil V. Pacini was the winner last night over Max A. Pieczynski in the 10th ward aldermanic run-off election. The final vote in the ward's 66 precincts gave Pacini 10,322, Pieczynski 9,518.

Pacini and Pieczynski were high men on the ballot Feb. 3, when none of the four candidates received a majority. Both are Democrats. Pacini is secretary of the ward Democratic organization. PRESS FREEDOM PLEA REJECTED IN FEDERAL SUIT

Philadelphia, Pa., March 5 (AP).—The third United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today there was no violation of the freedom of the press or any other constitutional rights of newspapers when the federal wage and hour division subpenaed employment and shipping records of the publisher of the Paterson, N. J., Evening News.

The wage division alleged it had information that the News Printing company, publisher of the paper, was not paying employes wage rates set by law.

Refusing to produce its records, the company contended the subpena violated the first, fourth, and fifth amendments of the Constitution.

SUIT TO DIVORCE 'SWEETHEART OF MARINES' FILED

Cambridge, Mass., March 5 (Special).—Joseph Patrick Mulligan Sr., who sought unsuccessfully a year ago to obtain annulment of the marriage of his high school son, 16, to the former Mary Ann Brydges, 18, today filed a divorce suit in his son's behalf, charging cruel treatment.

Mrs. J. P. Mulligan Jr.

It had been charged in the annulment suit that young Mulligan was held against his will at the Brydges home and then induced to marry the girl with expenses being paid by the bride's parents.

The former Miss Brydges, once a high school classmate of the younger Mulligan, was given the title, "sweetheart of the marines" after a contest in 1942, and appeared in New York on a radio program. She said she financed the wedding with $30 she had earned. Hearing on the divorce action was set for March 26. The couple has one child.

19 TAKEN IN GAMING RAID RELEASED FOR LACK OF WARRANTS

Judge Francis J. Borrelli in State st. court yesterday dismissed gambling charges against three men arrested without warrants Sunday as keepers of a gambling establishment at 1752 Chicago av. He also dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against 16 persons arrested as patrons. The alleged keepers were Harold Wiseman, 36, of 20 E. Delaware pl., Mario Lupo, 38, of 710 N. Ridgeway av., and Frank Santore, 38, of 1854 Erie st. Lt. William A. Balswick, from Police Commissioner Allman's office, argued that the police had a right to enter the establishment because it had a "cigar store front." He said the city may appeal the case, and $1,200 which was confiscated was held by the court pending the city's action.

CURFEW SHIFT OPENS LIQUOR FLOW AT 7 A. M.

State and Local Laws to Guide, WMC Rules.

Chicago taverns, cafes, and night clubs may now reopen at 7 o'clock in the morning in conformity with city ordinance instead of at 8 a. m., as previously announced under the curfew rules, William H. Spencer, regional director for the war man power commission, said yesterday after seeking instructions from Washington, D. C., at Mayor Kelly's request.

The latest in the long series of curfew rulings is in line with the latest national ruling, Spencer said, that state laws and local ordinances thruout the nation may govern the opening time for dispensing alcoholic beverages. Local license holders had sought Kelly's aid in ascertaining whether the local ordinance was to be supplanted by the 8 o'clock ruling.

Musician Issue Adjusted.

Meanwhile, the brewing battle between the cafe owners' association and the Chicago Federation of Musicians unexpectedly resolved into a matter of sweetness and light with both sides claiming victory in the matter of contract revisions concerning minimum hours that the musicians may play.

The musicians' union, thru a spokesman, announced that it was dealing with the night club operators on an individual basis and modifying existing contracts in hardship cases to provide for individual needs. Some of the modifications meet the association's demand for a five hour, six day week.

However, the musicians' spokesman said, the union was not bowing to the cafe owners' demand for a 30 hour minimum week under a threat to discharge 3,500 musicians.

Compromise Policy Disclosed.

"It always has been the federation's policy to compromise with cafe owners and make concessions in situations beyond any one's control," he said. "Where the owners acted decently in giving the required two weeks' notice we were glad to cooperate in allowing musicians to fall back on their minimum contract. Musicians affected will lose one to six hours work each week. Man power liberated for the war effort will be negligible."

The union insisted that in the majority of the 450 places that employ union musicians a 30 hour week was already in effect, so that the modification was merely a falling back to the minimum. The association pointed out that its members, most of them large establishments, were under longer contracts up to 48 hours a week, which they could not meet with reduced revenues.

John Comiso, president of the operators, said he had withdrawn the threat to fire the musicians last night, "because we have won the first round with revisions being made on an individual basis."

Donald F. Kiesau, executive vice president of the Chicago Restaurant association, said his organization will confer with Spencer this week after it has compiled figures on the hardships which the midnight closing order on restaurants operating less than 24 hours a day is working on war workers and essential civilian employes.

National Association Acts.

Protest in Washington is being made thru the National Restaurant association, Kiesau said.

There are about 185 restaurants in Chicago which are open 24 hours a day, the only ones that are permitted to stay open under the most recent interpretation of the curfew handed down from Washington. There are between 200 and 300 restaurants ordinarily open until 1 or 2 a. m., Kiesau said, and these restaurants have filled the after midnight need for eating places. They must now close at midnight.

COURT UPHOLDS STATE'S RIGHT TO CONTROL UNIONS

But Part of Kansas Law Is Upset.

Topeka, Kas., March 5 [Special].—A three judge federal court today upheld the right of the state to regulate labor unions but ruled that three sections of the 1943 Kansas labor regulation control law are unconstitutional.

The court left intact sections of the law which term sitdown strikes illegal and which limit picketing to peaceful methods. Neither did it pass on a provision which union officials had claimed would wreck closed shop contracts by giving employes the right to refrain from any and all union activities.

Upheld as constitutional were provisions requiring union business agents to buy state licenses for $1 and demanding annual financial reports from unions.

Strike Clause Held Void.

Ruled unconstitutional were sections of the law that prohibited work stoppages not authorized by a majority vote of employes, banned jurisdictional strikes arising from disputes between unions, and sought to prevent secondary boycotts in which sympathetic unionists often refuse to handle supplies and equipment produced during a strike.

The court ruled that any abridgement of the right to strike is an infringement upon basic human rights. Judge Alfred P. Murray of Oklahoma City wrote in the majority opinion:

"The right to peacefully strike or participate in one, to work or refuse to work, to choose the terms and conditions under which one will work, like the right to make a speech, are fundamental human liberties which the state may not condition or abridge in the absence of grave and immediate danger to the community.

Rights Not Violated.

"The state of Kansas has not conditioned these rights but has expressly prohibited them and made their exercise a criminal offense. We think it is the inherent prohibition of the statute standing alone which comprises the unconstitutional restraint.

"Because we have refrained from enjoining certain sections of this act we do not wish to be understood as necessarily adjudicating their constitutionality as they may be ultimately construed and applied. We simply hold that they do not, upon their face, encroach upon fundamental human rights."

Judge Eugene Rice, also of Oklahoma, concurred in the decision. Judge Walter A. Huxman, former governor of Kansas, concurred in the opinion the three provisions were unconstitutional but filed a dissenting opinion pointing out his views on the court's other rulings.

Validity of the law was attacked in separate actions brought by representatives of the AFL, CIO, construction trades council of Kansas City and the United Mine Workers.

Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Circuit court, who is 67 years old, resigned yesterday after 27 years as a judge, and Leonard C. Reid, master in chancery of Circuit court, was sworn in to complete the unexpired term.

Judge Trude served 16 years as a Circuit judge, and 11 on the Municipal bench. Ernst N. Rubel, who has been Judge Trude's bailiff almost continuously since 1918, will be retained by Judge Reid.

STOLL KIDNAPER LOSES APPEAL IN SUPREME COURT

Vote 7 to 2 to Uphold Death Sentence.

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—The Supreme court upheld today the death sentence imposed on Thomas H. Robinson Jr. for the 1934 kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville, Ky.

T. H. Robinson Jr.

Justice Black delivered the court's 7-2 opinion. Assenting were Chief Justice Stone and Justices Roberts Reed, Frankfurter, Douglas, and Jackson. Justice Rutledge wrote a dissent in which Justice Murphy agreed.

Robinson was sentenced under the Lindbergh kidnap act, which allows for the death sentence in a ransom kidnaping. His appeal to the Supreme court hinged on interpretation of a provision in the act that the death sentence "shall not be imposed by the court if, prior to its imposition, the kidnaped person has been liberated unharmed."

His counsel argued that any injuries suffered by the kidnaped person must be permanent and in evidence at the time sentence is pronounced, else the death penalty may not be imposed.

Cites Lack of Evidence.

The attorney said that at the trial of Robinson which resulted in the death sentence no evidence was given that Mrs. Stoll "then was suffering in any manner from effects of the alleged kidnaping."

Justice department attorneys contended that when Mrs. Stoll was freed she had head injuries and was in a state of general nervous exhaustion.

Black said it was "the clear purpose of congress to authorize juries to recommend and judges to inflict the death penalty, under certain circumstances, for kidnapers who harmed their victims."

"We cannot doubt that a kidnaper who violently struck the head of his victim with an iron bar, as evidence showed that this petitioner [Robinson] did, comes within the group congress had in mind," Black added.

No Pin Prick Distinction.

"This purpose to authorize a death penalty is clear, even tho congress did not unmistakably mark some boundary between a pin prick and a permanently mutilated body."

In his dissent Rutledge said he would vacate the judgment of the lower court and send the case back to it for a re-sentence.

"This case," he said, "involves the law's extreme penalty. That penalty should not rest on doubtful command or vague and uncertain conditions. The words used here, for its imposition, are too general and unprecise, the purposes congress had in using them too obscure."

NEW PUBLIC AID BUREAU URGED IN LEGISLATURE

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 5.—A move to create a new department for Illinois' public aid program which is the largest single item in the budget will be made tomorrow when Sen. Crisenberry [R., Murphysboro] introduces a bill for the purpose.

Two years ago old age assistance and aid to dependent children were transferred from the department of public welfare to the Illinois Public Aid commission headed by Edward L. Ryerson, steel manufacturer. It caused the biggest legislative battle of the session.

Clash Over Hilliard.

Some interpret the new move as aimed against Raymond M. Hilliard, the public aid director.

Others believe it is intended to strike a blow against organized social workers by means of a new setup in which they envision good jobs filled thru patronage.

Hilliard aroused antagonism from a number of Republican politicians by trying to enforce the law requiring financially able children to support parents who need help.

If the Crisenberry bill is passed, it would be no surprise if Gov. Green appointed Hilliard as director of the new department.

Gov. Green today announced he would pass along to the legislature his proposal for remapping of congressional districts in Illinois without waiting to hear the protests of Republican incumbents in congress who might be affected by the redistricting.

Traction Bill Studied.

The Chicago metropolitan area traction bills may not be introduced this week. This was learned after Gov. Green spent some hours poring over the measures with Attorney Werner W. Schroeder and Jerome Finkle, head of the legislative reference bureau. A number of technical flaws were found.

THE TRUSTEESHIP HOAX.

Members of a congressional committee studying our Pacific defense needs have expressed concern that Mr. Roosevelt is bent on giving away the former Japanese mandated islands even faster than our soldiers and marines consecrate them with their blood.

The suspicions are excited by a hint from the Yalta conference that the islands, which as long ago as the Cairo conference it was announced are to be taken from Japan, are not to be placed under the sovereignty of the United States, which is conquering them. Instead, an international trusteeship is reported to have been invented, under which the United States will be put to the effort and expenditure of occupying and defending the islands, while their use will be given to members of some proposed new league of nations.

In the United States John W. Davis, Sumner Welles, and Prof. James T. Shotwell, all past masters at sacrificing American interests for the benefit of other nations, are conducting propaganda on behalf of this one sided trusteeship. This is being done even tho the proposal is made ridiculous not only by the simple military facts as they now exist and will continue to exist in the Pacific, but as well by the admission of our allies that they are impotent to defend themselves against Japan unless we do the major part of the work.

We have not undertaken in this war to destroy the Japanese people. Short of their utter destruction experience demonstrates that there is no means of preventing their eventual reemergence as a military threat in the Pacific. We talk a good deal of disarmament and of driving the militaristic elements out of power. Experience should show that that will not work perpetually. Victors frequently grow careless, while the vanquished nourish their grievances and await the opportunity for revenge.

The best security against future Japanese aggression lies in properly placed and securely held bases which will stop the inevitable Japanese aggression before it gets started. The only nation capable of manning those bases and furnishing that security is the United States. It is absurd to think that China can put up any better defense next time than she has this, or that the European empires can do better in the future than they did in this war, when they were stripped of their colonial possessions within a few weeks.

The British dominions acknowledge this predicament. Prime Minister Curtin of Australia, in his tribute to Gen. MacArthur and American fighting men on the recapture of Manila, said that the gallant defense of Bataan and Corregidor bought the time that was vital to stop the Japanese drive short of Australia. At the latest conference of British commonwealths in London the Australian and New Zealand delegates said openly that they were dependent upon the United States to maintain security in the Pacific. While our allies cheerfully hand us this responsibility, they are niggardly in giving us the means of carrying it out.

Communications are vital to the military defense of the Pacific islands. Arthur Veysey, THE TRIBUNE'S Pacific war correspondent, reports that while our allies have jealously maintained their own communications monopolies in their own territories, they have been quick to move in to compete with American communications systems in ours. An Australian company has a communications monopoly in New Guinea. It refused to set up facilities in the forward battle area and it discouraged the American army from providing those facilities. Correspondents in New Guinea had to take or send their copy a thousand miles back to Port Moresby in order to get it to the United States.

When we moved into Dutch territory the same dog-in-the-manger attitude was encountered; the Dutch, whose only contribution to the liberation of their colony was to send civil administrators to take over the territory we had won for them, insisted on maintaining a Dutch communications monopoly. There were no Dutch facilities, but the Dutch prevented the army setting up its own for the use of war correspondents. News reports to America still had to go all the way back to the Australian facilities at Port Moresby.

When we entered the Philippines, the Australian company, which had failed to provide facilities in the forward areas of New Guinea, immediately moved in there and the authorities compelled an American concern, Press Wireless, to give part of its supplies so that the Australians could set up a competing business.

This suggests one of the motives for the so-called trusteeship of the former Japanese islands. American communications systems will still be barred from competing with the monopolies of our allies in the latter's territory, but those monopoly systems will immediately move into the trusteed islands to compete with us. The motive behind Dumbarton Oaks, behind the so-called interim air agreements that the state department has attempted to declare operative without the approval of the senate, and behind the coming united nations conference at San Francisco, where the international trusteeship plan is to be brought into the open, is to gain access to the territories won by American blood.

Our international capitalists are for it because under international trusteeship they expect to be able to do things repulsive to American morality and forbidden by American law. America must insist that we keep the islands we have won. Only in that way can Japan be watched.

It is to be noted that at Yalta there was no suggestion of trusteeship of the Baltic states or of the land stripped from Poland, or of the Mediterranean territories. It is only on the land won by American valor that our allies move in and nominate themselves as partners.

NOTE ON MAN POWER.

Sen. Byrd's latest report for the joint committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures shows the New Deal pay roll at an all-time high of 3,372,710 employes at the end of January. Instead of complying with the committee's order to cut down, the burocracy added 11,058 new payrollers since last Nov. 1.

"Despite the fact that this committee has made repeated requests to reduce federal personnel by 300,000, the January total represents an increase of 67,481 over the same period last year," Sen. Byrd stated. "The amount necessary for personnel on the present basis is approximately 7 billion dollars a year."

If the committee's recommendations to trim down the pay roll had been followed, the senator said, 300,000 persons would have been released by now. That would have been sufficient man power to produce in excess of 126 B-29 Super Fortresses every 24 hours, or more than 39,410 of those planes in a year. And still the burocrats say there's a man power shortage.

THE SEDITION FARCE RESUMED.

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough quailed perceptibly when the sedition case was turned loose in his courtroom on Thursday.

After listening to the babel customary to that proceeding, the judge observed that "if the attitude that exists here today prevails, it would be impossible to try the case." This is perhaps the wisest statement regarding this legal monstrosity that has been heard in two and a half years.

In an attempt to transplant a Russian propaganda trial to an American courtroom, the administration named as defendants the most astonishing aggregation of crackpots ever brought together, and brought on a hearing which made a travesty of legal procedure for eight months, until the harried judge died and a mistrial resulted. No different conduct could be expected if the case were again brought to trial. As Justice Goldsborough observed, a court does not have the right to stop attorneys from protecting as they see fit the rights of their clients. Even leaving out of consideration the character of the clients in this case, the vague and tenuous nature of the charges brought by the prosecution makes an orderly trial impossible.

Leaving out of consideration the few Nazi agents who were added for window dressing and have already been tried on other charges and sentenced to long prison terms, the defendants in the sedition case have only one thing in common. They hate Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal and have expressed their hatred in violent terms. A good many of them are anti-Semitic, but they cannot be indicted for that by a federal grand jury. A number of them, if they are not crazy enough to be committed, certainly are not models of rationality. None of them had a tenth of the notoriety that they achieved thru the government's prosecution. Few of them were acquainted with each other, yet the government undertook to prove that they had all engaged in a monster conspiracy against their country.

Actually the purpose of the trial was, by picking a few obscure, usually poor, friendless, and frequently despicable persons as defendants, to intimidate any criticism of Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal. In that the prosecution failed. The defendants made use of the courtroom as a forum in which to amplify twenty times over the crackpot ideas that otherwise would have gone largely unnoticed.

The defendants have been subjected to most serious violations of their civil rights. By the improper use of the conspiracy charge they were dragged thousands of miles from their homes to face trial, and have been forced to provide bail or sit in jail while the charges have been dragged thru three successive indictments, over two and a half years. If the administration really believes that the defendants have committed any crimes, it should be anxious to bring them to trial in an orderly proceeding in which it would be possible for a judge and jury to reach a verdict. As Justice Goldsborough said, that is impossible in the present case.

Determination of guilt or innocence would be relatively simple if the present conspiracy indictment were dismissed and those charged with overt acts to the alleged conspiracy were indicted for those acts in the districts in which they were committed, and brought to trial singly. That, however, is a procedure that the administration is not likely to attempt, because it knows that it could not prove its case against very many of the present defendants under such circumstances.

The defendants were indicted three times. The first two indictments were abandoned by the prosecution because of legal defects discovered in them, and the trial eventually took place on the third indictment. Mr. Rogge, the prosecutor, was asked before Justice Goldsborough why the first two indictments have not been dismissed. He asserted that they had been allowed to stand as a favor to the defendants, because the latter had posted bonds under the first one and if it were dismissed they would be put to the expense of finding new bail. If his statement were true, there should have been no objection to dismissing some defendants who were named in the first indictment and not in the later ones. When this was brought to Mr. Rogge's attention, he replied that the indictments had been left standing so that the department of justice could further check the records of these defendants.

No better proof could be had that the department of justice regards the sedition indictments as instruments of persecution rather than prosecution.

JUST AN OLD SONG.

American troops are closing in on Mandalay, and a revival of Rudyard Kipling's song about that town in the middle of Burma seems to be in order. We fear, however, that this historical circumstance will be overlooked, and that the radio waves will continue to be clotted with such ephemeral ditties as "Don't Fence Me In" and "Accentuate the Positive."

* * *

Kipling's "Mandalay," which became an American folksong before this nation ever dreamed of sharing the white man's burden with the British empire, is really not about Mandalay itself, but about the "road" thereto as taken by Tommy Atkins in the third Burmese war and subsequent guerrilla snipings. This "road" leads from India across the Bay of Bengal by troopship, and then up the Irrawaddy river by paddle-wheel steamer. In the song it has the charm of a Burton Holmes travelog, plus an exotic dash of sex appeal.

* * *

Kipling had never seen Mandalay when he wrote these verses, and there is reason to believe that he never got closer than Rangoon. But he was always close to the mind of the British common soldier, whose dream of Burmese enchantment forms the song. Geographical accuracy meant little to the dreamer.

* * *

"The inhabitants of the United States," Kipling wrote many years later, "took to pleasure cruising, and discovered that Moulmein did not command any view of any sun rising across the Bay of Bengal. They must have interfered with the navigation of the Irrawaddy flotilla steamers, for one of the captains S. O. S.-ed me to give him something 'to tell these somethinged tourists about it'."

* * *

When the dawn comes up like thunder out of China in "Mandalay," remember that Burma may be regarded, by extension, as a part of Indo-China. In fact, the French used to call it "Indo-Chine Anglaise." . . . The flying fishes do not play from Rangoon to Mandalay, but may be observed as your ship crosses the Bay of Bengal. . . . The Burma girl whose name was Supi-yaw-lat, "just the same as Theebaw's queen," is a true story, for Thebaw, king of Burma, took to wife a certain Supyalat, and for pinup allurements that country is said to rival Hollywood.

* * *

The third Burmese war was a campaign of short duration in the fall of 1885. King Thebaw was deposed and deported, and you will have difficulty in finding out where he died and was buried.

THE DAYS AT HOME.

These homely tasks are mine, and one by one,
They fill my day. The ironing to be done,
With pies to bake, and loaves of crusted bread,
The evening meal, a table neatly spread.
(But are you safe, and are you warmly fed?)
Dusting to do, and letters I must write,
The beds to make, with pillows plump and white.
(Where are you, lad, where do you sleep tonight?)
Gray skies above a world grown weary, old,
Tonight the rain beats down, the wind is bold.
(The waters of the Rhine run deep and cold.)
Some sewing, and the knitting I must do,
A sweater just begun. The mending, too.
(But half a world away—I wish I knew.)

Grandma's Soapmaking.

When Grandma started to save wood ashes from the kitchen range, we knew she was thinking of soapmaking. The covered barrel in the woodshed was being filled with bacon rinds, beef and pig fats, and scraps from the fall butchering. The grease from roasting and frying was stored in wooden pails.

The ashes were dumped into a barrel that stood above the ground just high enough to accommodate a wooden pail. The bottom of this barrel had small holes drilled into it and was bedded down with about nine inches of straw. After the ashes were deposited into the barrel, water was added. In a few days the water seeped thru the bottom. It slowly drained into the wooden pail. This fluid was now a leach lye solution, dirty gray in color.

Next, Grandma had us kids build a slow-burning fire in the back yard. Over this we suspended the huge "cannibal pot." Into this cauldron we dumped the waste fat. We stirred the hot fat until all particles were dissolved. We then added the homemade lye solution. We now had soap of a light, sandy hue. Grandma had us draw off a few pailfuls which the family used in floor scrubbing and dishwashing. We added salt to the remainder. This changed it from soft to hard soap. It was next poured into square, paper-lined boxes to harden, and we later cut them into oblong shapes. Alexander Beifuss.

YOUR LOT AND MINE.

O, wouldn't you call it being brave,
This living day by day,
Meeting the small, hard, little things,
We find along life's way?

And in a world with so much strife,
To keep one's faith—keep giving,
To make the best each day of life—
Is not that part of living?

Just taking up the daily tasks,
After all is brave and fine;
Just living on the usual way,
Is mostly your lot and mine.

C. E. A. asks: "How long will employers have to file new forms for the deferment of registrants 18 thru 29 years of age?"

Employers should not delay in filing the new Form 42-A [special, revised] for all employes aged 18 thru 29. Local boards have been instructed to reopen and consider anew the classifications of all registrants still in Class 2-A or 2-B as soon as practicable after April 1. The new forms will require the certification of the government agency, if any, having jurisdiction over activities in war production or in the national health, safety, or interest. This certification will be a declaration of the government agency that the registrant is indispensable and irreplaceable. Activities in war production or national health, safety, or interest, not under the jurisdiction of a federal agency, may file the same form, but since it will not have been certified, the local board or the board of appeal having jurisdiction must find that the registrant is "necessary to and regularly engaged" and indispensable and irreplaceable in war production or national health, safety, or interest before deferment may be given. Registrants engaged in agriculture do not come under the new order but are classified on the basis of information in their file at the time they are considered for classification.

DIGESTION STARTS IN THE MOUTH.

THE preparation of food for its long ride thru the intestinal tract begins in the mouth. In reality, the groundwork starts before we take a bite. The very thought of a good meal, or the fragrance of a delectable roast in the oven, particularly when we are hungry, is sufficient to stir up the saliva and make us want to smack our lips.

Once the nutriment has entered the oral cavity, two processes are originated which aid greatly in digestion. The first concerns chewing, which is made possible by the combined efforts of the tongue, teeth, hard and soft palates, lips, and cheeks. This is purely mechanical and breaks down the morsels into smaller pieces. Certain animals, such as cows, bolt their fodder with impunity because that is the "nature of the beast." Human beings are endowed by their Creator with a grinding mechanism—which should be used. The number of times we chew is not as important as how thoroly the job is done.

The second process has to do with moistening the food so that it will be easier to swallow. This is the function of the salivary glands, which usually give off two to three pints of liquid per day. When the mouth is empty, this fluid aids in keeping the lining moist and is helpful in expelling distasteful objects. But this is not the only duty of the juice. It contains an important ferment, called "ptyalin," which serves to reduce sugars into simpler and more absorbable forms. Fats and proteins are not acted upon in this area as they are attacked further down in the alimentary canal.

We seldom think of the salivary glands but let something go amiss and distress appears. These structures are under the control of the nervous system and their secretions may be diminished or increased by psychic upsets. For example, dry mouth—a common complaint of tense individuals—may also accompany such diseases as typhoid, mumps, or diabetes. The use of drugs such as atropine, opium, or belladonna may bring on the symptom. Nicotine affects some smokers in this manner altho, in the majority, the amount of saliva is augmented. Many a snorer has been awakened from his exertions by the discomfort of a parched throat. The type of distress can be likened to the feelings expressed by those lost in a desert or drifting on a life raft for days on end without water. The membranes of the mouth become smooth and shiny and the tongue and lips seared and cracked.

The opposite condition, excess salivation, is equally annoying. This may be observed in acute fevers, digestive disturbances, various inflammatory mouth disorders, during periods of mental strife, pregnancy, teething, and following the use of mercury or iodides. In maladies affecting the nervous system, such as paralysis agitans, the manifestation is extremely troublesome. This sensation can be compared to the drooling experienced while sitting in a dental chair, with instruments or a finger holding the mouth open.

The more we understand the intricacies of the human organism, the more we realize that every little gadget has a meaning all its own.

[The next step in digestion will be discussed soon.]

EYE DISORDERS.

R. T. P. writes: Is blepharitis the same as a sty?

No, but both develop on the margins of the eyelids. Blepharitis occurs on the surface, producing scales and crusts. A sty is a staphylococcus infection in a sweat gland attached to the hair follicle. The latter may resemble a small boil.

RESTRAIN.

M. L. R. writes: I have a habit of biting off the skin on my lips. Is this harmful?

KIDNEY INFECTION.

M. H. writes: Does pain accompany the condition "pus in the kidney?"

REPLY.

Pain may or may not be present. If it is noted, it is usually felt in the region of the affected kidney. This area may also be tender to pressure.

"Signs of the times in a naval officers' club at an advanced base in the Pacific:

"Near the slot machines—'Slot machines do not react favorably to kicking, knocking, or alcoholic libation.'

"Back of the bar—'Beware of alcoholic promotions which elevate you temporarily. *SOPA reductions are sudden, permanent, and embarrassing.'

[*Senior Officer Present Afloat—the heavy braid.]

"All of MacArthur's dismounted cavalry are not in the Philippines. Some of them are afloat. This is quite evident since the movie, 'Arsenic and Old Lace,' played our fantail theater. At times you might think you were in Happydale itself. The demented brother, who fancied himself Teddy Roosevelt in the movie, completely captivated the crew. Now every ladder on the ship is San Juan hill and all hands pause at the foot of each, then dash to the top with a full throated 'Charge!'

"For those pious souls who are unable to realize the place of the pinup girl in modern warfare, there is consolation in the fact that one of the better magazines in our wardroom is Better Homes and Gardens. Unfortunately, the report does not end there. Further survey reveals the most popular topic of conversation in connection with this magazine to be, 'Okay, then how would that blonde in Charley's stateroom look in this bedroom?'

"Officers afloat out here seem to feel better after referring to officers ashore back there as being in command of an LMD. This is navy talk for a long mahogany desk.

"Speaking of movies again, once more the marines have come thru. One came aboard last week and showed us how to make an attachment for our single movie projector that will eliminate the wait between reels. Now we won't know what to do with our evenings, and we may even be forced into the double feature which we had hoped we had left behind us.

"It has occurred to us, after receiving a handful of bitter letters from rejectees over the last couple of years, that some one has been guilty of faulty planning. As every man in the service knows, he may wear a campaign ribbon for merely being on duty in a given theater of war for 30 days even tho he may never have been within 2,000 miles of gunfire. True, the number of bronze stars on his ribbon will tell of his combat experience, but at 10 feet on a crowded sidewalk [a lovely thought] the ribbon is enough. On the other hand an outwardly healthy looking civilian [with ulcers of the stomach, one glass eye, or an arm withered above the elbow] may have been thru as many as four or five tough battles with his draft board and have nothing to show for it except his classification cards which are hardly pinnable over the breast pocket of a double breasted suit if handkerchiefs are still worn there.

"For example, a friend of mine writes that he now holds his fourth draft card [and adds that as soon as he sees his 5th card he will open for a dime] 3-A, 4-F, 4-FH, and now 4-A. It has taken him three long years to climb from 3-A to 4-A whereas his 9 year old daughter accomplished the same feat in two semesters. Knowing him, I know it was a struggle all the way. Therefore we say: strike off campaign ribbons for these men. By now they, too, are veterans of union battles, sharp tongued civilians, and cigaret counter queues.

"A navy captain with many years in the freedom of the merchant marine stood at a bar at a Pacific outpost drinking his beer and denouncing the tight censorship regulations. 'Hell!' he said. 'If the government would just write "Love" on my allotment check, I wouldn't write at all'."

HOW THINGS HAVE CHANGED.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Remember last fall, when we were led to believe by the New Deal and its puppets that everything was just fine? During the campaign labor was lauded for its fine war effort; rationing was eased up; war workers were looking for post-war jobs and were, in some instances, laid off of war jobs; racing and places of amusement hit new peaks in attendance and financial return; and we were told that the New Deal could only effect the proper peace terms of the peace that was expected daily.

Came the dawn—with a bang—on Nov. 7, 1944! The same politicians who had raised false hopes a few weeks earlier were now accusing labor of loafing and demanding a labor draft; they were decrying absenteeism and drinking among war plant employes; and were demanding reclassification of 4-F's and forcing them into the army or into war plants. They suddenly discovered a coal shortage which necessitated a blackout of lights and signs, a shutting off of heat in homes and public places, the closing of taverns and places of amusement, and ordered the stopping of all horse racing. Ration stamps which trusting housewives had been promised were "good indefinitely" were canceled without notice. They also discovered that food shortages, especially meats, are serious threats. The war which had been "won" in 1944 is now apt to last much longer, they have discovered.

If the New Deal didn't know these things during the campaign it is certainly self-indicted as incompetent. If it did know them and lulled the public into a false sense of security for its own ends, it is guilty not only of playing politics with the war effort but of fraud and chicanery.

WHERE TO FIND THE MAN POWER.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Here is a very workable solution for the dire man power need at the present in the overmanned, strike bound, factories of this district. Why not let every nonessential firm release every employe who admits he voted in the last election for the present administration. I'm quite certain they would find ample man and woman power to cover all shortages if this policy were unanimously followed and it would not be any more of a breach of our constitutional rights as citizens, than the present proposal for conscripted slave labor.

SCHOOL VACATIONS.

Chebanse, Ill., Feb. 27.—I have just read Mrs. H. B.'s suggestion that schools be kept open thru June, July, and August and closed for vacation during December, January, and February, in order to save coal. Mrs. H. B. overlooks the fact that during the summer months children can be outdoors almost every day, receiving the benefit of summer air and sunshine. Vacations in midwinter would be far less beneficial.

Then, too, if Mrs. H. B. remembers her own childhood, she remembers how fretful and unable to study she felt on the hot days of May and September. Attempts to study on sultry midsummer days would be even more futile.

Then, last summer, many, many Chicago and suburban high school students came out to farms to help plant, cultivate, and harvest the crops. Without their help there would have been fewer fresh and canned vegetables and fruits, and less beef, pork, and poultry on the market. We shall need their help even more this summer.

MISOGYNIST.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—I noticed in today's TRIBUNE, a dispatch from London, saying that Pvt. Hulten was the only American ever sentenced by a British court to die for murder.

I think your correspondent has made a slight mistake. Back in the reign of Queen Victoria, Mrs. Maybrick, American born, was charged with poisoning her English husband. She was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but thru the importunity of one of our Presidents her sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

At the time I felt she should have been acquitted, as millions of wives, then as well as now, were poisoning their husbands with badly cooked food. And they are still getting away with it.

CONVICT TELLS HOW TOUHY GOT GUNS FOR BREAK

Wrapped Them in Flag, Walked Into Prison.

Percy Campbell, 54, Negro, who escaped from Stateville Aug. 14, 1942, admitted yesterday to Warden Joseph E. Ragen and T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety, that he smuggled into the prison the two guns used by Roger Touhy and six others in their prison break Oct. 9, 1942. Campbell was captured last week in Mississippi.

He retrieved the guns, he said, from under a bush near the prison front gate where they had been placed by Casimir Darlak, a brother of Edward Darlak, who escaped with Touhy, and carried them into the prison by wrapping them in a flag which he was ostensibly carrying inside the prison to be mended. Campbell was a trusty and was allowed outside the walls.

Once inside, he said, he delivered the guns to William Stewart, another of the men who escaped with Touhy.

Arranges for His Escape.

In return, he said, Stewart arranged for Campbell's escape, by having a man with an automobile meet him a short distance from the prison. Campbell tentatively identified a picture of Casimir Darlak as that of the man who drove the car, and let him out near 22d and Dearborn sts.

Subsequently he made his way to Memphis, he said, and then to Greenwood, Miss., where he worked on the plantation of a George Wilson.

Campbell blamed his recapture on the fact that a former sweetheart, with whom he quarreled, revealed to Wilson that Campbell was an escaped convict. Wilson notified Sheriff E. W. Williams of Indianola, Miss. A reward of $500, offered by the state of Illinois for Campbell's capture, will be sent to Williams for distribution among the persons involved.

Goes Before Jury Today.

State's Atty. James E. Burke of Will county, after questioning Campbell yesterday, said that Judge James V. Bartley of the Will County Circuit court is summoning the Will county grand jury to meet today. Burke said he will ask the jury to indict Campbell on a charge of aiding and abetting the escape of Touhy and the six others. Upon conviction, Campbell, who was serving a sentence of one year to life for a holdup slaying, would be subject to an additional 199 years' sentence.

Touhy, Stewart, and Matthew Nelson, after their recapture, were given an additional 199 years on a charge of aiding Darlak's escape.

Burke said that Campbell will view Casimir Darlak in an effort to identify him definitely as the man who drove the escape car, but that no additional prosecution of Darlak in connection with Campbell's escape is contemplated. Casimir Darlak is now serving a 1 to 20 year sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of aiding and abetting in the prison break.

JURY ACQUITS UNION AID ON POLICE CHARGES

Walter Siedlecki, 37, of 6825 S. Talman av., a machinist employed in the Dodge-Chrysler plant and formerly shop steward of local No. 274 of the United Automobile Workers union [CIO], was found not guilty yesterday by a jury in Jury court of two charges of disorderly conduct and one of resisting an officer.

Morgan Park police testified that they had found Siedlecki asleep and drunk in his car last March 25 near the plant, and that he had become abusive when they sought to question him. He refused to give his name, the police said, and accused them of taking $16 from his wallet when they examined it to learn his name. Assistant Corporation Counsel Harry Iseberg entered a motion before Judge Harold O'Connell to disregard the jury's verdict, and the court set March 13 for argument.

Siedlecki's attorney, Landon Chapman, said that he would file suit for $25,000 damages against the three policemen, Henry Yaeger, Herman Sampson, and Edward Opser, charging them with exercising unnecessary brutality.

OPA GETS BACK HALF OF LOAN TO POSTOFFICE

The postoffice restaurant, for years popular with government workers who like rare top grade roast beef, is about halfway back to being able to sell it again, James F. Riley Jr., area OPA director, said yesterday.

Riley disclosed that the cafe, which serves about 10,000 meals daily and which got 1,250,000 red meat points behind in its dealings with suppliers last December, has repaid nearly 50 per cent of a point loan obtained to get it out of the red.

After deductions as allowances for feeding soldiers and sailors, the cafe owed a net of 1,008,891 points, Riley said, of which it has repaid 336,000 thru reduction in its allotments for the first four months of this year, and 150,000 it saved by budgeting its point spending.

Its current menu, which leans heavily toward fish and poultry, will include more meat about Aug. 1, the OPA said.

SUSPENDED BOY WINS HIGHER RANK IN R. O. T. C.

Jami English, 17, Englewood High school senior whose suspension from the Reserve Officers Training corps resulted in a protest last month by other officers in the school's R. O. T. C. unit, has been reinstated as lieutenant colonel in command of the Englewood unit.

Principal Joseph Thompson suspended English for alleged misconduct at the midterm graduation exercises Jan. 23. He said English, in his uniform at the commencement program, rushed to the stage to make an announcement instead of having the proper school official make it.

English had been a major in the R. O. T. C. and was in line for the lieutenant colonel rank when he was suspended. Assistant Principal John Kriewitz said English had taken another competitive examination during his suspension and won over two other youths eligible for the position.

ALDERMEN URGE LAWS FOR MORE COUNCIL POWER

Enactment of legislation to give the city council power to examine all records of the school and park districts and the proposed metropolitan transit district was recommended yesterday by the council committee on judiciary affairs.

Alderman Bohling [7th] and Gurman [40th] said the council should be given the supervision of records because it has the responsibility of approving the appointments of members of the park and school boards.

The committee opposed a bill proposed by Rep. Armstrong [R., 6th] to provide for public elections of school and park board members. It also opposed a bill that would make the city liable for damages or injuries caused by policemen in performance of their duty.

Garden Club's Flower Show to Open March 19

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE mild spring breezes that blew down Chicago's streets yesterday put members of the Garden Club of Illinois and their guests in just the proper mood to hear the news that was told at luncheon in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field & Co. that plans have been completed for the club's 19th annual spring flower show, to be held March 19 thru March 31.

This year, for the third time since Navy Pier was taken over as a war time training center, Marshall Field's will play host to the show, which is called "Fashions in Flowers." Fifteen gardens will be planted in the store, and 65 garden clubs in the Chicago area will help to arrange the table settings and flower arrangements. Members of these clubs will conduct public tours at 10 a. m. and at 1, 3, and 4 p. m. daily, and lectures will be given at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. daily except on Good Friday and the two Saturdays.

Mrs. O. W. Dynes, general chairman of the show, sent her greetings from Florida to be read to the luncheon guests by Mrs. Raymond Knotts, who serves as sub-chairman with Mrs. L. Thorpe Warren. Just back from three weeks in California was Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, who has been recovering from a broken wrist. Miss Elizabeth R. Howland heads the club.

Other Gardening Notes.

A story in a Santa Barbara newspaper reveals that Lt. Comdr. Oakleigh Lewis Thorne of the naval reserve shares the gardening interests of his grandmother, Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne. Comdr. Thorne, who is stationed on Guam as an aide to Adm. Nimitz, has laid out the planting in front of the admiral's headquarters.

Any description of the tropic vegetation with which Comdr. Thorne has been experimenting is left to the imagination, but an exhaustive description of his grandmother's former Montecito home, Las Tejas, is carried in the same issue. The house now is being used as the setting for a film in which Fred Astaire will be starred and which deals with a mythical kingdom in South America.

Mrs. Thorne, who is vice president of the Garden Club of America, was attracted back to her old home from her new one near-by when one morning, while directing a bull dozer on her own property, she heard a haunting melody. She and Mr. Thorne dropped their landscaping work to find its source, and followed the music thru the exquisite gardens she had created surrounding Las Tejas, until they came to the movie set. The driveway now is a road in the mythical kingdom, and movie statuary had been set up in the formal garden with its cascaded water falls.

It was in Las Tejas, which means The Tiles, that the Thornes celebrated their golden wedding anniversary six years ago Feb. 26.

Comdr. Thorne's wife, formerly Bertha Palmer, and their children, are living in Santa Barbara, where Mrs. Thorne's mother, Mrs. Potter Palmer, has joined her. Recent guests of Mrs. Thorne were her brother and sister-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Palmer III., who have returned east. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Thorne will not be able to build on their new property until after the war but are developing its gardens now. Before summer they will return to their old colonial home in Millbrook, N. Y., which never has been out of the family since it was built in the 1700s.

Future Events.

For the fourth consecutive year the board of Christopher House will raise money for the neighborhood house at 2507 Greenview av. by presenting Burton Holmes in Evanston. This year Mr. Holmes will give two lectures in Cahn auditorium of Scott hall, a travelog on the national parks April 7, and one April 14 on Guatemala, including pictures and lecture material collected in the last year. Mrs. John A. Donaldson of Kenilworth has been appointed general chairman of the benefit by Clyde A. Horn, president of the board. The annual attendance at Alexander Brailowsky at His Best in Brilliant Recital at Orchestra Hall.

If Alexander Brailowsky has played a more brilliant performance than last night's recital at Orchestra Hall, I was not around to hear it. The lean Russian of the incisive hands and the curved silhouette has long been known as a top flight technician, but for a season or two his playing has verged on the perfunctory. His Chopin recital tossed that stodgy word overboard, I hope, forever. It was interesting from start to finish, and it had interludes of extraordinary distinction.

We have been more than lucky this season in hearing the two great sonatas at their peak of virtuosity. Artur Rubinstein played the B minor unforgettably, and last night Mr. Brailowsky gave the B-flat minor magnificent performance. It had grandeur of scale and nobility of expression, and it towered over the concert like the giant it is in music.

But if Mr. Brailowsky designed his concert to reach its peak at center, he had distinguished sentinels at either end, opening with the Polonaise in F-sharp minor and closing with a superbly played Andante Spianato to preface the Grande Polonaise. For good measure he tucked in a performance of the Ballade in A-flat major, whose equal you may not hear in many a season of diligent concert going.

And, if the big works had stature, the smaller ones had their own charms. Mr. Brailowsky was playing some of them as if the notes spilled from his finger tips. The Waltz in A flat was gayly handled, the mazurkas glittered, the Fantaisie Impromptu had the luster that keeps it fresh, and the D flat nocturne was the voice of a poet. Judging by the audience's entrenched look as I left, there must have been encores.

Mr. Todd Drops In.

Michael Todd made a brief stopover in his New York-to-Hollywood commuting to check on Mae West's Studebaker opening next Monday night and to say that he will have a Chicago company of "Up in Central Park" ready sooner than we think. Next summer he invades movie making with Edna Ferber's "Great Son." Great sum wouldn't be a misprint, either. The movie rights cost $200,000.

Notes.

Eddie Dowling has bought the dramatic rights to Kenneth Horan's forthcoming novel, "Father Goes to Congress." . . . In Sunday's Metropolitan opera casts, change James Melton to Charles Kullman as the tenor in "Don Giovanni." . . . Rosemary Rice, who will play the Lenore Lonergan role in our company of "Dear Ruth," due at the Harris April 16, had the Lonergan part in the Boston troupe of "Junior Miss."

Burton Holmes' Opera house lectures will be "Today's Mexico" the night of March 24 and "Colorful Guatemala" the night of March 28. . . . Carl Sandburg will be the narrator when the Chicago Symphony presents Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait" next week.

Lauratis, a graduate of Northwestern university, received his wings and commission from the naval air base in Pensacola, Fla. Smith is serving in Cairo, Egypt, with the air transport command.

Contrast Sharp in Art Club's 2 New Exhibits

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club opened two new exhibitions yesterday. Jackson Pollock, a young man born in Cody, Wyo., fills the first galleries with his effusive abstractions, which apparently owe a little to the influence of Edward Lear. Irene Rice Periera, a young woman of mathematical genius, is represented in the little gallery and the round gallery.

Pollock obviously is a follower of the school of the new note. His chief trouble seems to be that his trumpet has gone wild and he is sounding in all directions at once, like a weather vane in a high wind whirling in mad circles. His paintings seem based on the theory that the more childishly scribbled they are the more significant they are. He suggests in "Pasiphae" the "Guernica" of Picasso, but his ruins are more complete. He suggests in other works eels and fish, a raging queen, a pig, stork and witch, women in armor, but more often his achievement is merely "scrawl around." His colors are violent and the atmosphere of his exhibit is definitely restless and raucous.

The temperature drops some 50 degrees in leaving his show and entering that of Periera. Her work is meticulous, detailed, orderly, and leisured. Her art is a craft, exquisitely executed. Again and again she sets a stage which needs only actors to come to life. The little glass conceits are fascinating. Her "Painting on Two Planes" could better be named "Song on a Door Theme." It is captivating. On a larger scale are "Composition in Red" and "Transparent Planes," but carried over from the tiny work still remain the careful, thoughtful craftsmanship, the passion for line and plane, and that sense of fitness which reaches its climax in mathematical design.

The exhibitions will remain thru March 31.

Felix Topolski has a stunning exhibit of paintings in the Marshall Field galleries to March 10. A Polish influence is felt in them and they are vigorous and exciting—an interesting group of pictures.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

The Right Job.

Back in 1923 she was a young Junior Leaguer with an alert, sympathetic mind. Doing settlement work, she had observed that fear of failure hangs like Damocles' sword over the head of many a person who wonders, "Why do others get ahead while I do not?" Such a person wants to know not merely, "How can I get a job?" but "How can I get the right job."

A psychology major in college, she decided to apply her psychology in the search for these "right jobs." Thus began one of the most successful placement bureaus in New York — the personnel service of Esther Eberstadt Brooke.

Looking back after 22 years at her desk, Mrs. Brooke says, with an amused smile, that she doesn't know how, as young as she was, she had the sense and courage to go into this interesting business for herself. Out of her full experience she has written several helpful books, among them, "The Right Job for You and How to Get It," "Career Guide," and a monograph used by schools, "Business Wants Beginners."

Applied Psychology.

She is unhurried and quiet, altho she runs her business and manages an apartment in town, a farm in summer, and a home on the seashore. She has a degree in music as well as her college degree and displays a definite artistic sense. But in no classroom did she acquire her arresting ability to turn complete attention to the matter—or the person—at hand. That is a gift!

She applied her knowledge of psychology to the decoration of her suite of offices with their cheerful, light green walls and colorful Van Goch reproductions, and in her own private office with its hand blocked linen drapes. Any one looking for a job must feel cheerful, not grim, she says. Clients become friends in a friendly bright atmosphere. She believes "human beings are creatures of sensitiveness and dignity and must be treated as such." On her blacklist are "employers who use an office as an emotional dumping ground, forgetting that dignity."

What Can I Do for the Job?

Two classes of white collar girls are working today, Mrs. Brooke says. There is one group working for a quick, large, tho temporary return—a nest egg—so as to be married and drop out of business as soon as possible. There is another group of white collar girls consciously building toward a career.

She sees no reason why women should not go into business for themselves. She is firm in her confidence that there is always a good job for a good person and is convinced a woman's marriage and business mix if the home is kept out of business and business out of the home."

Mrs. Brooke provides these simple rules for the girl for that "right job":

"Look your best; talk your best; act your best; bring your best."

"Make notes; formulate your qualifications when going for an interview. Bring the best you have to it. Ask yourself not 'What can this job do for me?' but 'What can I do for this job?'"

2 Year Old Child's 'No' Habit Should Be Treated with Tact

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I have a darling of 2 who is starting something that looks like stubbornness. Her answer to about half the things I say to her is 'No,' sometimes a blithe 'No,' but often an apparently determined one. Yet she'll turn right around and do what she has said 'No' to. I want to correct this now, because I have a little niece of 5 who's as stubborn as a young mule, and I don't want to go thru the scenes her parents do, when my daughter is older."

This child has answered her mother's request with a "no," but it doesn't appear to be final. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Provided you understand and don't give too much importance to it, this "No" habit is not the forerunner of stubbornness. It isn't a prophecy of chronic contrariness, altho by misunderstanding it and making much of it, you easily could force it in to being just that.

Sometimes it's funny, that bland little "No," sometimes it's cunning, but sometimes when you're tired or in a hurry, your patience and sense of humor topple and you ride roughshod over it.

Try not to be so. It's only a phase. It doesn't mean a deliberate resistance, not the pitting of a 2 year old will against yours. It isn't that important. And if you'll just get a line on the reason for that "No" your annoyance will vanish. So first—tell yourself it will pass, because it will.

Next, comfort yourself with the thought that most children acquire this habit around the age of 2; yours is not particularly naughty or mismanaged.

And last, recognize its meaning. "No" usually is not a flat denial but a sort of traffic signal: "Wait a minute—I'm not quite ready—I can't hurry," or "I don't like the idea very much, but I'll get used to it in a minute." Of course the young child can't explain all this, but that is usually what she means.

She also means, at times, that in spite of the fact that there are dozens of things she wants to do, she's often being interrupted or frustrated, and she objects.

Be patient, gentle, tactful, explanatory, give her time, or ignore the denial. Don't buck her resistance; melt it down.

Thru the Looking Glass

There's nothing quite as irritating and uncomfortable as a dry, sensitive scalp. The natural inclination is to go at it with the fingers in an attempt to rub or scratch it into feeling comfortable. The result is that it feels even more irritated after a momentary period of relief, and at the same time there's the risk of introducing real scalp trouble via the finger nails.

There's a special scalp salve that we've been trying. We find it goes a long way in helping to overcome the dryness and reducing the sensitivity. In addition, it is a nice hair conditioner and adds luster and sheen to the locks.

The salve is light in texture, not a bit sticky or messy to handle, with a delicate fragrance that makes it pleasant to use. It's to be used sparingly, a little goes a long way, and for a thoro treatment and maximum results, massage the scalp with the fingers for a few minutes before applying the cream. The pretreatment massage steps up the circulation and helps the preparation to work more efficiently. The salve is to be used after every shampoo and two or three times in between. It can be used more often if the scalp is unusually dry and sensitive.

Preparations of this sort always sound complicated to use, but actually you won't find that the salve takes more than a few minutes to apply. Make little parts in the hair and, using an orange stick as an applicator, dot tiny bits of the cream thru them. Gently massage it into the scalp and then brush and dress the hair as usual. If you've been careful to use only a small amount of the salve, you'll find that the scalp feels nicely lubricated and the hair has a becoming sheen with no appearance of oiliness.

Opening lead: Jack of clubs.

While there remains a mathematical chance of success, however forlorn a hope that may be, such a thing as acknowledging defeat is not to be countenanced by any player possessed of a fighting heart. Exhibit A is South of today's deal.

I am a little doubtful of the soundness of my judgment in presenting the auction with historical accuracy. West's overcall of two clubs is one which it is better to gloss over with little comment. In all fairness to South, it must be pointed out that his six heart bid and stout redouble were based on the mistaken belief that his partner had jumped to three hearts, whereas in fact he had given only a single raise.

When the jack of clubs was opened, a rather surprising dummy [from South's standpoint] was spread upon the table, but neither by emotion nor gesture did South indicate any displeasure with its contents. Since declarer had nothing else to do at the moment he decided to play it out. The club trick was won with the queen and the second round of trumps taken in dummy. A low diamond was then led toward the ten in the closed hand. East, deciding that he couldn't wait, went up with the ace, dropping his partner's singleton king. The fulfilment of the contract was now routine, since both losing spades were discarded on the established diamonds.

While we are not holding forth for East's defense, nevertheless it must be said on his behalf that his play would have succeeded had declarer held the lone king of diamonds and four spades.

As West was mumbling something about second hand low, North suggested that the slam contract was slightly optimistic. "Ah, but I had a very big card you knew nothing about," retorted South, "Big Casino."

JOURNEY UNDERGROUND

(The story of a Chicago hero's escape from German occupied France)

(Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.)

By Flight Officer David G. Prosser

SYNOPSIS: The author enlisted in the Canadian air force in 1941, at the age of 20, and won his wings as a navigator. In 1943 he transferred to the American air force. On his ninth combat mission, Prosser's Flying Fortress was shot down over France and the crew bailed out. Prosser landed alone in a field, seriously injuring his ankle. As he limped along a forest road he met two men, Jacques and Marceau, who took him to Marceau's home and furniture making shop, where he was hidden in the attic to await the healing of his injured foot. He met Marceau's mother, Mere Louise; Marceau's wife, Renee; Marcel, who helped in the shop; Germaine, whose husband was a prisoner in Germany, and Jeannette, whose father was a prisoner. Marceau arranged, thru his brother-in-law, who worked at the district police station, to get Prosser a false identity card which used his correct name, David, and identified him as a 21 year old electrician. Renee repaired an old black suit coat and lengthened a pair of light blue cotton trousers which Prosser planned to wear over his uniform when he departed. He intended going to Nevers, 135 miles south of Paris, and then try to reach Spain

INSTALMENT IX.

After the excitement of getting my new clothes and hearing the last minute instructions, I found myself wandering around the attic unable to concentrate on anything. I kept wondering about the trip, and trying to make up my mind about my ankle. The exercise had brought no noticeable change, which was most discouraging. Climbing the stairs and moving about the house had made it clear that the ankle would not improve rapidly with exercise.

The author as he appeared in French underground garb.

Marceau brought me my dinner that evening, and Mere Louise came up afterward to rub my foot. Marceau asked me if I wanted to go the next day or the day afterward. As it was more convenient for him to go the day afterward, we decided to go then. He said once again, "You know you can stay here as long as you like—until the end of the war if you wish," but I told him I thought I should go as soon as possible.

"My foot is still not in a good condition, but I shall take a chance of finding some help in Nevers. If I can't, then I can probably stay at some country cottage until I am able to move again."

Marceau agreed that he thought the idea was good.

The next day passed slowly. I exercised the ankle, arranged my kit, worried about the trip, and wished some one would come up to talk to me, but it was not until evening that I really had any company. Dinner was early that night, and by the time I had finished, Mere Louise, Renee, Jacques, Marcel, Germaine, and Marceau had all come up and formed a little circle around the bed. Germaine brought with her a bag she had promised me for carrying my things.

I had wondered what sort of bag I would get, and didn't expect the gunny sack she handed to me. I asked her if she were sure she had no use for it.

"O, no," she replied, "I found it by the side of the road."

Suddenly the little oil lamp burned out, leaving us all in the darkness. After it had been refilled and relit, Jacques said, "That is wonderful fuel you allies drop for us."

I asked him what he meant by that and he replied, "One day I was out in the garden when several American or British fighters were engaging some German aircraft. After a couple had passed almost overhead I heard the oddest thump and looked out into the field and saw a large fuel tank lying there which the fighters evidently carry with them and discard when empty. I went out to see exactly what this tank looked like. It had hardly been damaged at all, and only a little of the gasoline had been forced out of the top by concussion. I called Marcel and we took buckets and cans out to the field and came back with almost 40 litres of fuel. The neighbors took the rest. It was a godsend to us, for now that candles are scarce we have to use oil lamps." Marcel wanted to know how these tanks were attached to the aircraft. I told him that most of them were slung underneath the fuselage, and the conversation took a turn into the technical side of airplanes.

Mere Louise said that I must let them know if I reached England safely.

Then she said, "But after the war it might be difficult to you to find us—you must give us your address for we may move or be forced to move because of the war. In 1940 we had to leave the house when the Germans approached Paris."

I was very interested in hearing what happened to them during the invasion and asked her to tell me the story.

"When we learned the Germans had really broken thru into northern France, and saw all the evacuees going to the south, Marcel, Renee, Germaine, and myself decided we must also leave. During the last war this house was behind the Germans' lines. They used it as headquarters for some time, and life was very hard.

"We had been told there was a large reception center at Fontainebleau, so we went there. It took us three days on foot. The journey was terrible, for the roads were so packed that we did not move by ourselves but with the momentum of the crowd. Airplanes dived down on us and machine gunned us. The people said most of them were Italian, and the hatred of the Italians seemed to be intense among the crowd. I think that still the Italians are more despised than the Germans for that.

"Well, we arrived in Fontainebleau to discover that there was no reception center at all; there was no food, no water, no place to sleep other than the ground, but there were people—more than I think I have ever seen in my life. We stayed five days, and then could stand it no longer. No one knew what had actually happened to France. The only news we had came by way of rumor, and one didn't know what to believe—one minute the armistice had been declared, the next America had entered the war and already had soldiers fighting the Germans.

"It was impossible to know what to do, but we knew that Paris had fallen and the Germans had swept on to the south, so we decided to try to come back home. It was the best thing we could have done.

"The roads were mostly clear, with the exception of German troops and trucks going to the front, but they did not bother us."

I asked her what the reaction among the people at Fontainebleau had been to the news that Paris had fallen, and Marcel took up the conversation at this point.

"We were all so confused we really didn't know what to think, but most people felt that defeat was inevitable, for we had been sold out to the fifth column."

I particularly wanted to know if he thought the majority of French people attributed the defeat of 1940 to treachery.

"O, yes, every one thought we had been sold out by Pierre Laval and his type," Marcel said.

He had no harsh words for Marshal Petain, "One doesn't know about him—perhaps he is really going to help us revive—perhaps not." He shrugged his shoulders.

Marshal Petain, as the victor at Verdun, still commanded a certain respect from the French people. Altho the French are usually severe critics, none of the people I met blamed, castigated or abused the French army or its officers for the debacle in 1940. Occasionally some one would tell me of the disorganization of the supply service, saying that all the effective fighter aircraft were in the southern part of France during the invasion, or that shells were never delivered to the right places, but the responsibility for this was attributed to the politicians and fifth column. Never did I hear any one say in so many words, "The army was no damn good." One felt that the French realized the army's failure, but rather than condemn it directly, preferred to give the greatest emphasis to other contributing factors.

I was surprised to discover the general admiration and veneration almost all Frenchmen had for their army. It seemed unnatural that such a freedom loving nation should have this feeling toward a military organization. I asked one Frenchman about it.

"Some think it is the spirit of the Napoleonic era that has stayed with us, but I believe it comes from the fact that three times in less than a century we have been forced to place all our reliance, confidence, and faith in the army for the preservation of our country against the Boches."

The last evening's conversation had come to a close. Germaine and Renee said good-by and wished me luck on my trip. Jacques and Marcel merely bade me good night, for they would be up the next morning when I was to leave. Mere Louise and Marceau discussed with me the hour we were to depart. "The train leaves the local station about 6 in the morning—that will give us enough time to be in Paris and across the town in time to catch the 8 o'clock train from Gare de Lyons for Nevers." Mere Louise decided, "Well, if that's the case, I shall have to awaken you at 5 in the morning." Then they said "Good night," and went downstairs.

I lay in my bed unable to sleep, thinking about my departure and wondering just what the outside world would be like—whether or not there were many policemen at the subways and stations who would stop me for my papers, and if they did, would I be arrested. It was odd to know that on the next day I would actually see German soldiers for the first time. I knew they never disturbed civilians, but even so they were a great worry. The thought of going out into this strange new world, so insecure and different, made me feel slightly ill. I felt rather like the young boy who leaves his home for the big city to get his first job. Leaving my attic seemed something like leaving home.

Having fallen into a foreign land and being protected and cared for by these people had made me feel an almost childlike trust and confidence in them. They had been so kind, so generous and friendly, that I was most reluctant to leave them, and sometimes half thought I might take up their invitation to stay until the end of the war. But the plan had been made, and I was going, and I was rather glad that the period of apprehension about departing was coming to an end.

Lamb loaf is a point saving dish. The flavor of the loaf may be varied with the seasonings used. Herbs, or poultry seasoning and celery could be added to this mixture, but it is very good as it stands.

Lamb Loaf.
[Serves eight.]

1½ pounds ground lamb
1 cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 strips bacon

Mix ingredients except bacon, and press into loaf pan. Lay bacon strips on top of the loaf. Bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours.

Lamb patties, shaped from ground lamb, may be braised or broiled. To braise them, dip the patties into flour and brown on both sides in a small amount of hot fat. Add salt and pepper, place a cover on the pan and cook slowly for half an hour. To broil, brush lightly with melted drippings and brown first on one side, then on the other, under moderate broiler heat. Season with salt and pepper. Usually the meat will be done by the time it has browned. Lamb requires little cooking.

A lamb patty grill is a fine meal. Wrap a strip of bacon around each lamb patty if you can spare the bacon. Broil on one side, then add to the broiling rack thick slices of tomato sprinkled with minced onion, salt, pepper, and fine, margarined crumbs, and halves of cooked sweet potato, or whole, small boiled potatoes, brushed lightly with fat. Serve hot as soon as everything is brown.

Slices of pineapple or orange may be broiled with lamb patties. Sometimes the patties are browned on one side, then the browned sides are placed upon slices of pineapple or orange while the top browns. The fruit flavor is a wonderful complement to lamb.

Another delicious lamb patty grill combines link sausages with smaller than usual cakes of the ground lamb. Potatoes and carrots which have been previously cooked are browned with both meats.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES!

Not All High Schoolers Act Goony-Goony

BY SHEILA DALY.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

But is it true what they say about teen-agers? Do all the gals really hold their bobby-sox up with nail polish, make their own jewelry out of cut-up bottle corks and painted macaroni, and turn down all but one date a week because undue popularity puts them on the wolfess list?

on the SOLID side

And do all the fellows refuse to appear in anything but "Joey" clothes [loud shirts and corduroy slacks, the equivalent of the classical feminine sweater and sack ensemble] and call their current girl friends "ready Hedys," "fine hunks of heartbreak," and "cute fruit"? According to recent articles and surveys in national magazines, they do all that and a lot more.

With adults presumably occupied with the war, feature writers and word artists have turned their typewriters on teen-agers for some good "escape" material. The same high school group who, just a few years ago, were nothing more than boys and girls getting a secondary education, are now featured as an unpredictable group of characters, a unique generation with a life and language all their own. And in many cases, no one is more surprised by this sudden spotlight than the characters themselves.

In a large midwestern city recently, a well-known picture magazine was busy compiling just such a story on teen-agers. Photographer and feature writer tailed a group of fellows and girls to a suburban home for a Saturday night party to get "typical" pictures and story. When all had gathered in the rumpus room, the feature writer belabored the party for their favorite jive talk while the hostess was instructed to tune the radio to some fast dance music. The fellows and girls explained that they preferred slow dance music but the photographer wanted some lively pictures. So the party-goers went into their dance. In a few minutes the music was stopped. This wasn't what the photographer wanted to see. The group was herded into a circle, instructed to clap hands in rhythm while a picked couple jitterbugged in the center. The couple explained patiently that the high school crowd in their town didn't dance that way any more. But the photographer insisted on "action" shots, so the dancers went into a modified Lindy Hop. The photographer wanted more action, and the couple tried it faster and faster, finally winding up with an intricate step in which the boy whirled the gal dizzy, lifted her from the floor, swung her from side to side, hip to hip and then set her breathless, but feet down, back on the floor. The photographer smiled, jumped on a chair and got her "typical" shot. The hostess switched the radio back to slow music, the couples drifted back onto the floor, and the "typical" dancer limped to the sidelines, muttering, "Maybe I'm crazy but I haven't carried on like that since I was in kindergarten."

It just gives the guys and gals something to think about. . . .

Paris Milliner's Hats Take Cue from Gay 90s

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 4.—Mme. Suzy has revived forms and trimmings of millinery that were high fashion in the gay '90s for her new spring show and provided matching accessories of collars, muffs, or scarves to go with her hats.

"Farceur" is a taffeta sailor made with green and white stripes and piled high with bright red cherries, flowers, bird's wings, and lace veiling.

A huge duck sitting on a tall sunflower yellow felt toque is called "Coin-Coin," French for "quack-quack." The same yellow felt forms shoes and a large square bag.

"Boulevardier" is a double brimmed model shaped like Maurice Chevalier's straws and encircled with swirling, brandy colored ostrich feathers, which also make a long scarf. "Cocktail" is a banana beige straw fashioned into a pointed crown trimmed with eight large balls of night blue straw and covered with yards of green veiling tied under the chin. "Passionement" is a heart shaped, off-the-face model in candy striped taffeta trimmed with marigolds.

Large red, white, and blue taffeta bows, feathers, and flowers appear on a printed crepe hat of the same colors called "Conquerant."

Fashion flashes: Twinkling jeweled tassels top six-inch high glass soled evening slippers created by Robert Piguet. . . . Nina Ricci has designed knee length white lace panties to match a frilled blouse trimmed with narrow bands of red velvet for wear under new spring suits of black silk. . . . A window display along the Boulevard Madelaine exhibits an unusual living room with a floor of red and white flagstones covered with bear skins, and huge armchairs of tawny leather which offer sharp contrast to a stately empire table, clock, and flower stand.

THE QUESTION.
WHERE ASKED.
Palmolive building, 919 N. Michigan av.
THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Roy Parkhill, housewife, 1031 Sheridan rd., Evanston—For about six weeks I tramped around looking at inside and outsides of houses. Finally I found exactly what I wanted. In my mind I had every room furnished as it would be when we moved in. What happened? My husband was too late —some one else got the house.

Muriel Collins, student, 81 Lakewood dr., Glencoe—Gurrr! My friend and I were going to Albuquerque on the same train. He's going overseas soon, and was going to return to his base while I was going to return to school. I didn't get my reservations in time. I pleaded, and cried—but they wouldn't let me on.

Leia Miller, general office work, 2702 Magnolia av.—Usually what I am thinking about influences my attitude toward the world. If I'm griped about something I may be a little abrupt or grumpy. If I don't feel well I am more easily irritated when things go wrong. If the sun is shining and I feel good everything is all right.

Mrs. James Torngay, general office work, 2339 E. 72d st.—A series of upsetting events throws me off key. Take this week for instance—my sister's husband went back to Brazil. My husband returned to the service on Sunday. I'm doing a new work that's strange to me. I'm behind in my home work. I'm grumpy.

James Chapman, auditor, 2448 Ridge av., Evanston—I don't think anything in particular makes me that way. My wife says I accuse things of making me mad, as if they had anything to do with it —as if they were animate. It is really just a frame of mind. In the winter I have too long a grind without any chance to play golf.

Clarence McLenahan, motorcycle delivery man, 2223 S. Kenneth av.—Not enough sleep is what gets me swearing at everything. I'm holding down two jobs —one in the day time and one at night. I guess what gets me is that I miss my leisure time and don't have enough time to sleep. I like to be left alone when I get moody.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 5.—Radio fans know Janet Waldo, who does the Corliss Archer series very well. Movie fans, if all goes well, will know her, too. She was tested yesterday for "Janie," and if she's what they think she is, they'll go right ahead with the series. And that means Edward Arnold, Ann Harding, and Robert Benchley are set for another. . . . Alexis Smith gets Carlotta and Errol Flynn in "Don Juan." Faye Emerson will have one of the parts in that. So will Dorothy Malone, who gave Lauren Bacall quite a run for her money in "The Big Sleep." . . . Flynn, who can get practically anything he wants, was stymied on a plane reservation out of Miami. . . . Metro has bought "Young Bess," which means Queen Elizabeth at the age of 15. When Greer Garson heard that Katharine Hepburn was to play it, she called up and said, "She won't look a bit like the character," and the answer Greer received was, "Darling, we'd love to make a test of you, and if you can look 15, it's yours." Personally, I have a hunch they'll wait until it can be made in England with Vivian Leigh.

It's Love, Love, Love.

Metro's saying that "Without Love" is one of the best comedies of the year. They had to throw out the whole play and do a new one from scratch. And Hepburn is soft, clinging, and completely feminine. That I must see. . . . Gene Tierney is the one who introduced Azadis Newman to Rouben Mamoulian, so our little Gene is a little cupid. . . . The romantic flavor is gone from Nina Foch and John Dahl of New York's "The Hasty Heart." . . . Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton, who were such a cute romantic pair in "Hollywood Canteen," will be the same in "Too Young to Know." . . . Florence George, after four guest appearances, will be on Nelson Eddy's air show every other Sunday from now on. . . . Joseph Pasternak's latest discovery is red haired, green eyed Jean Marlowe, a singer who goes to school at Hollywood High, the alma mater of Lana Turner and Gloria Graham. Pasternak heard Jean sing at a party, asked her to come to Metro, and signed her to a long term contract.

Buzz-Wuzz at Metro.

The fact that top men at Metro, including Nicholas Schenck, J. Walter Rubin, Edward Mannix, Sam Katz, and Benny Hau have all made new and longer deals with Metro, and Louis B. Mayer has not, leads a lot of silly people to believe that he may join his son-in-law, William Goetz, at International. If there were anything to this tall tale, why would Mayer, single-handed, have put thru the pension plan which he fought so hard for, and which will benefit all of them, including himself? It just doesn't make sense. . . . Joseph Schildkraut will do part of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" for a scene in "The Amazing Mr. M.," but it has to be interspersed with other dialog, and this, he claims, makes it one of the most difficult jobs he's ever had to do. . . . Douglas Montgomery, who has been in the Canadian army, was borrowed by the British government to do Terrance Rattigan's "Rendezvous," a story of the Royal air forces.

Fair Exchange Is Just That.

Sew Your Own Clan Revels in Irish Woolens

BY REA SEEGER.

Lush shades of pink, blue, green, and yellow in softest wool make the fabric collection from California the big shopping excitement of the week. Huge bolts of the stuff rival a bonbon candy display. These are the wide woolens for spring suits, dresses and coats, every inch 100 per cent wool and every inch loomed out in California. Dressmakers, professional or amateur, are eyeing the showing with a gleam in the eye, for two and a half to three yards of the lovely stuff will make a sunshine costume of subtle beauty.

You'll find shocking pink with a thread line stripe of navy blue, aquamarine wool with soft yellow blurred outline checks, solid shades of yellow and lime and some distinctive plaid patterns in blending pastels against a pastel background color. They're good enough to eat with a spoon. And soft and light as a summer breeze. Because of the delectable colors, very little is needed for contrast. Simple tailored dresses, coats, or suits fashioned from such lovely woolens will be a delight to the eye.

It has been a long time since the "sew your own" crowd have been treated to such luscious pastels with such reasonable prices. Combinations of plain color skirt and patterned jacket or topcoat will be smooth perfection, as all colors are matched to blend or harmonize exactly. The clever striped stuff is easy to match to the unstriped material for a swank two piece suit. The dress woolens are thin enough to be comfortable under a topper of the same wool, whether of solid or patterned design. You'll have to hand out chest medals to the California dyers and weavers for these fascinating pastel colored woolens!

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Fred S., Rockford, Ill.—Here's how I keep a ring from forming when I use a cleaning fluid to remove a spot or stain. I surround the spot with cornmeal, which is a good absorbent. This works even better than the conventional method of "feathering out" the liquid around the spot.

Mrs. Ruth G., Elgin—We needed extra closets in a large bedroom, so we hung venetian blinds across two corners. We allowed plenty of space for hanger rods and with the help of a scalloped cornice all around the room we hid the supports to which the blinds were fastened. Cornice and tapes matched the wall color and the general effect is good.

NAVAL DRAFTEE BRIBE PLOT TOLD AT TRIAL OF TWO Officers Paid to Obtain Rejections, Jury Told.

Albert Stephenson, naval chief petty officer now serving a six year court-martial sentence for scandalous conduct, described from the witness stand in federal court yesterday his part in helping federal authorities to wipe out fraudulent rejections last spring at the local induction center, 166 Van Buren st.

Frank Cerone [top] and James Cerone.

Stephenson was one of the government's chief witnesses in the trial before a jury of six men and six women in the court of Judge John P. Barnes of Frank Cerone, 32, of 5048 Marine dr., reputed one-time associate of Eddie Vogel, slot machine boss, and publisher of the Daily Sports News and Sports Weekly, 1717 S. Wells st., and his brother, James, 25, of 1249 Ohio st. Both are charged with violations of the national selective service and training act.

Tells of His Duties.

After serving 18 months in the navy during World War I, Stephenson said he reënlisted in May, 1942, and was assigned to the local induction center. His duties, he said, were to review the physical examination sheets of inductees and assign them to the various branches of the services.

Early in March of last year, he replied to questions of Asst. United States' Atty. George G. Kelly, he was introduced to Frank Cerone in a tavern at 18 N. Clark st. Cerone, Stephenson said, suggested that he procure rejections for several of his [Cerone's] friends not wanting to enter either the army or navy.

Sought Aid of Curran.

Stephenson then sought the aid of another chief petty officer, John Curran, who asked for time to "think it over." Curran, meanwhile, reported the matter to his superior officers, and was told to cooperate with Stephenson.

Several weeks later the first of five intended rejectees appeared at the center, Stephenson said. After going thru the regular physical examination, Stephenson said, the inductee would be sidetracked before taking his psychiatric examination by appearing at Curran's office where his papers would be stamped "psycho-neurosis" and "rejected by the armed forces."

Paid $1,000 for Rejection.

After he had received $1,000 from Cerone for the rejection, Stephenson said, naval intelligence officers and FBI agents awakened him at his home early the next morning. After he had made a full confession, he was asked to carry out several other of the "deals" he had made with Cerone.

The last of these was on May 24, when James Cerone appeared at the center, Stephenson said. Two days after James was rejected Frank Cerone met Stephenson in the lobby at the Brevoort hotel and gave him $500, the witness said. Stephenson marked the money and handed it over to FBI agents. He received a total of $3,050 for the five rejections, he testified.

Frank Cerone is named in three other indictments charging him with aiding in the deferment of four others. The four, also named, are George Nick Alex, 36, a city truck driver; Charles Carl Bartoll, 29, former bookie; George Sam Alvisio, 23, former clerk in the county recorder's office, and William [Smokes] Aloisio, 37, George's brother. They will be tried at the completion of the present case.

MERCURY RIDING TO A FALL AFTER RECORD OF 59.9

Don't start spading your garden, men, because there's more winter to come.

The thermometer went up to 59.9 degrees at 1:45 p. m. yesterday, providing Chicago with its warmest day of the year and inducing loop office workers to stroll thru Grant park and down Michigan blvd. during their lunch periods. Forecaster H. S. Kenny announced, however, that today will bring freezing temperatures with fresh to strong breezes. Kenny said today's high temperature will be 26 degrees, with 20 degrees the probable low.

Yesterday's 59.9 degrees was the highest temperature recorded here since last Nov. 14, when the thermometer hit 66 degrees.

W. C. Blaesing, chief horticulturist of the Chicago park district, said home owners need not fret about damage to their lilacs, Forsythia, and other early budding shrubs. He said these growths are in winter condition and yesterday's warmth was not of sufficient duration to cause premature budding.

WALKOUT OF 176 AT DODGE PLANT ENTERS 5TH DAY

One hundred seventy-six men engaged in supplying a coolant fluid to high speed tooling machinery in one department at the Dodge Chicago plant, where B-29 engines for Super Fortresses are in volume production, have been on strike since Friday, the company announced yesterday.

Of the strikers, 91 are employed on the day shift, 61 on the second, and 24 on the third shift.

ANTI-RACE BIAS BILL READY FOR DEWEY ACTION

Albany, N. Y., March 5 [Special].—Passage of the controversial Ives-Quinn bill prohibiting racial or religious discrimination in employment was completed by New York's legislature tonight. The measure, believed to be the first of its kind approved by any state, was sent to Gov. Dewey for his signature. He previously has endorsed it.

With solid and necessary Democratic support, the Republican controled senate approved the measure, 49 to 6, after defeating, 38 to 16, an amendment that would have delayed start of the program pending a state-wide referendum.

The bill sets up a five member commission, appointed by the governor at $10,000 a year each, to eliminate and prevent discrimination in employment because of race, creed, color, or national origin either by employers, labor organizations, employment agencies, or other persons. Its proponents have hailed it as a great social advance while its opponents have assailed it as a "Gestapo measure" that will intensify racial relations, harass employers, and drive industry from the state.

The queen ran the palace budget into the red!

And the King didn't scold her! He loved those April strawberries brought by royal courier from the southern Alps, though they cost their weight in silver.

That was long ago. Today, on the Illinois Central—and other railroads—the refrigerator car serves the public better than a thousand king's couriers. Early strawberries, Central American bananas, once rare fruits, out-of-season vegetables, all are within reach of every housewife's budget.

Just 79 years ago the Illinois Central handled the first refrigerated shipment of fresh fruit ever made. Now, thousands of refrigerator cars bring everyone the fine flavor and health-building qualities of fresh foods in greater abundance and variety than any king enjoyed a century ago.

Moving perishable foods is one of many services the American people rely on railroads to perform. The nation's food and clothing, its building materials and fuels for home and factory are hauled by rail. Railroads provide the low-cost delivery service for American mass production. After Victory, the Illinois Central looks forward to providing finer transportation service, thanks to new materials, improved methods and knowledge gained serving America at war.

RAMS OFFER LUKE JOHNSOS $20,000 A YEAR

MAJORS STILL SEEKING THAT COMMISSIONER

Eric A. Johnston Top Choice, Rumor Says

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The four man major league committee entrusted with the task of tracking down suitable prospects for the job of baseball commissioner, vacant since the death of K. M. Landis last November, held its first meeting yesterday, but revealed no details as to how well or poorly, the members are progressing in their roles of bloodhounds.

Eric A. Johnston.

The committee, made up of Don Barnes of the St. Louis Browns, Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals, Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians, and P. K. Wrigley, the Cubs' president, assembled in the offices of the latter, after which it issued a brief formal statement aimed to satisfy the few who have been demanding to know what the four men, picked in January, were stalling about.

As a matter of fact, the committee hasn't been stalling. The members went at the task with the idea of not being hurried, thus reducing the possibilities of erroneous findings.

No Definite Action as Yet.

Altho the committee wishes to proceed at least semi-privately—there being so many sports writers overanxious to name the new commission, without regard for the wishes of the 16 club owners—it was learned that yesterday's session didn't clean up the assignment. Members still are on the scent and will gather again in the near future, after which the findings will be submitted to balloting at a joint meeting of the two leagues. Twelve votes are necessary for election.

Because there is so much remaining to be cleared up at Washington before baseball knows for sure that it will be able to operate this season, the two league presidents may not be in a rush to set a meeting date even if the committee should come thru with its final recommendations within a week. Only a few of the eastern clubs hold the view that a commissioner should be named without delay.

Eric Johnston No. 1 Choice.

The list of candidates for the lucrative seat remains large and the committee in its final recommendations may offer several names, but it is rumored that the man who can have the job if he'll say "yes" is Eric Allen Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

He was one of the many suggested shortly after Landis' death but since then the story runs that the magnates would welcome him unanimously. Whether he has been contacted by the committee and, if so, what he replied, isn't known.

A lawyer and 48 years old, Johnston meets major requirements of the club owners. Altho born in Washington, D. C., he was raised in Spokane, Wash., graduating from the University of Washington. He served with the marines in World War I.

Russell Can't Leave Chickens.

James T. Gallagher, Cub vice president, announced yesterday that Glen [Rip] Russell, at one time the club's first baseman, had been returned to the Los Angeles club. Being a chicken farmer, Russell was unwilling to wander far from his hen fruit plantation.

Russell was with the Cubs in 1939 and '40 but was sent to Tulsa, a farm club, in 1941. He was back with the Cubs, playing both the infield and outfield in 1942. After an impressive 1943 season at Los Angeles he was sold to the Phillies but refused to report. The Cubs got him via trade with their Los Angeles cousins last fall.

Meanwhile Gallagher isn't worrying as much about how many Cubs show up for the getaway to the French Lick, Ind., camp tomorrow night as he is whether it will rain April 17, the day the world champion Cardinals open the season at Wrigley field.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE value of competitive games in preparing young men for war is admitted by all except the chronic anti-sports element. . . . The importance of athletics in war time is conceded by nearly every one except the grouch columnist. . . . These activities will be more necessary than ever in the post-war era. . . . Millions of men will have undergone physical strains the like of which few predecessors ever have been called upon to endure. . . . They have stormed beaches amid the rattle of machine gun fire. . . . They have crawled thru the mud of Attu under bursting shells. . . . They have advanced tensely thru the fortifications of the Siegfried line and along the sniper infested jungle trails of New Guinea. . . . They have leaped from planes and gliders and fought for life in an oily sea. . . . Even a human machine at its best hardly can take that kind of punishment. . . . Whether wounded physically or their nerves shattered, all these men will need the help of sports for readjustment to normal life. . . . It's up to schools and colleges, to industry, to communities, and to newspapers whose sports staffs are not afraid of work to see that they get it. . . . It will be a new role for sport in the life of the nation. . . . It will take a program wider than any heretofore conducted to meet the requirements. . . .

Many of the men whose nervous systems have been affected will be helped back to mental balance by extrovert activities that take their minds off themselves. . . . The man from the ship sunk off Leyte will find recuperative respite whenever his mind is wiped clear of clinging horrors in the heat of a fast game of tennis. . . . The butterflies that again beat their wings in a man's stomach every time he recalls the shock of the gunfire at Salerno or Iwo will quiet down as he concentrates on his next shot in a game of golf. . . . The gunner whose hands were seared fighting fire in a Fortress will find new courage and confidence as he bags a running catch in the outfield. . . . Sports can serve them all by helping them forget the horrors of war and directing their energies into useful pursuits that build successful lives. . . . It isn't something new that is needed. . . . It's simply the making available to all what too long has been the privilege of the few.

Hopes Realized.

While viewing, askance, the end of my rope,
God only asks of me to turn
My face to Him—and trust, and hope!

Seahawks Beat Gopher Five, 50-30

Iowa City, Ia., March 5 [Special].—Minnesota had Clarence [Kleggie] Hermsen here tonight, but little else, and the Iowa Seahawks closed their second basketball season with a 50 to 30 victory over the Gophers before a crowd of 3,000. It was the 17th triumph of the season for the Pre-Flight five against four defeats, two of which were suffered at the hands of Notre Dame.

While Hermsen was compiling 22 of the Gophers' points with eight baskets and six free throws, the Seahawks were depending on the shooting of Charley Pugsley and Don Samuel, and the all-around feeding ability of the latter. Pugsley, the former Oklahoma guard, contributed 14 points on five field goals and four free tosses, while Samuel combined his clever feeding with four baskets and six free throws for the same total. The Seahawks led, 21 to 12, at the half.

Minnesota led only twice, both times in the first 10 minutes, the last being 7 to 5. Line-ups:

KANSAS CITY'S GLOVERS SIGHT TITLE AT LAST

Five Punch Friday Night in Stadium.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The Kansas City Star's boxing team, which for the last 10 years has furnished more than its quota of capable competitors in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournaments, yet never has been able to win the coveted team trophy, appears out to break the Cleveland Plain Dealer's almost perennial grip on the championship Friday night in the Stadium in the 1945 finals of the sport's biggest show.

Kansas City sent a complete eight man team, coached by Charles Myers, into the Tournament of Champions last week, and still has five eligible for the climactic semi-finals and finals from which will emerge Chicago's intercity representatives. Interest is so high that all of the higher priced seats for the 32 bout program have been sold, but plenty of reserved seats at $1.20 remain.

Los Angeles a Title Threat.

Next to Kansas City in number of representatives remaining for the final night is Los Angeles, which came out of last week's battles with four survivors, a remarkable showing for a city in only its second year of competition. The Los Angeles squad, coached by Harry Winkler, and fighting under the banner of the Los Angeles Times, is a notch above the Cleveland team which has three men remaining, the same number that will represent Chicago, Columbus, O., and Fort Worth, Tex., Friday night.

The list of survivors representing other centers in the big show follows:

Oklahoma City, Okla., 2; Gary, Ind., Fort Wayne, Ind., Peoria, Ill., Sioux City, Ia., New Orleans, La., Muncie, Ind., Milwaukee, Wis., St. Louis, Mo., and Omaha, Neb., one each.

Cleveland Six Time Winner.

The team trophy is awarded on a point scoring basis, with five points going to the winner of a championship, three to a runnerup, and one to each of the beaten semi-finalists.

Cleveland has won six team trophies while tying with Omaha for another one since the award first was made in 1933. Davenport, Ia., took that one and then Cleveland won in 1934 and 1935. In 1936 Omaha forced the Ohioans into a tie. Detroit won in 1937, but Cleveland came back in 1938, then missed two years as Detroit and Fort Worth won out. DE PAUL ACCEPTS BID TO PLAY IN EASTERN MEET

The athletic board of De Paul university yesterday accepted an invitation for its basketball team to compete in the annual New York tournament which opens March 17 in Madison Square Garden. The announcement was made by Rev. Joseph Phoenix, C. M., chairman of the board.

De Paul competed in this same tournament last year and was beaten in the finals by St. John's of Brooklyn. Altho De Paul, a member of the National Collegiate Athletic association, was eligible to accept an invitation to represent the fourth district, delay in ascertaining the district representative forced De Paul to accept the invitational tournament offer.

Eight teams will participate in the tournament. St. John's, Tennessee, Rhode Island State, and Muhlenberg also have accepted invitations. Four teams will play March 17 and the others on March 19. De Paul has requested assignment to the March 19 date, in which case the squad will leave Chicago March 17. Coach Ray Meyer and Tom Haggerty, director of athletics, plan to take the regular playing squad.

IOWA SEASON OVER.

Iowa City, Ia., March 5 [Special].—Members of the Iowa basketball team, undisputed champions of the Western conference, tonight voted to reject all invitations for competition in post-season tournaments. The Hawkeyes had been mentioned as a possible entrant in the National Collegiate Athletic association's eastern division tournament, which will open in New York March 22.

Following an informal dinner given by the athletic department for the team, E. G. [Dad] Schroeder, director of athletics, said, "The boys have decided they have had enough basketball for one season. The team has been disbanded."

Lawrence [Pops] Harrison, coach of the new champions, agreed with the players.

UTAH ENTERS MEET.

Chicago Four, Girl, 16, Win Skate Titles

New York, March 5 (AP).—Pretty Barbara Ann Scott, 16 year old Ottawa veteran of 10 years' experience and leader of Canada's four girl team, reached new heights when she captured the North American ladies' figure skating title before 3,000 in Madison Square Garden tonight. It was the first time this little Olympics of skating was held since 1941, when the event was held in Philadelphia.

Glamorous Gretchen Merrill, heading the United States quartet, finished second with two firsts and four seconds. The Boston girl, who last Saturday won her third straight United States National seniors' title, made a bold try despite falling once in a difficult leap. Miss Merrill is a protege of Maribel Vinson, whose North American victory in 1937 was the last for this country.

Boston Pair Wins Title.

Third position, with six thirds, went to Jannette Ahrens of St. Paul. Then, in order, came Margaret Grant, St. Paul; Marilyn Take, Toronto; Gloria Lillico, Toronto; Nadine Phillips, Toronto, and Madelon Olson, St. Paul.

The National Fours crown went to the Chicago quartet of Larry and Edward Vanderbosch, Joan Yocum and Jackie Dunn, with four first votes and one second. The Philadelphia foursome of E. N. Black, C. W. Brinkman, and the Misses Nancy and Jane Lemmon finished second, while third went to the Cleveland group of G. Wilson, H. Trenkamp, third, Miss Pat Ryan and Mary Anderson.

New York Pair Triumphs.

In the senior pairs nationals, New York's Jean Pierre Brunet and Donna Jean Pospisil were victorious with four firsts and one second. Second went to M. and Ann McGean, representing Cleveland, while San Francisco's pair, James Lochead and Marcella May Willis were third and last.

The national senior dance finals ended the tourney with a New York victory for Robert Swenning and Mrs. K. M. Williams [three firsts, two seconds]. Next were J. Lochead and Miss M. M. Willis, San Francisco; C. Hoffner and Miss A. Davies, Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Andresen, New York.

The National junior pairs title was taken by the Boston team of Lt. Comdr. Lyman Wakefield and Betty Higgins, who received three firsts and two seconds by the five judges. The New York team—Robert Swenning and Yvonne Sherman—was second. The came Peter and Karol Kennedy, Seattle, D. C., and Yvonne Cameron, Cleveland; C. W. Brinkman and Nancy Lemmon, Philadelphia; H. and Sally Blair, Cleveland; C. Hoffner and Anne Davies, Washington, D. C.; H. A. and Nancy Sue Jenkins, Akron, O.

Baltimore, Md., March 5 (AP).—Nate Bolden, Chicago, knocked out Walter [Popeye] Woods, New York, tonight in the second round of a bout scheduled for 10. Early in the second round Woods was floored with a left hook and a few seconds later a short right ended the match.

SENN, LINDBLOM MEET TODAY IN PREP PLAY-OFFS

Senn High school's Bulldogs, upset victors in the University of Chicago holiday basketball tournament and champions of the City league north section, meet Lindblom High school's five this afternoon as the City league play-offs move into the semi-final round.

The contest is scheduled for 4 o'clock in De La Salle High school gymnasium. The other semi-final, pitting South Shore, defending champion, against Von Steuben, runner-up in the north, will be played tomorrow on the same court.

Undefeated in North Section.

The Bulldogs swept undefeated thru the north section race and have been installed as favorites to win the crown and the right to represent the City league in the state tournament starting March 15 at the University of Illinois.

Lindblom, after tying Phillips for the central section title with a record of seven victories and one loss, has turned in impressive performances in the play-offs, routing Hyde Park, 51 to 24, in the first round, and rallying to defeat Harper, 37 to 36, in an overtime quarter-final contest.

Marshall Extends Senn.

Marshall's Commandos gave Senn its greatest scare of the season before losing, 38 to 37, in the first play-off game. The Bulldogs defeated their north section rivals, Lane Tech, in the quarter-finals.

The winner of the City league senior title, along with the junior titlists, will meet the Catholic league junior and senior champions on April 7 in the annual intracity charity game sponsored by Mayor Kelly.

BEAR CO-COACH DELAYS REPLY FOR FEW DAYS

Cleveland Increases Earlier Bid.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Luke Johnsos, co-coach of the Chicago Bears, yesterday was offered a $20,000 a year contract to coach the Cleveland Rams in the National Football league. This proposition resulted from a conference in Chicago between the one time Northwestern university star end and Charles [Chile] Walsh, general manager of the Cleveland eleven.

Johnsos said last night that he has not definitely committed himself and will give Walsh his answer in a few days. A year ago Johnsos turned down a three year contract at $15,000 a season to join the Rams, Cleveland then signed Aldo [Buff] Donelli on the same terms. Donelli recently entered military service. It is known that at least two other National league teams have approached Johnsos in the past.

Once Played with Bears.

The 38 year old coach, who graduated from the playing ranks of the Bears, has carried the coaching burden since Lt. Comdr. George Halas, owner-coach, left the team during the 1942 season to join the navy. Heartly [Hunk] Anderson has operated with Johnsos as co-coach, but has spent part of his time during the football season in business pursuits in Detroit, his home.

Johnsos, whose home is in Evanston, played with the Bears from 1928 thru 1936 and was picked on the 1936 National league all-star team. He has been on the coaching staff since 1937.

Tho it is not believed that Johnsos' salary with the Bears approaches the figure dangled before him by the Rams, the Bears' strategist has a lucrative position with a Chicago paper company which he is reluctant to leave.

There's Los Angles Angle.

It was learned that Walsh mentioned the possibility of his Cleveland team operating in Los Angeles after the war. Johnsos would be more receptive to such a setup, he indicated, because the paper company for which he works has a large branch office in the California metropolis.

The Rams' determination to obtain a successful, seasoned professional coach stems in part from realization that the team faces strong competition from the Cleveland club of the new All-America Football conference. This organization, owned by the wealthy Arthur McBride, has signed Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, former Ohio State coach, as coach and general manager.

Parallels McKeever Situation.

There have been reports the last few years that the Rams have considered transferring their franchise to Los Angeles. This city also will be represented by an All-America conference team jointly owned by Don Ameche and Christy Walsh.

In making his decision, Johnsos will have to consider his status with the Bears when Lt. Comdr. Halas leaves the navy. Many of Halas' friends believe his return to civilian life is imminent. In this respect, Johnsos is in much the same position as was Ed McKeever, interim coach and athletic director at Notre Dame while Lt. Frank Leahy is serving in the navy. McKeever took advantage of his present position by accepting the head coaching job at Cornell.

BILL PARSONS BEATS BROWN IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Four Supporting Matches End in Knockouts.

Bill Parsons, Danville, Ill., welterweight, outpointed Collins Brown, 1944 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, in an exciting eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night, before a crowd of 1,278, which paid a gross gate of $2,686.

The decision of Referee Tommy Thomas and Judges Harold Marovitz and George Kenny was unanimous.

In the second round the fast stepping Parsons rocked his heavier opponent with repeated left and right jabs. Brown's rush was so furious in the fifth round that Parsons slipped to his knees for a two count in his haste to get out of danger.

Brown weighed 158 pounds to Parsons' 150.

Four Bouts End in Knockouts.

All four of the supporting matches ended in knockouts, winners being Ted Christie, New York featherweight; Art Brown, south side welterweight; Robert Weatherly, south side junior welterweight, and Nick Kachardus, Chicago 130 pounder.

Kachardus stopped Ralph Balkin, Muskegon, Mich., in two rounds; Weatherly knocked out Vic Soyko, Milwaukee, in three; Christie stopped Butch Maxwell, Muskegon, in two, and Brown knocked out Al Jackson in three rounds.

Eddie Lander, west side lightweight, who has not boxed since knocking out Joe Dupont in nine rounds in September, 1942, will return to action in a six round bout against Ray Glenn of Indianapolis in Marigold Gardens next Monday night.

O'Neil Bell, Detroit welterweight, has been matched with Robert Fowler in an eight round event on the card.

Freddy Dawson, former Catholic Youth organization champion, has placed himself under new management, it was revealed yesterday at Illinois Athletic commission headquarters when Harry Rudolph of the south side filed a contract to manage the fighter for the next five years. Rudolph purchased Dawson's agreement from Bob Penn and Bill Daly for $2,600.

An Australian tag team match will pit Jack Zeravich and Andy Rockne against Jack Hobbs and Rube Hawkins in a wrestling show in Rainbo Fronton tomorrow night.

ARMY GIVES UP HUNT FOR BODY OF SOUTHWORTH

New York, March 5 [Special].—The army air force has abandoned its search for the bodies of Maj. Billy Southworth Jr. and others of the B-29 crew who perished when their Super Fortress crashed in Flushing bay Feb. 15.

The decision, it was announced, was concurred in by the pilot's father, manager of the champion St. Louis Cardinals.

The senior Southworth, air force officials disclosed, "has been constantly aboard the United States engineer's barge at the scene of the crash."

Of the five who perished, the body of Lt. Ralph L. Stickle, of Butler, N. J., was the only one recovered in the 18 day search.

Michigan to Bid for 15th Swim Crown

Michigan's well balanced swimming team will be a strong favorite to defend successfully its Western conference title at Northwestern university Saturday. Preliminaries will be held in the morning with the finals scheduled for the evening.

Matt Mann, the Wolverine's veteran coach, has assembled another strong squad reminiscent of those that have dominated conference swimming circles since 1927. The maize and blue swimmers will be seeking their 15th title in 18 years.

Ohio Has Title Ideas.

The three defending champions who carry much of Michigan's hopes are Capt. Merton Church, 50 yard free style; Charles Fries, 100 yard free, and Heini Kessler, 200 yard breast stroke. The Wolverines will also be favorites in the 300 yard medley and 400 yard free style relays which they won last year.

Ohio State, 1943 winner, is expected to give Michigan its strongest competition. The Buckeyes are led by Leo Nakama, veteran Hawaiian, who holds both the 220 and 440 yard free style records. Ohio also has a strong diving trio in Bob Stone, runner-up last year; Hobart Billingsley, third place winner in the 1944 A. A. U. meet, and Ted Christakos.

Wildcats Lose Tribble.

Northwestern, runner-up to Michigan last year, has lost Bob Tribble, defending backstroke champion, who recently received his ensign's commission and left for active service.

Northwestern's principal scoring threats are Bill Heusner, a freshman who has been a consistent winner in the 220 and 440 yard free style events; Art Koblish and Graham Davis, free stylers, and Herb Keith, fancy diving.

Irish Finish Card Tonight; Detroit Is Foe

Notre Dame, Ind., March 5 [Special].—Notre Dame's record breaking basketball team will close its season tomorrow night in the fieldhouse against the University of Detroit. It will be the 20th meeting of a series which began in 1912. The Irish have won all 19 games played.

Notre Dame, with 14 victories in 19 starts, this season has either broken or tied all previous Irish scoring marks with one exception, that is Leo Klier's season scoring record of 293 points made last year. However, Vince Boryla, Notre Dame's brilliant 17 year old center is almost certain to beat it tomorrow as he now has 291 points and needs only three more to establish a new mark. Lineups:

HOLMAN TELLS OF BASKETBALL 'FIXING' RUMORS

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 5 (AP).—Nat Holman, basketball coach at City college, New York, testified today that in 1940 he had heard rumors that the Manhattan college-New York university basketball game was fixed, but that investigation showed the game was on the level.

Appearing in Kings County court as open hearings into the Brooklyn basketball gambling situation resumed, Holman declared "in the matter of gambling I, like everybody else, have heard rumors. But I'm from Missouri, and until I have factual proof about this gambling I am going to look on them only as rumors. You'll have gambling wherever you get a large group of people."

3 Little Davids Await Battle with 57 Illinois Prep Goliaths

Springfield, Ill., March 5 [Special].—Only three Little Davids out of an original list of 429 remained today to carry the fight against the Big Goliaths in the 38th annual state high school basketball championship.

The three small town schools were part of a field of 60 which will play at 15 sectional centers Thursday and Friday. The 15 survivors of this field advances to the University of Illinois March 15-17 to join the Chicago Public league champion.

Smallest of the remaining schools is Easton, Mason county winner of the Greenview district and the Havana sectional. It has only 31 pupils in school. The basketball team has won 33 of 34 starts and will play Peoria Central in the first round of the Pekin sectional.

Opposes Normal High.

Somonnuk, which came thru the Serena district and the Marseilles regional, has 77 pupils. It has won 28 to 34 starts and now goes up against Normal University High in the La Salle tournament.

The only remaining district winner still in the running is Waterman, which plays Elgin in the latter's section. Waterman with an enrollment of 89, had won 23 games and lost eight and is seeking its third sectional championship. It previously won in 1930 and 1941.

The regional tournaments prompted only one major upset when Niles beat Waukegan on the latter's floor. Waukegan was co-champion of the strong Chicago suburban league.

All other favorites came thru and one of them, Decatur, may have established an all-time regional scoring record with 252 points in three games against Bement, Mount Zion, and Niantic.

Easton Boasts Good Record.

Best record, on a straight percentage basis among all survivors today, is Easton's 33 won and one lost, a .971 average. Highest ranked teams, considering all opposition, are Decatur and Champaign.

Longest current winning streak is Champaign's 20 straight. Staunton has won 19 of its last 20. Buckley had a 19 game streak at one time but it was nipped by Gilman Feb. 13, 28 to 25. Buckley, tho it was not required to go to a district, is smaller than any other contender except Easton. It has 76 pupils, including 34 boys. Buckley drew Danville in the first round of the latter's sectional.

The Big Twelve still has the largest representation in the field, with eight of its members in the running. No more than five of them could emerge this week, however, as six are paired against each other on three sectional fronts.

Four of Big 8 Remain.

The Big Eight has four teams left, while the Northwest, Illinois, and South Sixth conferences have three apiece.

Of last year's 16 state finalists, 12 still have chances to repeat. They include Taylorville, the defending champion; Elgin, South Shore [Chicago], and Champaign, semi-finalists last year, and Anna-Jonesboro, Canton, Kankakee, Mount Carmel, Paris, Kewanee, West Frankfort, and Quincy. The only missing members of 1944's finalists are Marseilles, Pekin, West Rockford, and East St. Louis.

LIDMAN, HAGG'S VOICE, ASKS FOR REST AND WORK

New York, March 5 (AP).—Gunder Hagg, Swedish ace who finished last in a five-man race last Saturday, said today he would run the mile again this week end and that he hoped he could cut at least 10 seconds off his 4:31 board floor debut.

"I could have lowered my time by about eight seconds last Saturday night but I saw that I was beaten and there was no need to risk possible injury. I'll make no prediction on how I will come out the next time," he said thru an interpreter at a luncheon.

Haakan Lidman, English speaking Stockholm sports writer who won the 60-yard high hurdle exhibition Saturday night, said that both he and Hagg were in need of rest and work.

Smoke No Hindrance.

"We hopestly don't know how to train for our coming races. If we take the work we need, we won't have enough rest. If we rest, we can't regain our spring. We will have to wait and see what happens," he concluded.

Asked if breathing in the smoke filled arena troubled them, Lidman replied with an emphatic "No."

"Aboard our freighter our two companions always smoked black cigars. The air in Madison Square Garden actually seemed fresh," he continued.

Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, added that he would seek an extension of Hagg's visitor's permit in this country and that he hoped to line up a Pacific coast and southern trip for the two which would terminate with the annual Pennsylvania relays on April 27 and 28.

Von Elling Lauds Hagg.

The gaunt Gunder ran 3,000 yards in an uptown New York park today and said he found the terrain satisfactory but that he planned to spend several afternoons with the New York university squad under Coach Emil Von Elling, who prepared Glenn Cunningham, Leslie MacMitchell and Frank Dixon for their mile efforts.

"That was one of the finest exhibitions I have ever seen," said Von Elling regarding Hagg's mile of last Saturday. "MacMitchell, who now is in the navy, would need at least six weeks to get in shape for a race like that. Hagg tried it after only 50 hours on shore."

3 BADGER STARS TO PLAY IN PRO BASKET TOURNEY

Three University of Wisconsin basketball players have entered the pro ranks and will play in the seventh annual Invitation basketball tournament in the Chicago Stadium March 19 to 24.

Capt. Ray Patterson and Art Johnson of the Badgers recently were signed by the Dow Chemical company of Midland, Mich., and will see action with the Michigan entry in the meet. The third Badger star, Des Smith, one of the team's high scorers, has signed with the Oshkosh [Wis.] All-Stars.

Hawks' Hope for Play-Off Berth Booms

The Chicago Blackhawks, their hopes for a place in the National Hockey league Stanley cup play-offs revived as a result of their 6 to 4 victory over the leading Montreal Canadiens in the Stadium Sunday night, yesterday began preparations for a stretch drive which they hope will carry them into fourth place by the time the season ends on March 18.

At present the Chicagoans are at the bottom in the six team league, two points or one game behind the fourth place Boston Bruins and one point back of the New York Rangers, who hold fifth position.

Specialize in Big Rallies.

Tho the Hawks face a difficult task in attempting to make up the deficit in five games, their work in their last two starts indicates they have serious intentions of taking the only play-off spot not yet decided. [The Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs have cinched the top three berths in that order.]

In warming up for their triumph over the league leaders on Sunday, their first in 31 contests with the Canadiens, the Blackhawks defeated the Rangers, 5 to 3, in New York Thursday night, scoring four goals in a 10 minute stretch in the second period. Sunday night they waited until the third period for their big push, a five goal outburst, with Clint Smith scoring four times.

Can Mike Do It Again?

The five games left on the schedule include home contests with the Rangers tomorrow night and with the Bruins March 15, and three away, in Boston Sunday, Montreal March 17, and Detroit March 18.

The last time the Bruins played in Chicago Mike Karakas, the Hawks' goalie, shut them out, 5 to 0, and if he can turn in similar performances in the two games remaining with the present holders of fourth place it will help his club greatly in the battle to squeeze into the Stanley cup picture at the last minute.

Carl Winterberg of the Keeleys had a 712 series and Ted Hjort of the Curtiss team posted 700. Thompson's Restaurants also took three from Marigold Arcades, 3,035 to 2,809, and are tied with Keeleys for first place. Scores:

BIDDLE DERIDES LACK OF RIGHTS IN PLANE BASES

Holds Sovereignty Move 'Unwise.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—The United States has "almost no postwar contractural rights" to air bases it has built on foreign soil, Atty. Gen. Biddle said today in a report to congress, but he added:

"In reality it is unnecessary for the United States to have sovereignty over foreign bases, and it is probably of little moment that there are no prior commitments giving the United States the right to have its commercial air lines use such bases. If the United States actively promotes the development of a sound international air network, the right to use such bases should be obtained without difficulty."

Refers to Discussion.

Biddle said there has been "much popular discussion" of the right of American air lines to use the bases, constructed with American funds, after the war, and proposals that the United States assert sovereignty over them, but he said such suggestions "appear impractical and unwise."

The report opposed proposals to give a single company control of the United States international air traffic and suggested solution of the problem lies somewhere between unrestricted competition and monopoly. It opposed foreign investment in American air lines or control of them by surface carriers, such as steamship lines.

Biddle said that altho American legislative policy is one of competition, American international aviation has been developed along monopoly lines.

"This development has been in part a consequence of awarding the all-important air mail contracts to Pan American [airways] in preference to other potential competitors and in part the result of Pan American Airways' success in acquiring potential competitors and forestalling competition by anticipating and procuring the operating franchises requisite for international aviation," the report said.

Rivalry Impels Progress.

Biddle said competition would impel competing lines to operate with maximum efficiency, both with regard to costs and adequacy and frequency of service. It would guarantee development and prompt application of technical improvements, he said.

"Competition gives freedom to the progressive minority to experiment and to forge ahead," he said. "There is substantial evidence that the competitive domestic lines have been more progressive than have the monopolistic European lines."

Of the proposal that international aviation be conducted by a single international line owned jointly by all interested countries, Biddle said:

"National security cannot be assured by any such simple device as internationalizing commercial air fleets. Neither can the solution of national rivalries in this field insure international good will."

NATIONAL BANKS' TOTAL DEPOSITS RISE 12 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., March 5 [Special].—Deposits in 5,631 national banks increased nearly 12 billion dollars in 1944 to reach a total of 72 billion 129 millions on last Dec. 30, the treasury department announced today. Their assets rose approximately 12 billion 418 millions to 76 billion 950 millions.

Loans and discounts were 11 billion 498 millions, up 1 billion 364 million since December, 1943. Investments by the banks in United States government obligations aggregated 43 billion 478 millions. The unimpaired capital stock of the banks on Dec. 30 was 1 billion 567 millions, including 92 millions preferred stock. Total capital funds amounted to 4 billion 275 millions, which was 315 millions more than in December of the preceding year.

Interest Rates in World War 1 and After

Traction Plan TaxSafeguard Is Demanded

Safeguards to protect taxpayers in the event a metropolitan transit district is set up in Cook county were urged yesterday in a letter sent by the Civic Federation to Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green. The letter was signed by James A. Cunningham, president, and Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the organization.

Among the recommendations were:

1. Any bonds sold to acquire and modernize the surface and elevated lines should be backed only by earnings of the unified company under municipal ownership. [The governor and mayor already have pledged this.]

Suggests Sufficient Fares.

2. Fares should be high enough to meet principal and interest charges as they fall due, to cover all operating expenses, all maintenance of right of way, and all necessary replacements of equipment.

The letter suggested that it would not be sufficient to set fares high enough to guarantee that the bond sellers be paid off.

"Protection to taxpayers of Chicago should be continuous and not end with the life of the proposed bonds," the letter said. "It is bad enough for taxpayers to have to shoulder about 2 million dollars of additional tax burden, as they will when the present traction lines become public property and therefore tax exempt."

Rely on Earnings.

The city's proposal is to issue 87 millions of bonds to acquire the two traction companies and to spend 29 millions now in the surface lines treasury on improvements. Earnings are expected to carry the rest of the rehabilitation program, the mayor has said.

Joseph Grossman, assistant corporation counsel, went to Springfield yesterday with copies of the proposed legislation creating the transit district.

RECOMMENDS 4 MORE AIR LINES GET LATIN ROUTE

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—Two civil aeronautics board examiners recommended today that CAB grant permanent air routes to Latin America to four additional United States air lines—Eastern, Braniff, Western, and American.

The recommendations by Francis W. Brown and Heinrich Spang, subject to board review, also contemplated extensions of routes held by Pan American Airways and its affiliate, Pangara (Pan American-Grace Airways). Pan American is the only United States flag line holding a permanent certificate for service to Latin America. Others operate under temporary certificates.

Soft Coal Use in January Sets Peak; Supply Drops

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—Consumption of soft coal in January set an all-time monthly record of 59,284,000 tons, the solid fuels administration reported today. It said industrial consumers' and retail dealers' stockpile was reduced to a 26 day supply on Feb. 1, lowest since the start of the war and a six day drop from December.

People and Events

Fred M. Echoff has been appointed Chicago regional director of the smaller war plants corporation, said Chairman Maury Maverick yesterday. Echoff is manager of the Chicago branch of Remington, Rand, Inc., and succeeds Thomas Burtch, Topeka, Kas., who was transferred to Washington, D. C. Echoff is president of the Executives club.

Robert C. Swanton, president of the National Association of Purchasing Agents, will address the Chicago Association of Purchasing Agents in the Hotel Sherman Monday.

FIXING OF PRICES THRU CONTRACTS IS RULED INVALID

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—The Supreme court today ruled that "fair trade" contracts affecting retail prices of liquor and wine shipped into Colorado violate the Sherman anti-trust act. Justice Black delivered the court's 8 to 0 decision. Chief Justice Stone took no part in the case. The justice department had appealed a 10th Federal Circuit decision exonerating seven distillers, contending that agreements in interstate sales which provide for contract price maintenance in later intrastate sales are illegal under the Sherman act.

The court held invalid for want of invention a Dow Chemical company patent covering a process for treating deep oil and gas wells to increase production. Justice Murphy delivered the unanimous decision. The court denied Otis & Co. a rehearing on a decision which affirmed a plan of reorganization for United Light and Power company.

Stocks Higher, but Low Price Shares Falter

New York, March 5 (AP).—Demand for higher grade stocks pushed prices higher today altho some low-priced issues which had been sprinting recently encountered selling in reflection of Saturday's elimination and tightening of margins.

Stocks selling for less than $20 were lively on the downside after the opening altho the majority finished with only fractional declines. Bidding then reverted to the blue chips and altho the widest advances of some of these were reduced at the close, gains of 1 to 4 points were plentiful. Dealings dwindled to 1,190,000 shares from 1,770,000 Friday.

May Department Stores and Safeway Stores, both of which will split their stock, gained 4⅛ and 3⅜, respectively. Westinghouse Electric was up 3 and Chrysler 2¾.

RAIL RALLY LIFTS BONDS.

New York, March 5 (AP).—A late, altho small rally by rails lifted bond market prices today. Transfers totaled $10,070,000, compared with $11,490,000 Friday.

Largest advances were by medium price rails including Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles of 1960, Great Western 4s and 4½s, Milwaukee 4½s, Rock Island 4s and 4½s, Rio Grande Western 4s, Lehigh Valley 4s and 5s, and New Haven 6s.

United States government obligations rose 12-32 to 17-32.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange advanced yesterday. Turnover was 55,000 shares. Volume leaders included Butler Brothers, up ¼, Standard Dredging and Chicago corporation, each up ⅜, Kellogg Switchboard, down ⅛, and Peabody Coal, down ¼.

AIR LINE TELLS PROFIT RISE IN RATE CUT CASE

American Airlines yesterday disclosed preliminary 1944 net earnings of $4,425,955, or $3.43 a share, in answer to a civil aeronautics board show cause order in reference to a proposed mail rate reduction from 60 cents a ton mile to 32 cents. Profit was computed after deducting a 1 million dollar post-war reserve and compared with 1943 net income of $3,192,000 after a 1¾ million dollar reserve.

American estimated that net income would be reduced to $1,933,000 this year if the proposed rate was made effective. It said further that if a passenger load factor of 67 per cent, a normal peace time expectation, were used instead of the 85 per cent load factor estimated for 1945 as a result of war conditions, the line would incur an estimated net loss of $3,103,000.

United Air Lines' answer to a similar order said the postoffice department was making a substantial profit under existing rates and that rate reduction might compel the air lines to make up this revenue thru increased passenger and express rates, which would discourage civilian traffic.

CLOTHING UNION SOLVENCY HELD 'REMARKABLE'

Issues Report Like Corporation.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The balance sheet of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, which last year contributed $100,000 in cash to help elect President Roosevelt for a fourth term, discloses a remarkable degree of solvency.

In form and content the union's financial statement resembles the annual reports that corporations issue to their stockholders. It is a 12 page pamphlet that includes a balance sheet, income account, itemized statement of expense, a letter of certification by independent auditors, and an explanatory letter by the president of the organization.

Worth Nearly Equals Assets.

Two notable contrasts exist, however, between the union's statement and that of the ordinary corporate enterprise. The balance sheet shows the union's assets almost completely unencumbered, with net worth nearly equal to total assets. Without the obligation to meet an income tax, the income account shows a substantial unexpended balance after provision for all expenses.

The most recent available report of the union, covering the year ended Jan. 31, 1944, listed total assets of $4,751,000 and net worth of $4,340,000. Total income was $2,189,304, of which $708,000 remained at the year-end to increase net assets by that amount.

The income consisted chiefly of per capita collections from local unions which totaled $1,952,900. The principal items making up the $1,533,000 of expenses were: $818,555 for organization activities by 170 organizers in 400 communities, $162,000 administrative expense, $120,000 paid to CIO and Canadian Congress of Labor, and $100,000 contributed to the Political Action committee.

Hold 3 Million U. S. Bonds.

The high degree of solvency of the organization was emphasized by the character of the assets held. Cash of $603,000 and $2,973,000 of United States government securities were major items. Other assets included $785,000 invested in various financial institutions sponsored by the union and such items as $112,000 in loans to officers, employes, and others.

The report did not cover the resources nor reflect the operations of joint boards and affiliated local organizations of the union.

Organized in 1914 by a group of workers in the men's clothing industry, the union affiliated in 1933 with the AFL after reaching a jurisdictional agreement with that organization. It seceded in 1935, becoming a CIO charter member.

Sidney Hillman, Amalgamated's president, directs the CIO's political activities to which his union has been such a large contributor.

The political action committees directed by Hillman spent $1,327,000 in the 1944 election campaign of which the CIO-PAC accounted for $546,297. It was Amalgamated's contribution of $100,000 that got the campaign started. Amalgamated was the only union that made a direct contribution to the fund, the records indicated.

In a report filed last January with the clerk of the house of representatives, Hillman's committee disclosed it had an unexpended balance of $546,000 with which to finance future political activities.

[This is the concluding article of a series on labor union finances.]

WPB Grants Priorities in Beaumont, Tex., Dam

Vinson Nominated to Follow Jesse Jones as Loans Chief

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—President Roosevelt today nominated Fred M. Vinson, director of economic stabilization, to be federal loan administrator—the job congress refused to entrust to Henry A. Wallace. Senate comment indicated Vinson would be confirmed.

Fred M. Vinson.

When Mr. Roosevelt summarily fired Jesse Jones as secretary of commerce and nominated Wallace, the loan agencies, handling billions of dollars, were under commerce department administration. Congressional refusal to permit Wallace to control such vast sums resulted in legislation divorcing the lending agencies from the commerce department, after which Wallace was confirmed as secretary of commerce.

Vinson Successor Chosen.

At the White House, Jonathan Daniels, acting press secretary, said the President has selected a successor to Vinson in the economic stabilization post but would not announce the appointment until the senate acts on the Vinson nomination. The nomination was sent to the senate banking committee.

The loan agencies Vinson will administer are the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Defense Plant corporation, Defense Supplies corporation, Metals Reserve company, Rubber Reserve company, RFC Mortgage company, Federal National Mortgage association, Disaster Loan corporation, and War Damage corporation.

Jones, who had asserted Wallace was unqualified to handle the involved financial work of the loan agencies, said he regarded Vinson's appointment as excellent.

Worked with Jones.

"Judge Vinson knows a good deal about the RFC," Jones said. "He was in congress when the RFC act was passed and had an opportunity to observe its operations before he was appointed to the Court of Appeals. Since June, 1943 [when Vinson became economic stabilizer], he and I have worked very closely in some of the war activities of the RFC and its subsidiary corporations."

Sen. Taft [R., O.] said he thought it was a good nomination and Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said he was pleased. Sen. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate commerce committee and a leader in the fight to keep the loan agencies out of Wallace's reach, said he would vote to confirm Vinson.

Vinson, 55, replaced James F. Byrnes as economic stabilizer when Byrnes was named director of war mobilization in 1943. He was first elected to congress in 1922.

LESS THAN CARLOAD FREIGHT SHIPMENTS EAST BY RAIL BARRED

An embargo on less than carload freight shipments thruout the United States and Canada consigned to the eastern half of the United States yesterday was ordered into effect from midnight tonight to midnight next Sunday by the Association of American Railroads.

No railroad will be permitted to accept less than carload shipments during that period when consigned to points east of the western boundary of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

Food Store Ceiling Shifts Made Effective March 29

Retail food stores whose gross sales increased sufficiently in 1944 to change their OPA price group classification have until March 29 to figure ceiling prices under their new classification, James F. Riley Jr., acting director of the Chicago area OPA, said yesterday. Stores are divided in four groups by the gross sales of their most recent calendar year. Few changes in Chicago were expected, said Riley.

PURE OIL PROFIT RISES TO PEAK DESPITE CURBS

Dawes Urges End of Regimentation.

Pure Oil company last year had the highest net earnings in its history altho operations were "infinitely difficult," because of the detailed regimentation which blanketed its activities, Henry M. Dawes, president, said yesterday in his annual report to stockholders.

Regimentation has prevailed in the handling of man power problems, as well as in all production, refining, transportation, and marketing activities, Dawes asserted. Free play of ordinary human incentives has been largely suspended. He warned that this condition will result in an "irreparable injury" to American enterprise and progress if extended beyond the war emergency.

"Devastating Effect Obvious."

"That the liaison between the government and the industry has taken place with success reflects favorably on both, but the devastating effect of regimentation is so obvious as to harden the determination to eliminate it as quickly as conditions permit," he said.

Net earnings rose to $16,392,173, or $3.13 a share, from $13,874,517, or $2.50 a share in 1943. The company paid $7,889,718 in dividends and $8,502,460 was added to earned surplus.

Dawes said that geological activities had been carried on with a larger force and more actively than at any time and resulted in expanded holdings of undeveloped acreage for development. He said no substitutes for petroleum products can be produced which will approach them in either economy or efficiency.

Sales Climb 14 Per Cent.

Studebaker corporation's sales in 1944, including charges to the government under cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts, swelled 14 per cent to $415,745,646 from $364,191,211 in 1943. Engines for Flying Fortresses, heavy duty military trucks, and M-29 cargo carriers [Weasels], represented the bulk of its war production, said H. S. Vance, chairman.

"Most of the Flying Fortresses operating over the many battle areas thruout the world, particularly over Germany, are powered by Studebaker built engines," he said.

After providing 1½ million dollars for contingencies, net income last year was $4,038,116, or $1.76 a share, compared with 1943 profit of $2,835,426, or $1.23 on a smaller number of shares then outstanding, after a similar contingency provision.

"WHY do you have a BANK look after your SECURITIES?"

"BECAUSE my bank makes things easy for me by supplying income tax records, taking care of my securities, carrying out orders to buy or sell, and helping me with my investment plans."

To obtain this service, inquire of our Trust Department as to an Agency Account With Investment Assistance.

For such an account we regularly do the following:

Care for all securities in the account;
Make delivery of any of the securities the owner sells, exchanges, or converts;
Buy securities for the account as the owner directs;
Clip coupons, collect dividends and other income and maturing principal;
Remit or deposit collections as directed;
Furnish itemized statements of transactions;
Inform the owner as to calls, subscription rights, stock dividends, reorganizations, and kindred matters;
Supply records for income tax purposes;
Make periodic analyses of the securities and discuss recommendations with owner.

The owner of the securities, wherever he or she may be, can control the account by letter or wire—it is not necessary to come to the bank.

An agency account can be opened with a simple letter of instructions and by bringing or sending us the securities. The account can be closed at any time as easily as it was opened. The cost is moderate.

'UNCLASSIFIED' BUSINESS MEETS JOB CUT ORDERS

Some Companies Receive Relief from WMC.

Banks, insurance companies, brokerage houses, and other "unclassified" businesses in Chicago generally have been able to comply with the war man power commission order to reduce their labor ceilings by today to 10 per cent below their year ago employment, a survey yesterday disclosed.

An initial cut of 5 per cent was effected Feb. 20 and the second cut of 5 per cent was to have been made by March 1, but the regional WMC extended the deadline to today. Several companies which were unable to make the reduction without undue hardship were given relief.

Get "Credit" for Women.

It was the intent of the WMC to make the reductions thru releasing male employes, but some companies were unable to do this without disrupting their organizations. The companies were given "credit" for women employes in meeting the required cut.

A spokesman for one of the larger loop banks said the order did not cause too much of a hardship because during the last year, thru the draft and other causes, the bank's employment was gradually lowered.

When the WMC order came thru, the employment had dropped to about 9 per cent below a year earlier. The bank received credit for the turnover of the last year, so the cut amounted to only 1 per cent.

Small Banks Have Trouble.

Another bank spokesman said in the case of the smaller banks more trouble was encountered. Many of these have obtained relief, or their cases were under consideration by the WMC, he reported.

A representative of one of the larger brokerage houses said it had been able to meet the WMC requirements in cutting down employment but that it was done at the cost of eliminating some business with a resultant cut in profits.

GRAIN FUTURES MOUNT; SHORT COVERING HEAVY

Reports that the government contemplates moving 100 million bushels of wheat to Atlantic and gulf ports for export in the next three months, which would further reduce the number of box cars available on western railroads to move wheat, corn, and other grains to terminal markets, induced aggressive buying of grain futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Altho profit taking shaded the best price wheat closed 1⅞ to 2⅛ cents higher. Corn gained ⅛ to ⅛; rye, ⅞ to 2⅜, and barley, ⅝ to 3 cents. Oats closed unchanged to ⅝ higher.

SUPPLY OF HOGS SLIDES; PRICES HOLD AT CEILING

Hog receipts at most large stock yards decreased again yesterday. Arrivals were 3 per cent less than last week's abnormally small supply and 65 per cent less than a year ago. Chicago prices held at ceilings.

Virtually no changes occurred on the cattle markets in Chicago. Prime steers were scarce. The best sold at $17.30 a hundred pounds and the bulk at $14.50 to $16.60. Other classes were steady. Lambs were steady to 10 cents higher.

WILSON & CO.

I have seen Wilson & Co. common listed among stocks believed to be in line for possible dividend action. What is the earnings record?—H. B.

Since Wilson & Co. cleared preferred dividend arrears last March the way has been open technically for resumption of dividends on the common stock. Directors, however, have pursued the more conservative course of retaining in the business surplus earnings above preferred dividend requirements.

Over a period of years the packing company has strengthened its finances. Long term debt was reduced to $17,774,000 as of last Oct. 28 from $24,265,000 in 1938. Meanwhile, net working capital had risen to $46,781,000 from $31,411,000.

The recent annual report, in referring to the clearing of preferred arrears, did not discuss common dividend possibilities. None has been paid since 1937.

Sales and earnings in the last four years have been substantially above the pre-war level. In the fiscal year ended Oct. 28, 1944, the profit was equal to $2.71 a common share. For other recent fiscal years: 1943, $2.73; 1942, $2.70; 1941, $2.56; 1940, 84 cents; 1939, 63 cents.

Record sales of $532,561,000 in 1944 compared with $272,885,000 in 1939. The outlook is for a smaller total meat supply in 1945 than last year.

Price Would Satisfy Outstanding Bonds.

BY AL CHASE.

Tenants in the 16 story apartment building at 1209 Astor st., to save their homes from being sold, have submitted an offer of $325,000 for the building to the Chicago Title & Trust company, trustee for the bondholders, it was learned yesterday.

If the offer is accepted outstanding bonds will be paid in full, it was said, and title will go to the 1209 Astor St. corporation, to be cooperatively owned by 25 of the 31 families in the building. Six of the suites will be rented to nonmembers of the cooperative project, it was said.

Carroll Sudler, of Sudler & Co., agent of the property, said the offer had been submitted when tenants learned that the building for the first time was available for purchase and might be bought by interests which would remodel and force out present tenants.

The building, containing 30 six and seven room apartments and a nine room penthouse, was built in 1927. It fronts 104 feet on the east side of Astor st., just north of Division st.

SENATORS AGREE ON CONTINUING OF SUBSIDY PLAN

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—Continued subsidies to hold down consumer prices of meat, butter and flour were approved today by a senate banking subcommittee. They were included in a measure authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to spend up to 1 billion 468 million in the 12 months beginning July 1 for subsidies which would be continued without change along present lines.

John D. Goodloe, RFC counsel, had asked congressional approval of legislation which would authorize subsidy expenditures in the year after June 30 up to these ceilings: Foreign exchanges other than rubber, 80 million dollars; rubber, 60 million; meat, 560 million; buter, 100 million; flour, 190 million; petroleum, 290 million; copper and other minerals, 88 million, and miscellaneous, 100 million.

PROTEST WPB CLOTHING RULE AS CAPRICIOUS

Washington, D. C., March 5 (AP).—Garment manufacturers and wool growers' representatives today protested a war production board directive intended to provide a larger supply of lower and medium priced clothing.

Describing the order as "arbitrary and capricious," the witnesses told members of the Smith house committee to investigate executive agencies that the directive is "completely unworkable."

They also protested a forthcoming directive to be issued by the office of price administration which would implement the WPB directive and roll back clothing prices to the 1942-'43 level.

Du Pont Builds 20 Million Plant for Military Nylon

Wilmington, Del., March 5 (AP).—Plans for construction of a 20 million dollar plant near Orange, Tex., to boost nylon production for military purposes at the request of the government were announced today by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.
